ROOSEVELT ASKS NEW ARMS FUND OF 552 MILLION

Message Plea Given Varied Reception.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's 552 million dollar program to strengthen our national defense against attack by foreign dictators was given to congress today and met with a varied reception. This would bring the total national defense appropriation for the year to $1,661,000,000.

Democratic leaders applauded the special message in which the President outlined his program and announced immediate steps to carry it into effect. Republican leaders were skeptical of the dangers envisaged by the President and attributed the "Roosevelt war scare" to his political necessity of diverting public attention from the failure of the New Deal and diverting relief and pump priming expenditures from WPA made work to the more popular undertaking of providing for the country's defense.

Vandenberg Scouts Danger.

"I am unable," said Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], "to concede the imminence of America's danger which the message by its urgency is calculated to imply, provided we mind our own business and keep out of other people's business and keep out of other people's wars. A sound America-first foreign policy is the best of all defenses. But any recommendation from the commander in chief demands prompt and open minded attention."

"The American people," said Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.], "still are in the dark as to what nation or nations intend to attack us. No airplane has yet been invented that can bomb our cities from European or Asiatic bases. It looks like another pump priming scheme done up in a red, white, and blue bowknot."

Pilot Training Commended.

Senator David I. Walsh [D., Mass.], chairman of the senate committee on naval affairs, said that the President's proposal to expand our air forces to the extent of 3,000 planes "will require thorough examination and sober consideration." He commended the plan for training air pilots and the recommendation of expansion of naval bases.

Representative Carl Vinson [D., Ga.], chairman of the house committee on naval affairs, said that the message proposes "exactly what the defense needs call for," and that he will introduce next week a bill providing for the 44 million dollar expansion of naval bases.

Proposed Allocations.

The President proposed to allocate the 552 millions as follows:

ARMY:
3,000 additional airplanes	$300,000,000
Emergency artillery and other "critical items"	110,000,000
Educational orders to industry.	32,000,000
Seacoast and Panama canal defenses	8,000,000
Increased garrison for Panama Canal Zone	27,000,000
NAVY:
Atlantic and Pacific bases	44,000,000
Additional airplanes	21,000,000
YOUTH ADMINISTRATION:
Training 20,000 air pilots	10,000,000

The present airplane authorization is 3,000 for the navy and 2,300 for the army. Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson has been beating the tom-toms for 7,000 more army planes. In confining his proposal to an additional 3,000 the President compromised between Johnson and the general staf, which holds that a smaller number would be more practicable in view of the rate of obsolescence.

Urges Immediate Steps.

In his message the President said that because of "changing world conditions outside of the American hemisphere," it is "imperative that we take immediate steps for the protection of our liberties." "Devoid of all hysteria," he concluded, "this program is but the minimum of requirements."

Mr. Roosevelt reminded congress that for more than a year after the declaration of war on Germany the United States prepared behind the protection of the allied armies and navies. Such protection in the next war cannot be guaranteed, though he hastened to give assurance that American participation in another European war is not contemplated.

DR. MORDOFF OF SONNY BOY FAME IS SLAIN BY KIN

Chicago Police Seize Brother-in-Law.

Dr. Gordon E. Mordoff, a central figure in the "Sonny Boy" paternity case tried in 1936, was shot and killed by an elderly gunman late yesterday afternoon. The shooting occurred on the second floor of a building at 1167 Wilmette avenue, Wilmette, in which Dr. Mordoff had offices.

The slayer fled. Late last night, however, the Chicago police arrested John Philip Quinn, 63 years old, a former convict and a brother-in-law of Dr. Mordoff, in his home at 8836 Euclid avenue. He confessed the killing to his captor, Sergt. Walter Czernikowski of the detective bureau.

Charges Sister Was Mistreated.

"I always hated Mordoff for the way he treated my sister," he declared. "I always thought his mistreatment drove her to her death three years ago. Now that he's gone I feel better."

The sergeant and his squad recovered the pistol used by Quinn in the back yard of the home. Then the confessed killer was taken to Wilmette and turned over to Chief of Police Cloyd McGuire. Quinn signed a confession after he had been questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Leslie Curtis. The slayer was taken to the Chicago detective bureau early today.

Quinn almost fell into police hands while driving home from Wilmette. He crashed his car into another one at the outer drive and 47th street. Park Policemen William Donnelly and Edward Begy questioned him, but did not hold him because he appeared sober and the damage was slight.

Stumbles Into Another's Office.

Occupants of the Wilmette building heard two shots shortly after 4 p. m. They had been fired in the corridor just outside Dr. Mordoff's office. A few seconds later Dr. Mordoff stumbled into the reception room of Dr. Floyd L. McGrath, who was in his examining room with a patient. Herbert N. Hill of 6548 Ross avenue.

The gunman followed. From the entrance of the reception room he fired again. The bullet missed but it crashed through the glass of Dr. McGrath's inner office door.

Then Dr. Mordoff swung that door open and stepped in. He was standing in front of the startled Dr. McGrath when the killer fired his fourth shot. It passed through Dr. Mordoff's body and struck Dr. McGrath. It was so spent, however, that Dr. McGrath was uninjured.

"Why don't you go away?" cried Dr. McGrath. "You've killed one man; do you want to kill two more?"

"I just wanted one," was the reply. "If he's dead I'm satisfied."

Warns Dentist and Girl.

With that he walked slowly into the corridor. There he passed Dr. Walter Schur, a dentist, and his office secretary, Miss Esther Pinkowski.

"You keep out of this," he warned.

Dr. Mordoff died in a few minutes without telling who shot him. Wilmette police got their first clew to Quinn as a suspect from Gordon Mordoff II., son of the physician, 2119 Birchwood avenue, Wilmette.

"Quinn, who was my mother's brother, was at my house Wednesday night," young Mordoff said. "He was looking for father. My wife saw a pistol in one of his pockets. I did not tell him where father was. But when he left I went to father's home at 1628 Central avenue and told him about Quinn. Father laughed it off."

Long Criminal Record.

Quinn's criminal record began in 1894 when he was sentenced to prison in Minnesota for assault to murder. He was paroled in 1897, returned to prison and released in 1901. In 1912 he was sentenced to Joliet for shooting a woman in Chicago. He was paroled in 1916 and discharged in 1918. In 1919 he was returned on a larceny conviction and was discharged in 1925.

The Mordoff baby trial concerned the parentage of a boy 3 years old. Dr. Mordoff claimed that this child had been born to his wife in 1932 in Minneapolis. Miss Margaret Mann contended that the boy was born to her in an orphanage and that Mrs. Mordoff, after promising to board the youngster for her, kept him and represented him as her own. Judge Rudolph Desort ruled for Miss Mann, now the wife of Alfred Fletcher, and gave her custody of the child, known through the trial as Sonny Boy.

Hitler Refuses to Let Goebbels Jail Schmeling

[Copyright: 1939: By New York News Syndicate, Inc.]

PARIS, Jan. 12.—Max Schmeling, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, and his wife, Anny Ondra, motion picture actress, were questioned for hours by Nazi authorities Monday and Tuesday, it was learned tonight.

Max Schmeling.

The fighter and his wife got into trouble for discussing in public the affair of Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Nazi minister of propaganda, with Lida Baarova, the film actress.

Goebbels demanded the arrest of the couple, who are two of the most popular persons in Germany, but this was summarily quashed by Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

Story Affirmed in Berlin.

Schmeling, at his country estate in Pomerania, today denied that he or his wife were in difficulties with the authorities. But the story of his run in with the propaganda chief was affirmed by several sources in Berlin. Here is what happened:

The Schmelings were guests last Saturday at a party given in a Berlin restaurant. The now widely, if cautiously, discussed subject of Goebbels' beating at the hands of friends of Gustav Froelich, husband of Miss Baarova, came up.

Remarking on Goebbels' interest in Miss Baarova, as well as in numerous other actresses over whom the propaganda czar holds a whiphand, Schmeling was supposed to have said:

"It's a lucky thing for Dr. Goebbels that he never tried to play with Anny, because I would have broken his neck."

Words Reported to Goebbels.

Schmeling's ill chosen words were reported to Goebbels. On Monday morning the fighter was summoned to the propaganda ministry for questioning. From Goebbels' headquarters he was escorted to several other Nazi offices. Members of the GSP, the German secret police, meanwhile questioned Schmeling's wife at her home. The investigation was continued on Tuesday.

With Hitler rejecting Goebbels' demand for their arrest, the Schmelings were allowed to retire to their country home Tuesday night.

Miss Ondra frequently has been a guest of Goebbels and on several occasions has gone to his home to listen to the broadcasts of her husband's fights in the United States. Last June when Schmeling's spine was injured in his New York City fight with Joe Louis, the champion, Goebbels expressed his sympathy and affection by sending a huge bouquet of flowers to Miss Ondra's home.

DEMAND GROWS FOR BIG SLASH IN FUND FOR WPA

New Dealers Battle Economy Sentiment.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt expects a fairy godmother to wave a magic wand and somehow rescue the country from financial ruin, Representative Clifton A. Woodrum of Virginia, ranking member of the house appropriations committee, declared on the house floor today.

Rep. C. A. Woodrum.

It was the boldest Democratic attack against the administration's fiscal policy yet heard in congress. The speech was received with wild approval by both Democratic and Republican members and sounded the keynote for opposition to Mr. Roosevelt's spending program by members of both parties.

Urges 17 Per Cent Slash.

Woodrum's address opened the battle in the house over the President's request for 875 millions of dollars to finance the Works Progress Administration from Feb. 1 to June 30. The house appropriations committee today approved, by a 20 to 12 vote, a sub-committee recommendation that the appropriation be reduced by 150 millions to a 725 million dollar figure. Woodrum urged approval of the 17 per cent slash.

[House appropriation committee's report on secret hearings on WPA fund measure censored before being sent to congress. Details on page 2.]

Mr. Roosevelt's congressional lieutenants fought desperately against the economy sentiment in the house. Debate raged until late in the day and will be resumed tomorrow morning. At 2 p. m. tomorrow, the consideration of amendments to the measure will begin with a final vote scheduled for tomorrow night. Supporters of the reduced appropriation appeared to be in the majority.

Refers to President's Message.

Woodrum referred in his speech to the President's annual message in which the Chief Executive voiced the theory that the problem of balancing the budget would be solved automatically when the national income reached 80 billions of dollars. In the meantime, there was nothing to worry about, the President assured congress.

"Our public thinking upon the subject of a balanced budget has, it seems to me, usually gone from one extreme to another," Woodrum said. "One school of thought demands that the budget be balanced and that public expenditures be brought back to the level of pre-depression times. This cannot be done. No administration during these last few tragic years would have dared undertake to have held its expenditures to the point of their budgetary requirements before the advent of these humanitarian enterprises for which this administration can take due and just credit.

Opposes Other Extreme.

"The other extreme of this school of thought is that we may rush on appropriating and spending without increasing our revenue and with no alarm over the increased national debt, and perhaps sometime, somewhere, somehow, a fairy godmother will wave a magic wand and pour a cornucopia of great wealth into our lap from which we may pay for our improvidence. I do not subscribe to that.

"I believe that our nation will be called upon to meet an annual budget of between seven and nine billion dollars. It should be nearer seven billion dollars. A return of prosperity and an increase of national income will automatically increase our revenue. As a legislative body, we have two duties to perform. One is to hold down these public expenditures to prevent an increase in our budget, to liquidate unnecessary functions of government, whenever possible, and

A Thief Calls $40,000 Crime Career a Flop

Chicago's ladder burglar told police last night of the futility of burglary. Climbing in and out of north side windows by ladder, he said, he stole $25,000 worth of jewelry and $15,000 cash in three years.

Yet he never had enough money to take care of his family. He was planning to give up crime and ask for a WPA job when he was shot in the legs and captured early Tuesday as he was entering an apartment in what he meant to be his last burglary.

The burglar is Michael Wojcik, 50 years old, of 2208 Le Moyne avenue, married and the father of a little girl.

First a Trousers Robber.

He began his crime career, he told Sergt. Harry Larson of the Albany Park police, looting first floor apartments with a long pole that he used to fish trousers from bedrooms for the cash in the pockets.

Then he began tramping alleys looking for ladders. When he found one, he would climb in all the second story windows time permitted. Sometimes he robbed as many as six in the two hours that he worked—3 to 5 a. m., when, he said, people sleep most soundly.

When he began to find latched windows he bought a drill to bore holes in the window frames, inserted a wire, and unlatched the windows.

Met Other Thieves at Work.

No fewer than twelve times, he said, he found other burglars in apartments he was robbing. All but one worked with him and shared the loot. The twelfth agreed to do so, and then fled with the spoils.

"I never went into an apartment unless I could hear some one snoring or breathing," the ladder burglar said. "If I heard nothing, I decided I had awakened the people and they were awaiting with a gun.

"I never went into an apartment if there was a light on."

Sometimes the burglar had rich hauls in cash, but he gambled it away. He estimated the fortune in jewelry he took brought him about $500 when he sold it piece by piece to "fences" who knew it must be stolen.

There was never more than a dollar or two a day, he said, to give his wife. His wife knew he was unemployed, but he told her he won the money playing poker. And she always thought he must be lucky.

DUCE'S BOY SOLDIERS PLAY 'FIRING SQUAD'; CHAMBERLAIN IS 'IT'

ROME, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain today faced a "firing squad" of a Balilla squadron, fifty lads from 6 to 8 years old, during a Fascist youth display.

The boys, who marched with bayonets fixed on miniature rifles, suddenly flung themselves on the ground and took direct aim at the British statesman.

Chamberlain was amused—until marines fired blanks in small naval guns in the exhibition arena. The explosions startled him so that his famed umbrella wavered, and he nearly lost his balance.

Things come in doubles for Theodore F. Eckman of Theresa, Wis.

On May 31, 1938, two of his ewes each gave birth to twin lambs. On Aug. 25 his hefer cow had twin calves. And then his wife, Elsie, gave birth to twin daughters Wednesday night in Passavant hospital.

Eckman, who formerly lived in Chicago, is 40 years old. His wife is 38. The twin girls weighed nearly 12 pounds, although Mrs. Eckman herself weighs only 87.

Soldiers Slay Cedillo, Mexico Rebel Leader

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Former Gen. Saturnino Cedillo, leader of an abortive uprising against President Lazaro Cardenas last spring, was killed yesterday in a brush with federal troops, the war department disclosed today. Cedillo, long the dictator of San Luis Potosi state, met death in the rugged mountains of that region in central Mexico. He had evaded pursuing troops there for seven months.

Matehuala, near where Cedillo was slain in San Luis Potosi state [in black] indicated by arrow.

The war department said his body, "fully identified," was found after troops dispersed a band of seventeen rebels headed by Cedillo in the La Ventana mountains near Matehuala.

Breaks with Cardenas.

Also left on the field after a battle of thirty-five minutes was the body of Elodio Cedillo, identified as a relative of Saturnino Cedillo. The commander of San Luis Potosi was ordered to send the former dictator's body to the Cedillo ranch to be surrendered to his family.

A Mexican Indian about 46 years old, Cedillo was secretary of agriculture in Cardenas' cabinet until 1937. He broke with the president then because he held that division of farm lands among the peons was being carried out too rapidly.

Capture Seemed Impossible.

Cedillo retired to his Las Palomas ranch where he had at his disposal a peasant army of 18,000 men. When the government considered it certain the provincial dictator was leading an agrarian revolt, a punitive expedition was sent against him under the direction of the president.

Cedillo was reported to be near death from a heart ailment many times while evading capture. Until yesterday his capture had seemed impossible because of legions of friends believed to be aiding him and because of his familiarity with the rugged country in which he was hiding.

Calls Request Excessive.

The 875 million dollar request is excessive, Woodrum said. The 725 million dollar appropriation provides for a reasonable tapering off of the work relief rolls as private employment picks up in the spring months, he said.

While the house prepared for tomorrow's vote, Senator James F. Byrnes [D., S. C.], chairman of the senate unemployment and relief committee, announced he was preparing a series of amendments to be tacked on the appropriation bill when it reaches the senate. State administrators will be forced to distribute funds in accordance with actual unemployment figures if these amendments are adopted.

Taber Leads Minority Debate.

The Republican minority debate on the bill was led by Representative John Taber of New York. He said he would propose an amendment appropriating 300 millions to carry the WPA to April. In the meantime, congress would be directed to formulate a definite program to take politics out of the work relief agency.

Representative Eugene E. Cox [D., Ga.] backed up the Democratic assault upon the President's 875 million dollar request. He charged that the WPA "has functioned in a manner to support the charge that it was tied up with the communist party."

The majority report on the bill quoted the President's own words in his recent annual message that "we have reversed a recession and started the new rising tide of prosperity and national income" as a reason for the 150 million dollar reduction.

The post election cuts in WPA pay rolls also boomeranged against the administration. Pointing out that nearly 300,000 persons have been removed from the rolls since the Nov. 8 election, the report argued that these reductions pointed to a lessening need for work relief employment.

ALASKAN JUDGE RULES IN FAVOR OF U. S. COLONIST

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Federal Judge Simon Hellenthal today sustained a demurrer by Walter Pippel, Matanuska colonist opposing government ejection proceedings. The judge then permitted the Alaska Rural Rehabilitation corporation, which is attempting the ouster, to amend its complaint.

Pippel contended the corporation had no right to bring suit because it failed to set forth it had paid the territorial corporation tax. Colony heads seek to oust Pippel, who was reported to have made $11,000 the past two years, because he declines to market his products through the marketing coöperative.

Warren N. Cuddy, Pippel's attorney, said another demurrer would be filed on the same grounds. He said the amendment did not meet the issue. The same rulings were entered for three other colonists.

FEDERAL AGENTS SEIZE 2 MEN IN EXTORTION PLOT

Waltham, Mass., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Federal bureau of investigation officers tonight seized two men in an alleged attempt to extort $2,000 from Robert Treat Paine, 72 years old, socially prominent lawyer and a descendant of Robert Treat Paine, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. V. W. Peterson, head of the federal bureau of investigation's Boston office, said one of the men, booked as James Philip Penney, 58, of Waltham, had confessed to sending three letters threatening the life of Paine. Peterson named the other man as Thomas Patrick Sweeney, 32, also of Waltham.

CENSORED WPA HEARING REPORT SENT CONGRESS

Parts of Administrator's Testimony Deleted.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—The house appropriations committee suppressed a part of the testimony of Col. F. C. Harrington, head of the Works Progress administration, in publishing the record of secret hearings on the WPA appropriation measure. That was learned today.

Harrington told the committee, it was reported, that wide-spread riots would occur in the United States if the number of WPA workers, now totaling 3,077,000, was reduced to 1,000,000 by next June 30. This assertion was eliminated from the transcript of the hearings released today.

Debate Lower Appropriation.

Col. Harrington was asked by Representative Clarence Cannon [D., Mo.], how many WPA employés would have to be discharged if $600,000,000 were appropriated by congress instead of the $875,000,000 requested by President Roosevelt.

The WPA head calculated that the 3,000,000 persons now on the rolls would have to be reduced gradually until only 1,000,000 were left by the end of June. He declared the other 2,000,000 are the support of from seven to eight million persons.

"If you were to leave the support of these 8,000,000 people either to industry or to the states, what do you think would be the effect?" asked Cannon, who has been leading the administration's fight for the 875 million dollar figure.

Some Testimony Omitted.

The transcript recorded that Col. Harrington made a statement off the record. It was learned that large chunks of testimony both by Harrington and members of the committee were omitted at this point. But the official record picked up Cannon's significant remark:

"You think then that people would refuse to starve peaceably?"

"I certainly do," replied Harrington.

The testimony was omitted, it was reported, because a majority of the committee felt that Harrington's remarks were part of an administration program to "scare" congress into agreeing to the President's figures. Representative Clifton A. Woodrum [D., Va.], expressed doubt concerning the correctness of Harrington's estimate that 2,000,000 workers would have to be fired under a 600 million dollar appropriation.

Harrington Is Embarrassed.

Publication of the hearings revealed that Harrington was embarrassed when asked by committee members to explain why WPA enrollment figures mounted steadily before the November elections and were sharply reduced immediately thereafter.

"Why for example," asked Representative William P. Lambertson [R., Kas.], "did the WPA spend $14,000,000 in Illinois in September jump that figure to $19,000,000 in October, and then drop it to $15,000,000 in November? Can that be explained by the unemployment situation?"

Harrington, who did not succeed Harry L. Hopkins until December, attempted to explain by saying "that a number of factors" entered into the situation.

Sees Work Program for Years.

Asked if the WPA ever would be liquidated or if it would become a permanent institution, Harrington answered:

"I would hate to make predictions extending beyond a limited period. I would say that for the next decade the federal government is going to have to conduct some kind of a work program."

The committee inquired about the political activities of WPA employés. Harrington said that the agency had investigated hundreds of complaints and found those against seventy-two persons to be true. Sixty-five of those found guilty were discharged, five reprimanded, and two suspended, he testified.

The WPA administrator also was asked to put into the record a table of salaries received by administrative employés in 1938. There was one $12,000 post, he reported. This was the salary received by Hopkins, but not by Harrington, who retains his $5,600 salary as an army colonel in order to keep his army status.

Five WPA officials receive $9,000 to $10,000 yearly, Harrington reported. There are seven $8,000 to $9,000 posts, ten $7,000 to $8,000 posts, seventy-eight $6,000 to $7,000 posts, 104 $5,000 to $6,000 posts, 397 $4,000 to $5,000 posts, and 1,308 $3,000 to $4,000 posts. Less than $3,000 yearly is received by the remaining 25,569 administrative employés.

Harrington told the committee that $17,500,000 had been spent in the last six months on theater, music, art, writing, and historical record projects of the WPA. About 33,500 persons now are employed on these projects, he said.

QUIZ COMMITTEE VOTES APPROVAL OF FRANKFURTER

Supreme Court Nominee Denies Being Red.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—After much verbal fencing and evasion by indirection, Prof. Felix Frankfurter, President Roosevelt's nominee for the United States Supreme court, finally denied today that he is a communist or an adherent of the communist doctrin.

Following Frankfurter's appearance and testimony, the nine member senate judiciary subcommittee considering his nomination met in executive session and voted unanimously to recommend his confirmation.

Frankfurter was the second Supreme court nominee in the history of the United States to be called before the senate judiciary committee for questioning on the subject of his qualifications and fitness for that office. The other one was Justice Harlan Fiske Stone, who was appointed by President Coolidge.

Quizzed on Communism.

The fact that Frankfurter was asked point blank, "Are you a communist?" was significant, because it resulted from the senate's experience in rushing through the confirmation of former Senator Hugo L. Black without asking him: "Are you or have you ever been a member of the Ku Klux Klan?" Black was forced to confess, after his confirmation as a Supreme court justice, that he had been a Kluxer.

Members of the judiciary committee refused to call Black, dismissing as preposterous the suggestion that President Roosevelt would appoint a Kluxer to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Apparently their doubts that Mr. Roosevelt would appoint a communist to the bench were not so strong, for they did call Frankfurter.

Obtains Direct Denial.

Senator Matthew M. Neely [D., W. Va.], chairman of the subcommittee and a New Deal yes-man, finally sought and obtained a direct denial from Frankfurter after he had persistently refused, under interrogation by Senator Pat McCarran [D., Nev.] and Senator William H. King [D., Utah] to repudiate communism.

"Are you or have you ever been a communist?" asked Senator Neely.

"I am not now and I have never been a communist," Frankfurter replied.

"Do you mean by that you are not enrolled as a member of the communist party?" asked Senator McCarran.

"I mean more than that," said Frankfurter, sharply. "I mean that I never was enrolled and never was qualified to be enrolled as a member because that does not represent my view of life or my view of government!"

Questioned on Book.

Senator McCarran sought unsuccessfully to obtain from the witness a repudiation of the communist doctrin as expressed in "Communism," a book by his friend, Prof. Harold Laski, an Englishman and former teacher at Harvard university. Frankfurter, a professor of law at Harvard since 1914, said Norman Hapgood brought Prof. Laski to him and that Laski eventually became a teacher at Harvard.

The witness at first said he had read Laski's books, but could not answer as to whether he agreed with his doctrin.

"He has written twelve or fifteen or twenty books," Frankfurter said. "How can I say I agree with his doctrin? That implies that he has a doctrin."

Senator King asked Frankfurter whether he believed in the ideology of Marx or Trotsky.

Nominee States Stand.

"It would be terribly easy for me to answer that question Senator King," said Frankfurter. "I withhold any further discussion, not because there is any secret about my views or feelings, but because I am in a position in which I cannot help it.

"It may be that I shall be called to a position that might be very embarrassing. If I were before this committee for any political office nothing would give me more pleasure than to pursue the line of inquiry of Senator McCarran and Senator King.

"I think I can appeal to the common understanding of lawyers that this is not a situation in which one can speak freely. You will have to decide, in the light of my whole life, what devotion I have to the American system of government."

Caucus Room Jammed.

The senate caucus room was jammed with approximately 1,000 spectators—New Deal lawyers, burocrats, and their wives and friends, and left wingers from various groups—when Prof. Frankfurter arrived.

Frankfurter, a little man, 56 years old, with small, sharp eyes behind his pince nez, was nervous in the glare of the flood lights of the news reel camera men.

He made a preliminary statement implying that he did not wish to be asked about his views on the President's scheme to pack the Supreme court, and his wishes were respected. But he was asked to identify, and he reaffirmed, a passage in one of his articles opposing any increase in the membership of the court.

Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho], and later Senator McCarran, went over Frankfurter's entire record as an associate of communists on the national committee of the American Civil Liberties union and as a defender of radicals in the name of civil liberties.

Denies League Is Red.

Frankfurter said he may have been asked by "Mr. Roger Baldwin himself," executive director of the A. C. L. U., to become a member of its national committee when the organization was formed "during the hysteria" after the world war.

He denied that the A. C. L. U. was communistic and said he had not read the reports of the Dies and Fish committees of congress and the Lusk committee of the New York state legislature calling the organization communistic.

The A. C. L. U., he said, has defended the civil liberties of Ku Klux Klansmen desiring permission to hold a parade, of Nazis and Fascists, and of employers, including Henry Ford, against the contention of the national labor relations board that it is an unfair labor practice to circularize employés.

Held in Vote Fraud

Informations charging fraud in the April 12 primary were filed yesterday against five more polls officials of the 24th ward. Six precincts now have been involved in prosecutions. Those named yesterday—all from the 5th precinct—are:

Myron Faier, 1123 Independence boulevard, Democratic judge; Oscar Tucker, 3626 Grenshaw street, Republican judge; Nicholas De Fablo, 3638 Grenshaw street, Republican judge; Hyman Feigenberg, 1135 Independence boulevard, Democratic clerk, and Edith Goldfarb, 3632 Grenshaw street, Republican clerk. They will be arraigned tomorrow before County Judge Jarecki.

Three judges of the 3d precinct and five officials of the 61st precinct, 24th ward, surrendered in the County court yesterday on contempt charges and posted $2,500 bonds each. They are:

Third precinct: Joseph Levey, 3840 Fillmore street, Democrat; Sydney Bank, 3911 Grenshaw street, and Harold Burmeister, 3925 Fillmore street, Republicans.

Sixty-first precinct: Emanuel Solomon, 3909 West 16th street, Democratic judge; Ben L. Orloff, 3919 West 16th street, and Margaret Jennings, 1651 South Harding avenue, Republican judges; Margaret Malee, 1649 South Harding avenue, Democratic clerk, and Frank Freedman, 1634 South Harding avenue, Republican clerk.

Accused officials of the 33d precinct of the same ward who were to have been tried yesterday were given a continuance until today because Judge Jarecki was ill.

SEEK TO IDENTIFY HEART VICTIM.
Desplaines street police yesterday were seeking the identity of a man about 48 years old who died in County hospital of a heart attack after being found unconscious at the rear of 666 Lake street.

CASHIER STEALS $31,000 TO KEEP LOVE OF DANCER

Confesses Thefts from His Employers.

For ten years Harry C. Thon lived a circumspect married life in suburban Woodstock, in McHenry county. He was the son of an old and respected family, a member of the Woodstock Country club, and took part in community social affairs.

Harry C. Thon.

Yesterday Thon was under arrest as an embezzler. State's attorney's police had him in custody on a charge of taking $31,000 from the American Automobile Insurance company, 175 West Jackson boulevard, where he was a $275 a month office manager and cashier. He confessed.

Meets Night Club Dancer.

As Thon, who is 38 years old, told his story, this is what happened:

Two years ago he went to a night club on the south side. There he became infatuated with a dancer, Mercedes de Velasco, known professionally as Princess Nadja. He impressed her with a mash note written in Spanish. She went to live with him in a swank north side hotel.

Thon then took $20,000 from his company to support the dancer in a style to which she quickly became accustomed. When he decided to break up the affair, he took another $11,000 to recoup his losses at gambling. That money, too, was lost.

Thon told Assistant State's Attorney Nathan Kinnally and Vernon Thompson that he was able to take the money without being detected by juggling his accounts. When a customer paid, he took some of that money and used portions of the remainder to cover up prior losses.

Tells Story to Official.

On Wednesday night, Thon said, he was so hopelessly involved and conscience stricken that he went to an official of the company and told his story. The official notified the state's attorney's office.

Yesterday Thon was worried more about his wife, Ava, than his own future.

"I hope my wife will stand by me," he told Prosecutor Thompson, "but I know I have no claim on her."

Mrs. Thon went to the state's attorney's office as soon as she learned of the arrest.

"I'm stunned," Mrs. Thon said. "I knew nothing of this. My husband was away some nights but he told me it was on business. I haven't had time to think about it, but, of course, I'll stand by him. We have been married 12 years."

And the dancer? Thon said she is now in California, where she occasionally gets bit parts in the movies.

LORETTA YOUNG GOES TO AID OF FRIEND BUCKNER

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Loretta Young, film actress, went to the aid today of her boy friend, William P. Buckner Jr., charged with mail fraud and conspiracy to manipulate the price of bonds of the Philippine Railway company.

She was one of several Hollywood figures who testified before Assistant Federal District Attorney John Walsh and Louis Maged, SEC investigator, who are trying to learn more of Buckner's activities through his filmland friends.

Investigators believed Loretta might have important information on the case. It also was reported government agents feared Buckner and Miss Young might wed, and in such case Loretta could refuse to testify against him. But she said she knew nothing about the case.

"Yes, I know Mr. Buckner," Loretta said. "You might say I know him very well. Am I going to marry him? O, come now, I'm not giving out any statements on that subject. I don't think I should talk to you at all without advice of counsel."

U. S. CONVICTS 2D GERMAN ON CANAL ZONE SPY CHARGE

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, Jan. 12.—(AP)—A federal court jury today convicted the second of two Germans, Robert E. Kuhrig, of spying in the Panama Canal Zone. Kuhrig was given until Jan. 20 to file a motion for a new trial. Judge Bunk Gardner was expected to rule the same day on a similar motion for Hans Heinrich Schackow, 26 years old. He was convicted Dec. 14 of photographing vital zones of defense.

Robert E. Kuhrig.

Kuhrig, who is 29 years old, was found guilty by a jury after seven hours' deliberation. It had listened for a week to testimony and arguments in which the prosecution announced the government expected to bring from the United States an unnamed former soldier who, it was testified, promised aid to the Germans.

The government said the soldier, since discharged, has been traced and will be in Cristobal for the trial of the other two German defendants, Gisbert Wilhelm Gross, 26 years old, and Ingeborg Waltraunt Gutmann, 19 years old, a woman. The four were arrested on the Fort Randolph reservation on Oct. 16.

HOPKINS FACES NEW INQUIRY ON POLITICS IN WPA

Committee Quiz Expected on All Deals.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—The senate commerce committee's inquiry into the fitness and qualifications of Harry L. Hopkins to be secretary of commerce took a course today that may presage a general investigation of politics in the Works Progress administration.

Today's session was adjourned until tomorrow when Hopkins, former administrator of the WPA, demanded the right to produce WPA records, including reports from state administrators, before being questioned further regarding the report of the senate campaign expenditures committee.

Hopkins yesterday admitted the truth of the campaign expenditures committee's findings respecting the Kentucky senatorial primary last summer, and said the WPA corruption in that state was so great that he should have fired the whole administrative force.

Admits Playing Politics.

Hopkins also confessed that his own political activities, while relief administrator and chief spender of the Roosevelt administration, were wrong.

Senator Hiram W. Johnson [R., Cal.] said he was not competent to examine Hopkins concerning the charges made by the campaign committee because he had not been a member of that body. "But," he added, "if no other senator proceeds along that line, I will."

Senator Wallace H. White [R., Me.] said he did not wish to continue the cross-examination he began yesterday [with respect to Kentucky] because it would put him in the position of judge of the WPA as a member of the campaign committee and prosecutor of the WPA as a member of the commerce committee.

Seeks to Present Details.

Then Hopkins said he would rest his case on whether any member of the campaign committee thought the report reflected on his own integrity in such manner as to make him unfit for the office of secretary of commerce.

"If I discuss the report, I want to have all the details and data before me," Hopkins said. "I am perfectly willing to let any one or all the members of the Sheppard committee state if they think that I should not be confirmed by the senate and I say that knowing that members of the committee thought I should have acted differently."

Hopkins then was given permission to produce his records, and the hearing was adjourned.

Pope Appointment Confirmed.

The senate today confirmed, without a record vote, the first of President Roosevelt's recent appointments—that of former Senator James P. Pope [D., Idaho], a New Deal lame duck, to be a member of the board of the Tennessee Valley authority. Senator H. Styles Bridges [R., N. H.] protested in vain that the appointment was illegal, because President Roosevelt had illegally removed former Chairman Arthur E. Morgan from the TVA board and thus no vacancy existed.

Consideration by a senate judiciary subcommittee of another Roosevelt appointment—that of Frank Murphy, defeated former governor of Michigan, as attorney general of the United States—was reopened today.

The subcommittee previously had voted to recommend Murphy's confirmation. Chairman Marvel M. Logan [D., Ky.] said Murphy wanted to testify concerning his conduct in the C. I. O. sitdown strike crisis in Michigan and that a hearing would be conducted tomorrow for that purpose. Murphy's toleration of the communist-led sitdown strikes is expected to be an issue in senate debate on his confirmation.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS; DIES.

Stanley Krmeic, 48 years old, 208 North Halsted street, died yesterday of a heart attack in the county hospital shortly after he had been found unconscious in an alley behind 666 Lake street.

GEN. WOOD HITS HOPKINS' REMARK ABOUT PAY ROLLS

Cites Long Experience in Meeting Them.

Gen. Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., yesterday objected to the statement made by Harry L. Hopkins that he [Gen. Wood] "had never had to meet a pay roll" when he became head of that big merchandising corporation in 1928.

Gen. R. E. Wood.

Hopkins, appearing before the senate commerce committee in Washington on Wednesday, had sought to convince the senators that he was qualified for the job of secretary of commerce, even though his experience in business has been limited to social work and government positions. Although Hopkins has been named for the secretaryship by President Roosevelt, the appointment must be confirmed by the senate.

"I know it will be said that I have never had to meet a pay roll," Hopkins told the committee. "Well, Gen. [Robert E.] Wood had never met a pay roll when he became head of Sears-Roebuck."

Woods Disputes Statement.

Asked about this statement yesterday, Gen. Wood said: "It is not accurate. I had ten years' experience in 'meeting pay rolls' in private industry before I became president of Sears-Roebuck."

"When I left the army in 1915," Gen. Wood said, "I took a position as assistant to the president of General Asphalt company, holding that job for a year and a half. Then I went into the army again during the world war. In 1919, after the armistice, I went with Montgomery Ward & Co., where I served as vice president and general merchandise manager for five years.

"In 1924 I went to Sears, Roebuck as vice president in charge of factories and stores and was elected to the presidency in 1928. Thus, I had ten years of experience in 'meeting pay rolls' in private business before becoming president of Sears."

Army Training Along That Line.

Gen. Wood's record in "Who's Who" discloses that even while in the army his training and experience were of a type which made him particularly qualified for the work which he later took up in private business.

Prior to 1915 he had participated in the work of building the Panama canal, having been chief quartermaster and director of the Panama Railroad company. In 1918 and 1919 he was acting quartermaster general of the United States army.

NURSE SCREAMS 'INHALATOR' INTO PHONE—TOO LATE

Mrs. Marion Parks, a nurse, returned to her home at 208 South 17th avenue, Maywood, last night, read a note on the table, and then ran to the phone and screamed one word—"Inhalator!"

The note was from her husband, Curtis W. Parks, 38 years old, a bus driver and motorman for the Chicago and West Towns Railway company. It read: "Marion: You will find me in the garage. Forgive me for what I have done to you."

The telephone call by Mrs. Parks was traced to her home by an operator, who notified the police. An inhalator squad raced to the scene and found Parks slumped in his car in the garage. The motor was running. Parks was dead.

WESTERN SPRINGS GIVES LAND FOR SEWAGE PLANT

Sanitary district trustees were notified yesterday that the village of Western Springs, which is served by the district, has donated a plot of ground near 55th street and Fair Elms avenue for the construction of a new sewage pumping station. At the present time sewage from the south portion of the suburb is pumped by a small station into the neighboring Hinsdale treatment works. The sanitary district pays Hinsdale, which is outside the district, $500 a month for treating the sewage. WPA labor will be used on the new plant.

Oak Lawn approved, 581 to 392, a $216,000 bond issue for a sewage disposal plant and water softener. The funds are to supplement a $297,000 Public Works administration grant.

NYA HEAD HUSHES A REPORT WHICH UPSETS HIS IDEAS

Angered by Findings in Youth Job Study.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—National Youth Administrator Aubrey Williams recently borrowed a leaf from the conduct book of his chief, President Roosevelt, and suppressed a report unfavorable to his alphabetical units.

The President last spring suppressed a report on the cost of living he had ordered made by the federal trade commission because it did not support his theory of the cause of the depression. The presidential suppression was disclosed in the annual report of the commission.

Williams also ordered the report which he suppressed. He instigated an exhaustive study of employment of the nation's youth. For three months a division of his office was engaged in charting the result of efforts of young people to obtain employment.

Shows Employment Rise.

The report, which was recently placed on Williams' desk, showed that employment of the nation's youth is rising and is now far better than it has been at any time since 1929.

Williams, it was learned, read the report with mounting indignation and roared a summons for its author. When the latter came into Williams' office he was rewarded with a verbal castigation where he had expected praise.

Williams shouted that the report couldn't be true. The compiler answered that the study was exhaustive and declared that he stood by its results. Williams then demanded to know how the NYA could continue to exist if such reports were returned by its staf.

Williams said that if the figures in the report were correct then American youths must be obtaining jobs for which they are being grossly underpaid so that the report was in reality untrue and should be suppressed. The compiler, who owes his place to Williams' favor, left hastily.

Roosevelt Theory Set Forth.

The report which the President suppressed was delivered to him by the FTC last April 29. It was ordered by him Nov. 16, 1937, when he acknowledged that the country was in the grip of a depression despite all the recovery efforts of his administration.

In his letter of request to the FTC commissioners, Mr. Roosevelt said that his attention had been directed to a marked increase in the cost of living "attributable, in part, to monopolistic practices and other unwholesome methods of competition."

The letter was widely interpreted as an effort to blame the depression and the high cost of living on big business, the administration's favorite whipping horse.

The FTC explored the question for five months and was unable to find data supporting the President's position. The investigators found that big business brought lower prices, according to reports.

Price Fixing Given Blame.

They also found, it was further reported, that the Miller-Tydings retail price fixing act, which the President signed, boosted the cost of living because it encouraged price fixing, rather than competition, all the way down from the manufacturer to retailer.

The FTC report was carefully worded, it is understood, to spare the President's feelings, but its conclusions that the President was in error in his supposition that big business was responsible for the increase in the cost of living were unmistakable. The report was never made public.

The TVA suppressed its financial reports for several years.

In the department of agriculture, AAA officials suppressed an adverse report on the administration's cotton scarcity program, composed by the bureau of economics, and then doctored up the report to suit themselves before making it public.

REP. DIES BLASTS ALIEN BORERS IN AMERICAN LABOR

Demands Enforcement of Deportation Law.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Congressman Martin Dies [D., Tex.] demanded last evening that Secretary of Labor Perkins either deport Harry Bridges, west coast C. I. O. czar, as an alien communist or relinquish her office to an official who will uphold the law. He spoke at the Stevens hotel at the annual banquet of the Employers Association of Chicago.

Dies, chairman of the congressional committee to investigate un-American activities, drew attention again to efforts being made by radical organizations and left wingers in the Roosevelt administration to prevent appropriations by congress that his committee may continue its work.

Asks What Officials Fear.

"Why are high ranking government officials so fearful of the committee?" he demanded. "Why are they turning heaven and earth to prevent the committee's fearless exposures?"

He posed these questions after he had declared that from its start the committee's investigation was never aimed at labor, and never attempted to discredit legitimate labor organizations. It did, he said, seek to expose the forces that are seeking to bore from within the labor movement and use it as a tool in establishing some form of regimentation corresponding to European ideas of communism, fascism, and Nazi-ism.

"When the campaign to organize the heavy industries was started," said Dies, "the communists stepped in. That statement is not based on the evidence of stool pigeons or labor spies, but on the testimony of Homer Martin, of David Dubinsky, and other leaders of labor. They told how the communists seized strategic positions and were able to convert some labor organizations into instrumentalities of communism in the United States.

Tells Record of Bridges.

"On the west coast a proved alien communist has engineered numerous acts of violence, sitdown strikes and unauthorized strikes. He wields political power in the United States although he is not a citizen of the United States. Harry Bridges defies deportation.

"It is time to say to the department of labor, 'Enforce the law of the United States regardless of politics or expediency, or resign and let some official take office who will do his duty.'

"Numerous other cases of communist, Fascist and Nazi organizers, aliens, who have been left free to carry on their agitation, may be traced to the failure of the department of labor to enforce the laws of the land."

There never can be a compromise between the fundamental principles of the United States and the pagan philosophy of Europe, Congressman Dies said. Communism, Naziism and Fascism, he said, may varv in details but all rest on the principle that there are no rights the ruling class need respect or protect, with the result that the people become slaves of the state.

Laboring people, he added, have always been the first to feel the pain of regimentation, whether in Germany, Russia, or Italy.

"Phrase makers," declared Congressman Dies, "are often more dangerous than war makers. Take the term 'liberal.' One might suppose that the word is derived from liberty, but lately we have had a horde of people who attempt to confuse the term liberalism with some system of regimentation based on planned economy."

That sort of regimentation, he said, is neither new nor liberal. It goes back to Julius Caesar, who destroyed the Roman republic by promising the poor that they would be fed from the public granaries.

Dispatches from New York last night announced that the national Americanism award committee had chosen Congressman Dies to receive its 1938 award for outstanding patriotic service.

FORMER PRISON AID CONVICTED IN HEAT PUNISHMENT DEATH

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Frank A. Craven, former deputy warden of the Philadelphia county prison, was convicted of involuntary manslaughter tonight in the death of one of four convicts last summer in superheated punishment cells.

The conviction carries a possible penalty of eighteen months to three years' imprisonment. A jury of seven men and five women deliberated three hours. They ignored the prosecution's request for a second degree murder verdict.

The verdict climaxed a week's trial, in which evidence was presented that Craven was in complete charge of the prison when twenty-five convicts were herded into a punishment building heated by a battery of steam radiators. The convicts had gone on a hunger strike.

Empty Aurora Cells Bring a Horrid Thought to Jailer

John Milligan, the city jailer of Aurora, was on an unwanted vacation yesterday. He had to quit work because there were no prisoners. "It's been years since we had a situation like it," Milligan said. "It's bad, for me, because if there are no prisoners the city may decide it doesn't need a jailer." He appealed to Aurora police for help.

HITLER AND 52 DIPLOMATS HAIL 'MUNICH PEACE'

Greetings Exchanged at Berlin Reception.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—Adolf Hitler and the Berlin diplomatic corps praised the "peace of Munich" today at the traditional New Year's reception, which was held in the Fuehrer's glittering new chancellery. The reception, following the precedent set two years ago, had been postponed from Jan. 1, so diplomats did not need to interrupt their Christmas and New Year holidays.

In exchanging greetings Hitler and Msgr. Cesare Orsenigo, papal nuncio and dean of the diplomatic corps, expressed the hope that all international differences would be settled by the means used at Munich. Germany won the Sudetenland from Czecho-Slovakia under the Munich agreement.

Hails Creators of Accord.

"This day [Sept. 30] on which the four statesmen met in Germany, so to speak unexpectedly, in order in a difficult hour to sign an accord that was decisive for peace, filled all people with joy," said Msgr. Orsenigo. "As the representatives of these peoples, who fervently acclaimed the peace, we are happy at the end of this historic year publicly to honor the courageous creators of this accord and at the same time to give expression to the thanks which every friend of peace feels himself under obligations to extend."

[Hitler, Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain, Premier Daladier of France, and Premier Mussolini of Italy negotiated the Munich pact.]

In his reply, Hitler said the German nation realized "with deep thankfulness that 1938 brought our people the realization of our unbarterable rights of self-determination. If this has been obtained without the peace of Europe being disturbed for a single day this was largely due to the policy of wise understanding of the powers which found its expression in Munich.

"To my opinion the hope is justified that also in the future the understanding of the leading statesmen will succeed in giving Europe that peace which will do justice to the natural and justified interests of the people to the highest possible degree."

U. S. Ambassador Absent.

After the ceremony Hitler, who wore the brown Nazi party uniform with a swastika armband instead of the customary evening dress, conversed with the fifty-two diplomats present.

The United States as well as Rumania were represented by chargés d'affaires since both Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson and the Rumanian minister, Radu T. Djuvara, were summoned home. Wilson was called to Washington, D. C., to report on anti-Semitism in Germany.

Hitler spent considerable time with Robert Coulondre, French ambassador, and A. T. Merekalov, the new soviet envoy. The latter's car, adorned with the sickle and hammer emblem of the soviet, aroused the curiosity of spectators outside the chancellery.

Earlier in the day Hitler received New Year's greetings from the chiefs of his armed forces.

BRITISH-ITALIAN TALKS IN ROME END IN FAILURE

Chamberlain, Mussolini Deadlocked.

ROME, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini and Prime Minister Chamberlain ended tonight their face to face talks in which they explained, without completely reconciling, their points of view on Europe's troubles. Tomorrow Chamberlain will have an audience with Pope Pius XI. and on Saturday will leave for home.

Both Il Duce and the British leader refrained from entering into any deal whatever to settle any problems. Included among these problems are Italy's demands on France for concessions in Africa and Italy's aid to the rebels in the Spanish civil war.

Foreign observers characterized as a "draw" Chamberlain's latest appeasement trip, which perhaps strengthened his position at home. A Chamberlain spokesman emphasized that nothing had been given away. Mussolini likewise could show his followers that he had yielded nothing.

"Understand Each Other."

A spokesman for the British delegation said an announcement that Chamberlain and Mussolini each had stated his position, and understood that of the other, did not mean their points of view were identical. It meant, he carefully explained, merely that they "came to an understanding of each other."

"Our position could not have changed since we started on the expedition and that position is sufficiently well known," the spokesman said.

That was interpreted as meaning the British still were unwilling to grant belligerent rights to Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish rebel leader, for instance, unless a "substantial" number of Italian troops were withdrawn from Spain. Italians have indicated it was Mussolini's plan to let Franco fight toward victory without further withdrawals of Italian troops.

The last of the formal conversations was held in the Palazzo Venezia with Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax of Britain and Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano of Italy aiding their respective chiefs. The talk lasted an hour and a quarter.

It was significant that throughout the Rome talks the Fascists were in touch with diplomats representing Italy's allies, Germany and Japan.

It was considered significant also that Foreign Secretary Halifax will go to Geneva tomorrow night for a league of nations council session, and there will inform French Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet of the results of the Rome conversations. The French had been apprehensive lest Mussolini present demands on them through the British statesmen.

The activities which preceded the final conference were fatiguing for the British prime minister, who is 69 years old. He had visited the Pantheon and the Unknown Soldiers' grave. He had an audience and lunch with King Victor Emmanuel III. of Italy and reviewed Fascist gymnastics.

The day ended with a gala performance of Verdi's opera, "Falstaff," in the Royal Opera house.

Herriot Defies Italy.

PARIS, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Edouard Herriot, president of the chamber of deputies, called on France today to speed up and perfect her armament in face of Italian dangers to her colonial frontier. Marking his re-election as president of the chamber, Herriot warned that France "must be equipped with an armor without weakness" because "once again we are living in an age of force."

GERMANS THREATEN TO REPUDIATE BRITISH SHORT TERM LOANS

LONDON, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The Daily Herald tonight said Germany had threatened to denounce British private short term loans totaling £40,000,000 [about $186,800,000] unless London supported German demands for increased exports and foreign exchange to pay for Jewish emigration.

The newspaper said this was one of the subjects of discussion when Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, visited Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, in Berlin last week.

It added that Norman was ready to support the emigration export tieup proposed by Dr. Schacht because denunciation of the loans by Germany would "force a crisis" in private London banking circles close to the Bank of England. Germany has pleaded inability to repay the principal of the loans, the Daily Herald said, although interest payments have been made.

LOYALISTS CALL ON OLDER MEN TO HALT REBEL PUSH

Foe 'Within Sight of Sea' Near Tarragona.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PERPIGNAN, France [at the Spanish Frontier], Jan. 12.—The Barcelona government summoned men of advanced age to the colors today in an effort to halt Gen. Francisco Franco's drive in Catalonia. The rebels reported their advance forces were "within sight of the sea" near Tarragona.

The loyalists ordered the mobilization of men from 39 to 45 years of age. Previous mobilization orders had included men from 18 to 38 years. Men from 45 to 50 years were ordered to join fortification brigades building new defenses for Barcelona. Previous fortification brigades were dissolved and the men 45 years and under were sent into the regular infantry. It was estimated 200,000 men were affected by the mobilization orders.

Militarize Industries.

War and supply industries were ordered militarized. All available arms were ordered to the front. Half the number of specialists in industries were ordered released from work and sent to the front. Physicians began a reexamination of all persons previously exempted from front line duty.

The rebels reported gains all along the 125 mile Catalonian front. In the mountainous north, they took Cisca peak and Aramunt, northeast of Tremp.

Northeast of Artesa, on the Segre river, they took Masset heights, dominating a principal highway to Puigcerda on the French frontier. Southeast of Artesa, the rebels took Priexens, Agramunt, and Puigvert de Agramunt on the road to Cervera.

The biggest gains were on the southern end of the front. Montblanch, a hub of highways and center of agriculture and industry, was taken yesterday. Today the rebels occupied the villages of Pira and Barbara northeast of Montblanch. At Barbara they were only 45 miles directly west of Barcelona.

Can See Mediterranean.

The rebels struck south from Montblanch toward Valls, 8 miles away, the government's principal airdrome in the region. Valls is 12 miles north of Tarragona, the principal seaport of southern Catalonia. The rebels said they hold heights from which they can see the Mediterranean.

The most important town captured during the day was Falset, 22 miles west of Tarragona, and in a region of lead and manganese mines. Moroccan troops driving down from the northwest took Falset.

Falset is on a main east and west highway and is only 12 miles from the Mediterranean shore, but there is an intervening range of mountains. The rebels took the village of Marsa, west of Falset, and also pushed eastward toward Reus 9 miles away.

At the extreme southern end of the active front, the rebels took Mora la Nueva, on the east bank of the Ebro opposite Mora de Ebro, and moved eastward on the road to Falset.

Many Face Isolation.

Success of the rebels' drives from Montblanch and Falset would drive a new "wedge to the sea" and isolate thousands of loyalists defending the Tortosa sector between the Ebro river and the sea.

The battle for Catalonia has developed into the greatest of the war, with an estimated 350,000 men on the government side and 300,000 on Franco's. Rebels asserted that in twenty days of fighting they had taken 1,200 square miles of territory, 125 towns and villages and more than 30,000 prisoners.

Reports were meager concerning the loyalists' counter-offensive in Estremadura [southwestern Spain]. It was said government artillery was shelling the town of Llerena, on the main railway from Seville to Salamanca.

Draft Loyalists

(Story in adjoining column.)

Spanish loyalists yesterday summoned to arms men from 39 to 45 years of age in an effort to stem the tide of the rebels' Catalonian drive. The rebels captured Agramunt (1), advanced from Montblanch toward Tarragona (2), captured Falset (3), and pushed eastward after taking Mora la Nueva (4).

CHARGES HE PAID $500 IN CITY HALL FOR POLICE JOB

State's attorney's investigators studying bribe charges in connection with the police eligibility list were told yesterday that on one occasion James Galvin, now a fugitive, received $500 in the city hall in exchange for a promise of a job on the police force.

Galvin has been accused by half a dozen persons who claim they paid for jobs that never materialized. Yesterday Edmund P. Lynch, 1425 North Luna avenue, told his story to Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan. Lynch said that in 1936 he paid $250 to a saloonkeeper who told him Galvin could get him a preferred spot on the police list. Then, in September, 1936, Lynch said, he handed $500 to Galvin on the sixth floor of the city hall, just outside the civil service commission offices. But Lynch never got the job.

Galvin is a brother of Michael J. Galvin, one-time boss of the independent teamsters' union, who was shot to death two years ago.

30,000 WORKERS RIOT IN RUSSIA; MANY ARRESTED

New Work Card System Creates Unrest.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Jan. 12.—Travelers arriving from Moscow today reported widespread rioting in Tula, where inauguration of a new work card system created dissatisfaction among 30,000 employés of the state munitions factory.

The rioters were dispersed by the GPU [secret police] when they demonstrated against the decree which set up the system in an attempt to restore discipline among the workers and increase production in industries.

Arrow locates scene of rioting.

Tula is 105 miles south of Moscow and has a population of about 200,000. It is a rich iron mining and manufacturing center.

Many Are Arrested.

Many workers were injured and numerous others arrested on Monday, it was reported. Attempts to stage similar demonstrations in other centers were reported to have been suppressed.

The work card decree, which gives factory managers unlimited authority to discharge or imprison workers and evict families for tardiness, absences, drunkenness, and other offenses, is the most unpopular measure ever introduced in Russia.

The new commissar of the GPU, Lavrenti Beria, who is known as the "Stalin of the Caucasus," requested the council of peoples' commissars to authorize an increase of his special army of GPU troops to 600,000 men, more than doubling its present size.

Enforcement of the decree is strict in the munitions industry, which now is divided into four commissariats.

M. M. Kaganovich will head the aviation industry. I. T. Tevoshian will control navy building, I. P. Sergeiv will be in charge of arsenals, and other stores of military supplies, and B. L. Vanikov will control production of military weapons.

The new appointments were explained in the soviet press as an attempt to systematize and rationalize the defense industries.

GEN. FRANCO BLOCKS BRITISH AIR SERVICE TO SOUTH AMERICA

LONDON, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The Daily Herald said today that plans for a British air service from London to South America had been abandoned because Gen. Francisco Franco refused to permit British Airways to fly over Spanish rebel territory. Negotiations have not been broken off with Franco, however. Franco was said to be linking the flying permission with a demand for formal diplomatic recognition of his régime and the granting of belligerent rights.

Three Nations in Race.

CASABLANCA, French Morocco, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Three European powers are racing to extend their influence in South America by linking their capitals by air with those of Latin America.

The German Lufthansa today announced plans to start a forty-six hour mail service from Berlin to South America. Air France, which long dominated air mail service to South America, soon will start passenger service to Santiago, Chile. The Italian Ala Littoria line is expected to start a service to South America in the next two weeks with a special flight led by Bruno Mussolini, son of Il Duce.

Thief Views Car Contents; Phones Owner 'It's Yours'

A bandit stole the automobile of Lloyd Banker, 1118 West 65th street, last night, then telephoned him two hours later that the car could be recovered at 66th and Laflin streets. Police found it there. None of Banker's possessions in the car had been disturbed. After one look police said they knew why. The possessions were embalming equipment. Banker is an embalmer.

TOKIO AROUSED BY REPORT U. S. IS TO FORTIFY GUAM

Sees No Reason for Base So Close to Japan.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Jan. 12.—The reported plan of the United States to establish an airplane and submarine base at the island of Guam was considered with grave concern today by the Japanese navy.

Arrow locates island which causes Japan concern.

Rear Admiral Masao Kanazawa, naval spokesman, declared Japan does not see the necessity for America to fortify a place so near to this country. He said that progress of the project will be watched closely.

Guam, with an area of 210 square miles, is 1,500 miles east of Manila and about the same distance south of Japan.

Fear Advance in Pacific.

Some quarters see the move as the definite intention of the United States to advance in the western Pacific region. Admiral Kanazawa said:

"Of course, in every country there is a big navy party, but I wonder if the fortification of Guam would appeal to the American public, especially the upper class American statesmen."

He disclosed that representations had been made to the United States through diplomatic channels concerning a newspaper report from Shanghai that the American naval officers of the gunboat Luzon, which evacuated refugees from Hankow, had ridiculed Japan and their naval escort down the Yangtze river.

He said that now, when the world situation seems to be more delicate than ever, everything possible should be done not to irritate others.

Report Church Destroyed.

ICHANG, China, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Foreign sources reported today that an American Lutheran church at Shasi, Hupeh province, was demolished and five persons killed when a lone Japanese plane dropped two bombs in the town's main street on Tuesday. No Americans were believed to be among the casualties.

Open New Stretch of Railway.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Japanese authorities announced today that successful mopping up operations north of Nanking had made it possible to open a 100 mile stretch of the Tientsin-Pukow railway.

They said one train would make a round trip daily from Suchow, junction of the Lunghai and Tientsin-Pukow lines, to Pengpu, 85 miles northwest of Nanking, beginning next Sunday.

7 Killed, 49 Injured When Train in India Is Derailed

CALCUTTA, India, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Seven persons were killed and forty-nine injured today when an express train was derailed between the Chichaki and Hazaribagh stations, 210 miles northwest of Calcutta. Five of the nine coaches overturned and caught fire.

SLOT RINGS WAGE BATTLE TO HALT THEFT OF PROFITS

Blame Ruthless War for Gang Killings.

Slot machine rings in Illinois are fighting ruthlessly against two enemies that are causing them tremendous losses. They are hi-jacking gangs that carry off the machines, and tavern keepers who loot the machines in their own establishments with master keys.

That charge was made last night by T. P. Sullivan, state superintendent of criminal investigation, at the close of a day spent in Peoria investigating three gang murders of the last week. Sullivan said all three were directly linked with the slot machine war.

Emboldened by recent success, hijacking gangs have turned what was once a small racket into a big business in the last few weeks, Sullivan said.

But the master key racket, more fantastic and far more costly to the slot machine rings, is something new. Gangs are selling resort owners master keys that will unlock the coin boxes. Owners willingly pay the high prices demanded to take out nickels, dimes, and quarters before the gambling ring collectors arrive. The gangsters who sell the keys occasionally loot machines themselves in resorts lacking adequate protection.

Blames Death on Trafic.

Sullivan blamed the trafic in master keys for the murder of Anton J. Miller, Peoria reformer, who was shot to death there Monday night.

Miller was known to ministers, with whom he worked as the arch foe of the slot machine racket. But Sullivan suspects that Miller, who was a locksmith, manufactured the master keys and distributed them.

Two days before Miller was killed, John Balma of Joliet was shot to death in Joliet. As Sullivan tells the story, Balma was apparently distributing keys for Miller while pretending allegiance to the Cook county slot machine ring. Learning that he was betraying them, Sullivan believes, leaders of the ring decreed Balma's death.

Driven From Cook County.

Balma, Sullivan says, was in league with three Joliet youths held at Pekin in Tazewell county. These three, according to Sullivan, had been hijacking machines in the Chicago district and were driven into the counties further south.

The other murder which Sullivan attributes to the slot machine war is that of Robert Lewison of 1301 Independence boulevard, shot to death near Hinsdale a few hours after the murder of Balma.

LAWYER REVEALS MUSICA DEPOSITS IN ITALIAN BANKS

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—A lawyer who has known the Musica family for thirty years today told federal authorities that for ten years it secretly has been putting away sums of money in Italy.

The attorney is Nathaniel A. Holzer of Brooklyn, who represented members of the family in the "human hair" swindle twenty-five years ago.

Authorities believe his information may explain part of the mystery of what became of the $11,000,000 which Philip Musica, alias F. Donald Coster, and his accomplices are alleged to have siphoned from the treasury of the drug firm of McKesson & Robbins, Inc.

Holzer also revealed that he had been informed that Coster-Musica, who committed suicide last month when the McKesson & Robbins bubble broke, was a friend of Mussolini.

He said he had been informed that a short time before the exposure, Coster was negotiating with representatives of Mussolini for the illegal sale of munitions to Italians. Coster was to deliver munitions at a port in Africa, whence the goods would be transported to Spain for use by Italian volunteers in Franco's rebel armies, it was said.

Marshall Field & Company
presents here each day observations intended to be of value to those it seeks to serve.

ECHOES FROM YESTERDAY

By CALEB

FOR PROOF that "Everything changes but change," we seldom need to go further than the pleasant precincts of our own twelfth-floor employes' library. Reminders that the Field's of today has come a long and momentous way from its turn-of-the-century past, seldom greet us with more force, however, than when we encounter some time-mellowed advertisement of those bygone years.

Just such an exhibit is the yellowed fragment of a newspaper page which is posted under glass on our bulletin board at the present moment. On close scrutiny, one discovers that the date is January 23rd, the year 1901, and the message itself, in typical conservative fashion, is headed "15th Annual Sale of Underwear."

As you will scarcely remember, that was the year when U. S. Steel was incorporated with a capitalization of $1,319,000,000. Carrie Nation's axe was abroad in all its flashing glory, and its wielder had been arrested for wrecking restaurants and saloons in Kansas. Ingersoll dollar watches were ticking up sales in enormous volume. The Texas oil boom was just beginning to gush. President McKinley had been assassinated, and Theodore Roosevelt had succeeded to the White House. Rural free delivery was nicely under way; Buffalo was staging the Pan-American Exposition, and the New York Stock Exchange was in panic following battle for control of the Northern Pacific Railway.

Into that era of button shoes and handlebar moustaches came the modest Field message—featuring such timely items as muslin underwear; unlaundered handkerchiefs; hand and roller, kitchen, glass and dish "towelings"; women's shoes of patent leather, calf, vici kid, velours . . . "French, military, Mexican, Cuban and common sense heels" . . . and boys' school shoes with extension soles and spring heels. Not to forget "Women's 40 and 43 Inch Paletots," in black and tan kersey and Oxford cheviot. A typical black kersey value at $25 was "elaborately stitched and strapped"; had "fancy cuffs, wide storm collar, and revers of selected Persian lamb." . . .

Echoes, these, from yesterdays that we somehow feel are still part and parcel of the Field present. Change and the forward tempo have rendered some of their features amusing; yet the serious business of giving value-received, foregoing emphatic claims, and offering the best the hour afforded—renders this yellowed fragment an exemplar as well as a souvenir.

TEXT OF DEFENSE MESSAGE ASKING FOR 552 MILLION

Roosevelt Sends Plea for Funds to Congress.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Text of President Roosevelt's message to congress on national defense follows:

"In my annual message to this congress I have spoken at some length of the changing world conditions outside of the American hemisphere which make it imperative that we take immediate steps for the protection of our liberties.

"It would be unwise for any of us to yield to any form of hysteria. Nevertheless, regardless of political affiliations, we can properly join in an appraisal of the world situation and agree on the immediate defense needs of the nation.

"It is equally sensational and untrue to take the position that we must at once spend billions of additional money for building up our land, sea and air forces on the one hand, or to insist that no further additions are necessary on the other.

Emphasizes War Changes.

"What needs to be emphasized is the great change which has come over conflicts between nations since the world war ended, and especially during the last five or six years.

"Those of us who took part in the conduct of the world war will remember that in the preparation of the American armies for actual participation in battle the United States, entering the war on April 6, 1917, took no part whatsoever in any major engagement until the end of May, 1918.

"In other words, while other armies were conducting the actual fighting, the United States had more than a year of absolute peace at home without any threat of attack on this continent, to train men, to produce raw materials, to process them into munitions and supplies and to forge the whole into fighting forces. It is even a matter of record that as late as the autumn of 1918, American armies at the front used almost exclusively French or British artillery and aircraft.

Harks Back to 1917.

"Calling attention to these facts does not remotely intimate that the congress or the President have any thought of taking part in another war on European soil, but it does show that in 1917 we were not ready to conduct large scale land or air operations. Relatively we are not much more ready to do so today than we were then—and we cannot guarantee a long period free from attack in which we could prepare.

"I have called attention to the fact that 'we must have armed forces and defenses strong enough to ward off sudden attack against strategic positions and key facilities essential to insure sustained resistance and ultimate victory.' And I have said 'we must have the organization and location of those key facilities so that they may be immediately utilized and rapidly expanded to meet all needs without danger of serious interruption by enemy attack.'

"I repeat that 'there is new range and speed to offense.'

"Therefore, it has become necessary for every American to restudy present defense against the possibilities of present offense against us.

Asks for 525 Million.

"Careful examination of the most imperative present needs leads me to recommend the appropriation at this session of the congress, with as great speed as possible, of approximately 525 million dollars, of which sum approximately 210 million would be actually spent from the treasury before the end of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1940.

"The survey indicates that of this sum approximately 450 million dollars should be allocated for new needs of the army, $65,000,000 for new needs of the navy, and $10,000,000 for training of civilian air pilots.

"The several items will be submitted to the appropriate committees of the congress by the departments concerned, and I need, therefore, touch only on the major divisions of the total.

Urges More Army Planes.

"In the case of the army, information from other nations leads us to believe that there must be a complete revision of our estimates for aircraft. The Baker board report of a few years ago is completely out of date. No responsible officer advocates building our air forces up to the total either of planes on hand or of productive capacity equal to the forces of certain other nations. We are thinking in the terms of necessary defenses, and the conclusion is inevitable that our existing forces are so utterly inadequate that they must be immediately strengthened.

"It is proposed that 300 million dollars be appropriated for the purchase of several types of airplanes for the army. This should provide a minimum increase of 3,000 planes, but it is hoped that orders placed on such a large scale will materially reduce the unit cost and actually provide many more planes.

Points to Plane Range.

"Military aviation is increasing today at an unprecedented and alarming rate. Increased range, increased speed, increased capacity of airplanes abroad have changed our requirements for defensive aviation. The additional planes recommended will considerably strengthen the air defenses of the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Canal Zone.

"If an appropriation bill can be quickly enacted, I suggest that $50,000,000 of the 300 million dollars for airplanes be made immediately available in order to correct the present lag in aircraft production due to idle plants.

"Of the balance of approximately 150 million dollars requested for the army I suggest an appropriation of 110 million to provide 'critical items' of equipment which would be needed immediately in time of emergency, and which cannot be obtained from any source within the time and quantity desired—material such as anti-aircraft artillery, semi-automatic rifles, anti-tank guns, tanks, light and heavy artillery, ammunition and gas masks. Such purchases would go far to equip existing units of the regular army and the National Guard.

Seeks Aid of Industry.

"I suggest approximately $32,000,000 for 'educational orders' for the army—in other words, to enable industry to prepare for quantity production in an emergency—of those military items which are noncommercial in character and are so difficult of manufacture as to constitute what is known as 'bottlenecks' in the problem of procurement.

"The balance should be used, I believe, for improving and strengthening the seacoast defenses of Panama, Hawaii and the continental United States, including the construction of a highway outside the limits of the Panama Canal Zone, important to the defense of the zone.

"The estimated appropriation of $65,000,000 for the navy should be divided into [A] $44,000,000 for the creation or strengthening of navy bases in both oceans in general agreement with the report of the special board which has already been submitted to the congress, [B] about $21,000,000 for additional navy airplanes and air material tests.

Calls for Training Flyers.

"Finally, national defense calls for the annual training of additional air pilots. This training should be primarily directed to the essential qualifications for civilian flying. In cooperation with educational institutions, it is believed that the expenditure of $10,000,000 a year will give primary training to approximately 20,000 citizens.

"In the above recommendations for appropriations totaling 525 million dollars, I have omitted reference to a definite need, which, however, relates to the implementing of existing defenses for the Panama canal. The security of the canal is of the utmost importance. The peace garrison now there is inadequate to defend this vital link. This deficiency cannot be corrected with existing forces without seriously jeopardizing the general defense by stripping the continental United States of harbor defense and anti-aircraft personnel.

Urges Larger Canal Garrison.

"The permanent garrison in the Canal Zone should be increased to provide the minimum personnel required to man the anti-aircraft and seacoast armament provided for the defense of the canal. Such personnel cannot be increased until additional housing facilities are provided—and, in the meantime, additional personnel must be trained.

"I recommend, therefore, an appropriation of $27,000,000 to provide an adequate peace garrison for the Canal Zone and to house it adequately. Five million dollars of this sum should be made available immediately in order that work on necessary construction can be initiated.

"All of the above constitutes a well rounded program, considered by me as commander in chief of the army and navy, and by my advisers to be a minimum program for the necessities of defense. Every American is aware of the peaceful intentions of the government and of the people. Every American knows that we have no thought of aggression, no desire for further territory.

Asks Modern Weapons.

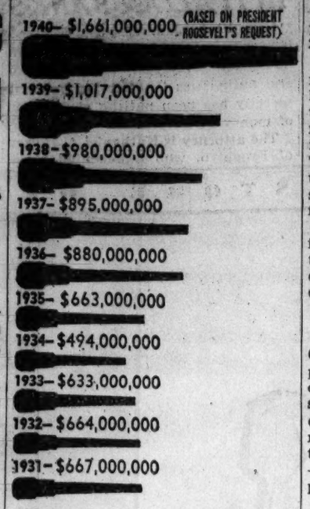
"Nevertheless, as the executive head of the government I am compelled to look facts in the face. We have a splendid asset in the quality of our manhood. But without modern weapons and without adequate training, the men, however splendid the type, would be hopelessly handicapped if we were attacked.

"The young men of this nation should not be compelled to take the field with antiquated weapons. It would be economically unsound to provide in time of peace for all the modern equipment needed in a war emergency. Bu it would be nationally unsound not to provide the critical items of equipment which might be needed for immediate use, and not to provide for facilities for mass production in the event of war.

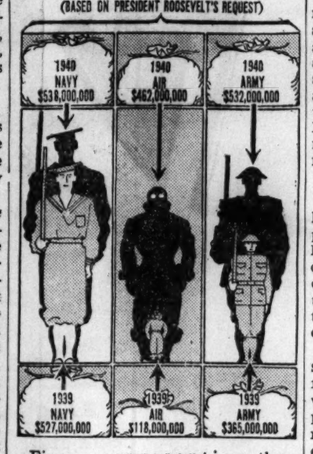
"Devoid of all hysteria, this program is but the minimum of requirements.

"I trust, therefore, that the congress will quickly act on this emergency program for the strenthening of the defense of the United States."

Army Costs Rise



Length of cannons indicates the rising cost of U. S. national defense since 1931, reaching the high point with President Roosevelt's estimates of needs for the fiscal year 1940.



Figures representing three branches of national defense show costs for the 1939 fiscal year. The increases in President Roosevelt's askings for the 1940 fiscal year are indicated by the black shadows cast by the figures. Note the huge increase for the air force.

SEIZE 2 DANISH STATE POLICEMEN AS NAZI SPIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Jan. 12.—The arrest of two state policemen as Nazi spies and the granting of a leave of absence to the chief of the political section of the police department marked developments today in Denmark's investigation of the theft of secret documents from police headquarters.

Six Danish Nazis now are in custody on charges of taking the secret papers, along with the police officers, K. Yttesen and M. Pelving. Following the arrest of the officers, Andreas Hansen, political police chief, requested and was granted leave for the duration of the probe.

E. Pontoppidan, well known lawyer, is accused of misusing the documents which dealt chiefly with German immigrants in Denmark. Pelving, who was in charge of the alien department is accused of taking the documents. Yttesen, a member of Hansen's staf, is charged with having acted as a Nazi spy in the police force.

GOVERNOR WARNS CANADA IT MUST EXPAND DEFENSE

Calls for Quick Increase of Military Aviation.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Lord Tweedsmuir, governor general of Canada, in his "speech from the throne," told a new session of the dominion parliament today that expansion of Canada's defenses, especially military aviation, was imperative to guard against threats to world peace.

Tweedsmuir said legislation would be introduced to establish a defense purchasing board to facilitate the government's defense program.

"The government considers that the uncertainties of the future and the conditions of modern warfare make it imperative that Canada's defense be materially strengthened," he said.

He emphasized that relations continue on friendly terms with other countries, but asserted "the aggressive policies actively pursued on other continents inevitably had a disturbing effect on every part of the world."

Nazis Jeer Roosevelt.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's message to congress calling for a half billion dollar defense program received cheers from Europe's democracies and sarcasm from the dictator countries tonight.

The British and French applauded the United States rearmament proposals. Nazi Germans and Italian Fascists asked against whom the American government wanted to defend itself. The President's proposals were displayed prominently on the front pages of all morning newspapers in Berlin.

"In order to make the expenditure of $552,000,000 palatable to the American people the incomprehensible argument is again advanced that America must defend itself against 'sudden attack,'" said the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung. "One may well ask once more who in the world is thinking of attacking America suddenly. Whoever seriously imagines such a thing chases shadows and sees ghosts that are not of this world."

Stepping Stone to Third Term.

The Berliner Tageblatt said "The President did well to let some time elapse between this message and the scare story of the Martian invasion." The newspaper said the purpose of the message was plainly to serve as "a special train to rush Roosevelt into his third presidential term—an armament locomotive with a job creating tender attached."

The unofficial French reaction was immediate approval, especially of the President's plane building plans.

There was frank envy of a nation strong and rich enough to contemplate a special program almost double the total of France's ordinary arms budget for 1939 and equal to half of all arms appropriations both extraordinary and ordinary for 1939.

Lieut. E. Vernon Biddle, Horseman, Dies in Crash

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Lieut. E. Vernon Biddle, 34 years old, well known horseman and a frequent contender in Madison Square Garden shows as a member of the 61st cavalry, was killed today when the automobile he was driving crashed into an elevated railway pillar in Long Island City. Mrs. Biddle, the former Helen Frances Grant, daughter of Mrs. Brownell Grant, whose husband headed the Grant chain stores, is recovering from an operation in Roosevelt hospital. She was not informed at once of her husband's death. They have a child 2 months old.

POPULAR FRONT OF CHILE TO BUY HOMES FOR POOR

Plans to Feed and Clothe Needy Youth.

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 12.—The new Popular Front government today announced a nationwide program of public works on which it expects to spend $20,000,000 a year. The program not only contemplates the usual type of government projects but also the distribution of cheap electric power.

This is only part of the ambitious program of the government of President Pedro Aguirre, leader of the Radical party. The government will spend $400,000 a year on the care of tubercular patients and will construct cheap houses for workers. It will also purchase and distribute cheap meat and will spend $320,000 annually for clothing for poor school children.

See Greater Revenue.

Measures for financing these projects were left to the minister of finance. Cabinet members said that plans for increasing production and encouraging local industries would result in an increase in government revenues.

The government's scheme for cheap housing differs from similar projects in other South American countries as Chile will not build such houses in specified sections or in large groups. The cabinet declared its intention to avoid anything that would put the laboring class in isolated sections.

The government also announced a plan for consolidating all social security organizations into one unit and placing their investment policy under government control.

HUNGARY WILL JOIN ANTI-RED PACT, NEW FOREIGN CHIEF SAYS

BUDAPEST, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Count Stephen Csaky, Hungary's new foreign minister, announced tonight that Hungary expects to join the anti-communist pact in which Germany, Italy, and Japan are leagued.

Count Csaky's remarks, made at a dinner of the government's National Unity party, apparently placed Hungary in the position of soliciting an invitation to join the pact which binds its members to oppose communism.

The foreign minister will leave Monday for a two day state visit to Berlin, during which recent strife along the Hungarian-Czecho-Slovak border may be discussed. The anti-communist pact was formed Nov. 25, 1936, by Germany and Japan. Italy joined Nov. 6, 1937.

Berwyn Ham Butt War Goes Way of Other Wars

Peace last night ended the great ham butt war of Berwyn. On Dec. 9 Henry Pauser, 48 years old, 3224 East avenue, Berwyn, a meat truck driver, walked into the meat market of John P. Kovarik, 28, of 6341 Cermak road, Berwyn, carrying six ham butts which he said Kovarik had ordered. Kovarik said he hadn't ordered them. There was a fight. Pauser knocked Kovarik out with one of the butts. A clerk threw Pauser out of the store. Kovarik and Pauser next charged each other with assault. Last night Justice of the Peace Harry Leviton persuaded both to drop the charges.

BOY, 3, SCALDED TO DEATH.
Scalded when he backed into a pail of boiling water in his home at 233 Swan street, Henry Meredith, 3 years old, died yesterday in County hospital.

WHAT HOPKINS DID WITH RELIEF.

With apologies and some show of regret, Harry Hopkins, late of WPA, confessed to the inquiring members of the senate commerce committee the abuse of relief appropriations for New Deal political purposes. Mr. Hopkins is being examined to ascertain his fitness for the department of commerce. In voting on this nomination and on the others made by Mr. Roosevelt the senate probably will be guided by the idea that the President is entitled to name the members of his official family and to take the responsibility for them. Mr. Hopkins' eligibility appears to rest on the fact that he spent 9 billion dollars of the public money and permitted it to be used as a political slush fund to buy or coerce the votes of the nation's unemployed who were working under him.

Political use of the WPA had been so established by the committee headed by Senator Sheppard, Democrat of Texas, that Mr. Hopkins could not deny it. His best defense was regret. Now that the record is public, Mr. Hopkins concedes that he should not have made political speeches and that if he had to go over the road again he would not do so. But he was working for his chief and his chief needed political support. Aubrey Williams, his assistant, also working for the chief, also made political speeches, some of them directed at the voters on WPA, telling them who was buttering their bread.

Of the Kentucky scandal, which was very little different from that in any of the other states, Mr. Hopkins said that the local politicians cracked down on the WPA administrators and made them come across. He said that he should have fired the whole outfit but he didn't. When the administrator of the work relief and his assistant made political speeches for Mr. Roosevelt and when Mr. Roosevelt indicated how the vote must be cast, it was useless to expect that local politicians would not go the limit in using the unfortunates on the government relief pay rolls.

The New Dealers supported the men in whose interests these voters were coerced. For campaign purposes the numbers of WPA workers were increased. Just before election new money was sent into states where the New Deal was particularly interested in winning. The politicians even tried to force the workers to contribute out of their small pay to the Democratic campaign funds, and Senator Sheppard was the only man in Washington to raise a voice against that.

Mr. Hopkins said he did not make the statement: "We will spend and spend, tax and tax, elect and elect." That famous remark was attributed to him by several political writers, including Frank Kent of the Baltimore Sun and Arthur Krock of the New York Times. Their unknown informant said that Mr. Hopkins made it in a moment of relaxation at the Yonkers, N. Y., race track, last October. Mr. Hopkins says that the remarks of a moment of relaxation should not be repeated, but that in no moment of any kind did he make the celebrated statement. The person who repeated it wishes to keep out of the dispute and consequently the political writers feel that they must protect him.

Although the remark accurately describes just what the New Deal has been doing, the charge that Hopkins actually said it suffers from the refusal to disclose the name of the person who could verify it. However, Mr. Krock was not an unfriendly witness and the New York Times has been a steady defender and reliable apologist for the Roosevelt administration. "We will spend and spend, tax and tax, elect and elect" was a simple and truthful statement of what the New Deal was doing and what it intended to do. Mr. Hopkins may not have made the remark. If he had done so he would have merely stated the facts.

For six years the public treasury has been used to support an autocratic government in the United States. The public funds have been appropriated to defeat men who were trying in very hazardous times to defend the democratic, representative system. For six years the relief appropriations made the cause of American government in America seem almost hopeless. The New Deal turned loose its flood of money for the November election. This time it failed. Now it is trying to recover its strength for the final push at its opponents' line of defense.

What has been done in every election since 1933 will be done in the next election, in spite of the confessions of Mr. Hopkins and the scandals reported by the Sheppard committee, unless the powers delegated to the Roosevelt administration are taken away by the present congress. If Mr. Roosevelt tries to form a third term party for 1940, the methods used will be precisely those used in 1938 when he endeavored to purge all the conservatives out of the party and turn it over to the revolutionaries.

THE CHINESE CONQUEST OF JAPAN.

China, resisting stubbornly, has not been able to defeat Japanese armies, but the Chinese may, if this gives them any compensation, reflect that they are licking the Japanese people. They are forcing the Japanese democracy in and under the authoritarian state with a consequent loss of political rights, civil liberties, and economic freedom. To date the Japanese have been deprived of more than the Chinese, although the latter have lost their ports and principal towns. The Chinese invader in Japan would not have taken much more away from the Japanese than has been seized by the military dictators because there is an incident—not a war—in China.

Baron Hiranuma, new head of government, is to mobilize all national resources to carry on the incidental work. The militarist pressure to extinguish democratic vestiges in the government was so great that the liberal opposition was swamped. The excuse, as usual, is national emergency. That is what gets a democratic people down. Democracy and emergency is supposed to be an impossible conjunction, a theory which is made much of by persons who have the most personally to gain from it. Hiranuma is described as the Japanese Hitler. It's the Chinese who can yell "Banzai."

KARL MARX IN THE MOTOR BUSINESS.

Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers' union, would not now have on his hands a fight which may determine the future of this great labor organization if John Lewis had not insisted on backing up the communist elements and replacing their sympathizers and coworkers in office after Martin had expelled them. The Lewis mediators, Philip Murray of the steel workers and Sidney Hillman of the garment workers, recommended that the ousted vice presidents and secretary-treasurer be taken back. That recommendation was followed. What was called a peace was in reality a lost cause for Martin.

Conditions in the automobile labor field present curious contradictions. The welfare of the workers depends upon the sale of new cars in a market which would be stimulated by the success of private enterprise everywhere in making a recovery. If we do not regard the automobile business as a luxury trade it is because American standards have made necessities of what other people know are luxuries. Still the automobile industry, although the strongest factor in American economy, stands ultimately to win or lose according to the success the American people have in hitting their old stride and keeping it. The automobile workers have a stake in the quick triumph of what the New Dealers call the conservative drag in American political action.

The communist element in the workers' organization finds nothing but loss in an economic recovery and nothing but gain in industrial disorder. Satisfactory labor relations in the making of automobiles are not desired by the communist organizers nor does the communist party desire national recovery. Revolutions are not made of peaceable settlements. They do not flourish when people are gainfully employed and comfortably self-sustaining. Revolutions are made of conflict, hatreds, and destitution.

The aims of the communists in Martin's organization and the welfare of his workers are entirely opposed. Nevertheless, because of the support the communists have received not only from Mr. Lewis, who likes them, but also from the federal government officials who have sympathetically supported them, they, the Stalinites, are more aggressive and gain more ground in the automobile towns than they do anywhere else. Martin, unsupported by his C. I. O. boss, has fought them, knowing that they make it impossible for him to maintain the good faith of an agreement when he gets it and understanding that their tactics require confusion and violence, whereas his success and the success of his union will be achieved only by substantial and satisfactory accord between the employers and the employés.

It has been said of Mr. Lewis that he is a strong man and that when he wants to get rid of his communist agitators he will dispose of them summarily. Meanwhile he likes them because they have the best methods of direct revolutionary attack, are his best agitators and his most violent fighters. Some of Mr. Lewis' friends fear that he may be kidding nobody but himself, unless, indeed, he thinks that the communist order of society would necessarily discover in him one of the chief commissars.

THE GREAT APPEASEMENT.

Mr. Chamberlain, the great appeaser, with his dependable umbrella has been matching his wits with Signor Mussolini, the great bluffer. The appeasers have a tough time of it because ostensibly their one desire is peace and the dictatorial gentlemen with whom they discuss world affairs like conflict. So diplomatic intercourse these days is a series of blackmailing episodes in which the appeasers try to buy the power bloc off as cheaply as possible with somebody else's goods and save whatever they can of their own resources and as much as possible of their dignity.

The new British umbrella school of diplomacy seems to spring from the civilian fear of the airplane, but before Mr. Chamberlain is to be regarded as one of Britain's less courageous and less astute statesmen it would be well to know more of what he actually wants and how he sees the future. He may not at all mind having Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini scare the London populace with the specter of air raids. That strengthens him politically and almost destroys his opposition at home, England being still convinced that about the worst thing that could possibly happen to it would be a flight of bombers.

It's not at all improbable that before Mr. Chamberlain is done with all his negotiations he will have a Europe not at all offensive to British interests. He doesn't like Russia and he may dispose of the communist menace pretty much to his satisfaction. He already has the French where they are dependent upon British good will, and if Hitler's march is away from and not toward the channel ports the whole traditional British policy will have prevailed through Mr. Chamberlain's administration.

The British strategy of working one power against another has been successful for several centuries and Mr. Chamberlain no doubt knows it by the book. Still it must be one of the least desirable experiences a British diplomat could have to be compelled to take the umbrella and visit these blustering boys, who will show him their airplanes and pound the table and demand more of the world's goods, he being obliged to put on the soft manner and never raise his voice.

Mr. Chamberlain may have moments when he regrets that the battleship is not the queen of the world, but he's shrewd enough to make a good political use of the airplane, and when a British statesman is dealing with other people's goods he's not to be counted out until he is found sneaking up the alley in a barrel.

REMARKS ON A SUPERSTITION.

This is Friday the 13th! So what? [It strikes us that such superstitions offer the best possible excuse for the utterance of this banal phrase; therefore we "so-what" vigorously and without blushing.] A great deal of nonsense goes galumphing down the ages under the guise of folklore, and we are in favor of preserving some of it because it is picturesque, amusing, and has a racial flavor. But the popular idea that Friday the 13th is a day under malign influence, when luck runs widdershins and sinister forces are at work in the world, has none of these saving graces. It is merely a soggy bugaboo, and any one who professes the least allegiance to it is permitting his mind to drop, at that point, below the plane of civilization.

But we are taking the matter too seriously, for this superstition has become so thin that it is barely perceptible. We have never met any one who spoke of the baleful influence of Friday the 13th except in the spirit of skeptical comedy. The newspapers, we suspect, keep the idea alive by treating some of the unusual accidents of the day as attributable to its aura of misfortune. Petty gamblers, seeking an excuse for their defeats, also contribute to the perpetuation of the hoodoo. Among the people at large, however, Old Man Friday the 13th is just another day, quite as likely to be beneficent as malignant.

The next Friday the 13th of this year, and the last, will come in October. So what?

SONNET TO A SPARROW.

I know you are despised of all the birds,
Your song is but a noisy, querulous note.
For you I spend no rhapsody's brave words,
For drab, uninteresting your feathered coat.
Yet when swift migratory wings have borne
Your gay companions to a brighter clime,
With dull days' advent you alone still mourn
The evanescent beauty of a time
When summer tinged the skies. A mite of life,
You beg upon my window sill, and I,
Knowing the frantic buffetings of strife,
Cannot deride nor your small plea deny.
"Unto the least of these," and so I spread
The unyielding ground with crumbled bits of bread.

Last Call for Line Book of 1938.

Sweet are the reports from one's publisher and bookseller when the edition is vanishing from the shelves. So we print a few words from the Tribune's Public Service office, relating to the Line Book of 1938:

"The public is still interested in purchasing the Line Book. . . . We have only a few thousand copies on hand. . . . The department stores have reordered."

The book may be found at department store bookshops, the principal newsstands, and the Public Service offices of this paper, probably for a few weeks longer. It may be ordered by mail [13 cents, postpaid] through our Public Service office, to which orders addressed to the editor of the column are forwarded.

Lincoln's birthday is coming up, and the Line Book of 1938 contains several excellent sets of verses related to the occasion.

Snowshoe Al Finds a Friend.

Dear Al: I notice in the Line that Duke Bakrak threatens to sue you for libel. I have known the Duke for many years and at one time was his attorney. Everything you said about him is true, and you could have said a lot more. The truth is a good defense to a libel suit, so you have nothing to fear. I will gladly defend you free of charge, the same fees the Duke paid me. The Barrister.

SOLILOQUY OF A GOD.

I am a god—
A pagan god;
But moderns turn to me,
For I look back,
And look ahead,
Since that was what the pagans said
Gave me divinity.

The pagans named
A month for me—
The first one of the year;
But Time has changed
My ancient rite;
These moderns would just say, "Goodnight!"
To stuff like that, I fear.

They look ahead
In good resolves;
Thus proving even when
The big shot gods
Like mighty Zeus
Are out of luck and out of use,
Old Janus lives again.

Besides myself,
Of all the great,
The only one I know
Who still survives
From our old mob,
Without a W. P. A. job,
Is Cupid with his bow.

Give credit to
Those pagan lads,
And what they left as traces;
This Cupid boy,
The little cuss,
Who as a marksman rates A plus,
And me with my two faces.

Calendar for Modernists.

To speak of unorthodox calendars for the last time: An arrangement of the year into forty-eight weeks was invented and copyrighted in 1932 by Rufus B. Chapin of Chicago under the title, "Utilitarian Calendar." After Sunday the 7th, and Sunday the 23d of each month, there are insertions called "gala days," also holidays. After Sunday the 30th, "gala days" are inserted in January, April, July, October, and December. Leap year day is added after June 30. "Nations of the world," says Mr. Chapin hopefully, "will allocate their holidays to gala days." It looks well on a chart, with twenty-nine groups of three day rests.

There will be some excitement within the ancient quadrangles of Oxford university when Whizzer White, the American professional football player, goes out for the rugger team.

WHEN EYESIGHT FAILS SUDDENLY.

One of the chief symptoms of sick headache or migraine may give the sufferer much needless concern. The characteristic in question relates to vision which may be tinged with colored lights. In turn these may creep or shimmer. "Blind headache" is a popular expression among those patients and occasionally temporary inability to see will ensue. This is due to a constricting spasm of the blood vessels which feed a portion of the brain. The display of fireworks may involve only one section of the landscape or the whole may be blotted out for a moment. At times total darkness may persist for from ten to fifteen minutes. Such seizures are followed, as a rule, by the typical nausea and vomiting. The remarkable thing about these incidents is that they rarely, if ever, impair the ocular apparatus.

Blindness which strikes without warning presents a tragic and dramatic event. Such a circumstance affecting both orbs is rare, and many physicians in a lifetime of practice will not encounter a single instance. Should it occur, some general disease which is attended with injury to the blood pathways—with stoppage of the channels supplying either the eyes or that part of the brain which registers sight—is responsible. In pregnancy, for example, certain poisons may overwhelm the system, bring on extremely high blood pressure, damage kidney tissue, and usher in a stroke of apoplexy. Again, a brain tumor may grow in such a location that pressure on the optic nerves will become so great that abrupt failure of vision may come on. When this catastrophe is the finalé of any one of these derangements it may clear up with successful treatment of the underlying situation. But no episode of this sort should be regarded lightly and aid should be sought promptly. It is usually wise to seek the advice of the family physician and consultation with an eye specialist may be of value.

More customary than sudden blinding of both eyes is that in which only one is affected. Surprisingly enough, this may pass unnoticed by the victim for a considerable time. When an individual has already been deprived of sight in one optic, it is, of course, observed at once. The most frequent cause is closure of the main artery leading to the retina [back or seeing part of the eyeball]. This may be the result of a plug—a small fragment dislodged from a diseased heart valve—although it is brought about more commonly by blocking of the blood ducts because of arteriosclerosis. This permits a clot to form in the "pipe" leading to the retina. The outcome is sudden—practically complete blindness in one eye.

The sensation is likened to that which follows when some one turns off the light. The diagnosis can be made at once by examination of the retina with the ophthalmoscope. No pain or redness is associated with this condition. If proper remedies can be administered within the first few hours it is sometimes possible to dilate the vessel so that the clot will pass into a small branch, whereupon a large part of the visual tissue will regain its function. Restoration of activity—when it does happen—is just as spectacular as is its loss. It is as though the "on" button had been pressed.

Another origin of partial sight destruction is detachment of the retina, in which an area of this important structure is lifted away from its natural bed. To the patient it seems as though a curtain covers the lower portion of the field which rises—sometimes within a few hours—so that the central segment of what one gazes at is blocked out. Hemorrhage from one of the capillaries gives somewhat the same set of symptoms.

Acute glaucoma, or hardening of the eyeball, is quite different since it is always accompanied by severe pain and redness. The chronic form of this malady is dissimilar inasmuch as it comes very slowly.

The ability to see is so essential that any interference—with the world shut out—should be investigated speedily. Skilled help must be sought at once.

DENTS IN LEG.

S. A. C. writes: I have noticed that pressure on my leg against any hard object causes a deep dent or hollow which remains for quite some time. There is no soreness or pain. Could this condition be caused by the kidneys?

REPLY.

The chances are that your tissues are overfilled with water. This may come about because the kidneys are not quite as active as they should be or because the heart is not functioning up to par. A visit to your physician is suggested.

LIKES SWEETS.

E. P. S. writes: Why do I have such an uncontrollable appetite, especially for sweets, since I had my gall bladder removed some months ago?

REPLY.

The gall bladder has little to do with the digestion of sweets. The chances are that you need a generous amount of carbohydrate food. If you are digesting this material well, and if no sugar appears in the urine, you are perfectly safe.

EGGS IN THE DIET.

A. M. writes: Would two eggs daily be harmful for a person over 65 years old?

REPLY.

Probably not harmful, but unnecessary. The yolk contains a high percentage of fat and cholesterol. Neither substance is helpful in the presence of gall bladder infection. If meat is omitted from the diet, eggs may be substituted. This is not suggested, however, if the gall bladder is not up to par.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—British railways are having disastrously hard times, and state operation may be the result.

Railwaymen charge that the cry of hard times is made by the roads to allow them to keep down wages. Whether that is true or not, revenue is falling off. If the men refuse to work for less and the roads cannot raise their revenues, Britain's railways must eventually join the growing list of government run monopolies.

Telegraph services were taken over by the state in 1870. Telephone service is run by the postoffice department, and broadcasting is the monopoly of the government's British Broadcasting corporation. It was announced that the two British international air lines, Imperial Airways and British Airways, also are to be taken over by a "public corporation."

The railroads may well be next on the list, though decidedly that is not the solution the stockholders want. Already British rail trafic is concentrated in the hands of four big companies—the Southern, the London and Northwestern, the London, Midland and Scottish, and the Great Western. Their total receipts in the third week of October, 1938, for instance, were $920,000 below the same week in 1937. Only the Southern increased its revenue. It went up from $1,955,000 to $1,965,000.

Biggest private enterprise in Britain, the railroads have a total capital of $5,462,715,000. Up to the world war they included scores of small companies, but wartime needs led to the present amalgamation into four systems. They operate over 20,000 miles of lines and own 131 steamships, used on the services to the continent of Europe, to Ireland, and to the islands around the coasts.

For the first ten weeks of 1938, it is said, all seemed to be well with the railroads. Gross trafic showed a $5,000,000 improvement over the same period of 1937. For the first thirty-three weeks of 1938, however, the revenue had fallen off $16,295,000.

What alarmed the railroads more than that, however, was the fact that while gross revenue fell only $10,560,000 in the first half of the year, net revenue fell $23,340,000.

Though the railways blamed that phase of their predicament on increased operating costs, it was said some of it may have resulted from overlong delay in replacements. The loss of gross revenue, the railroads said, is due to competition from trucks.

Changing economic conditions also have their effect. British coal exports in 1937 were 40,000,000 tons, against an average of 50,000,000 and 60,000,000 tons a year ten years ago. In the first seven months of 1938 they fell another 2,000,000 tons below the same period of 1937. All that means loss for the railroads.

The railroad problem is causing serious worry, for there are more than half a million railway employés and more than half a million stockholders in the companies. Solutions are being suggested.

John Marchbank, secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, has led a trade union fight for investigation of the railroads' situation by a royal commission. The railwaymen complain that most of the trouble is caused by a huge amount of deadwood in the form of capital investment that pays no revenue. To break even the roads have to gross $2,300,000,000 a year. Railwaymen say a huge amount of capital could be written off and that the balance sheet would be in much better shape if it were.

What will come of it all depends on the power of the various interests involved. One view is that so many stockholders are involved and they are so well represented that the result probably will be increases in rates and decreases in pay. Though government ownership will be opposed violently, it is possible a heavy subsidy could be paid, to be followed later by government operation if that did not work.

ABSENCE OF WILL.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My aunt died recently and my sister and I are the nearest of kin. She was my father's only sister and he and the parents are dead. No will has been found and the estate will have to go through probate. The lawyer handling same said everything would be divided equally between my sister and me. We have had some of her personal belongings sent to our home, ninety miles away. We looked all through the house, inquired of neighboring banks, and consulted the lawyer who had the handling of her affairs, but could find no will. What if a will should be found at a later date? Is there a time limit, or what would happen if one should turn up? We do not want to do anything which might cause trouble. She died unexpectedly as the result of an automobile accident. F. L. P.

It was held in 272 Ill. 508 that the subsequent will cannot be admitted to probate without application to set aside the judgment admitting the former will to probate. See also 68 C. J. 1233. If you have special reasons to suspect the existence of a later will you should give us the facts. If you have no reasons, then the course being pursued is the usual and proper one. Leave the details to the attorney.

LIABILITY FOR DEBT.

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My parents have an old debt for groceries of about $580 since 1929. My father paid very little on it since he has ten children, all at home. He is having a hard time paying since he has a mortgaged home. He is 66 years old and doesn't know how long he will work, due to his age. This grocery man had an argument with us over this old bill, but we are unable to pay. We are afraid of losing the home, as he will start court proceedings.

1. We know he cannot take our home, as it is mortgaged, but [2] after it is paid we are afraid he can.

3. Can they take it after the home is paid?

4. Can home be put in my name? I am 29 years old and the youngest is 8 years old.

5. Are the children responsible for this debt? J. D.

1. This conclusion does not necessarily follow. The creditor could take judgment and could sell your interest subject to the mortgage, but the only way for him to clear the title would be by paying the mortgage.

2. This will not technically alter your position.

3. Yes.

4. Such a conveyance by way of gift could be set aside as a fraud on existing creditors.

5. No.

UNCLE SAM.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 6.—In answer to Mr. John Harris' query as to the origin of the title "Uncle Sam," I offer the following explanation:

Uncle Sam is a nickname given to the United States and its government. The exact origin of the name is unknown, but the generally accepted story is:

During the war of 1812, army supplies were inspected by a man named Samuel Wilson, who was commonly known as "Uncle Sam." When a case or package passed inspection he stamped it "E. A., U. S." E. A. stood for the name of the contractor and U. S. for United States. Some of the workmen jokingly stated that U. S. was meant for "Uncle Sam." This nickname for the United States continued to spread until it became known within the nation and abroad.

Some time during 1880 an unknown cartoonist characterized the United States as a tall, slim, bearded gentleman with 19th century clothes and a high hat. The clothes and hat were decorated with the Stars and Stripes. The "Uncle Sam" created back in the 19th century by the joke of a workman and the pen of a cartoonist is the same Uncle Sam we see in the present day cartoons. MARTIN T. LAFFEY.

[Many other correspondents have sent substantially the same account. One, Mr. Charles Richard Barrett, of 17 North State street, thinks the original Uncle Sam was a certain Samuel Bennett, who operated an ammunition warehouse "somewhere on the Hudson river" during the revolutionary war. Still another correspondent, S. B. Strassburger of Oshkosh, Wis., quotes the Standard Dictionary of Facts as saying that the phrase got into print during the war of 1812 and "long before the war was over was known throughout the United States."]

FROM THE RECORD.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—Several years ago when priests and nuns were being brutally murdered and churches were being destroyed in neighboring Mexico, the supreme council of the Knights of Columbus asked President Roosevelt to intercede. He replied, it will be recalled, that it was none of our business. When thousands of other lawyers were better qualified he recognized the forces of intolerance in this country by appointing Hugo Black to the Supreme court. When the anti-lynching bill was introduced he played political football with it and it was killed. When the American Legion showed that there was a great number of alien Reds living on government funds the President did nothing about it—but did reduce the payments to crippled and maimed war veterans "in the interest of economy" and vetoed an appropriation of a comparatively small sum for marking graves of those patriots who were killed in the world war. When share croppers are living in peonage which makes old world peonage look tame by comparison the President does nothing for fear of losing Ku-Klux votes.

It is surprising that he takes such a sudden interest in the rights of oppressed minorities in far-off Europe. Why not clean up conditions at home and close to home before we meddle in European affairs, even though no right thinking person can condone racial oppression either here or abroad? W. R. C.

FIREMEN'S HELMETS.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—Mr. Gleason, the engineer in charge of maintenance and equipment of the city's fire shops, has been instrumental in making Chicago's fire fighting equipment the best in the world during his fifteen years in that capacity. Now, all that is necessary to top off his good work is to provide the firemen with modern headgear. The present cumbersome affairs deserve to be hung up as trophies in the Chicago Historical society. The general opinion among those who must wear them is that they are topheavy and uncomfortable, invariably toppling off, or sliding and jiggling around on the head when in use.

Allow me to suggest that the modern helmet be made up of a light metal, shaped in the order of those worn by the police at our last World's Fair, being well padded, and having chin straps and ear covers that may be used in cold weather. A helmet so made would provide protection against falling débris and add comfort to the wearer, and look neater to all of us. THEODORE ENDE.

POLAND'S UKRAINIAN POLICY.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Because the series of articles about Poland by Donald Day created an impression that the Ukrainian minority in Poland is persecuted and deprived of its citizen rights, it will be only fair that your great paper grant me the privilege of presenting a few facts about the so-called Polish-Ukrainian problem.

First, the Polish-Ukrainian problem is mainly the result of Hitler's propaganda, similar to the Czecho-Sudeten affair, which aims to prepare the road for the next German aggression.

Second, there is no solid Ukrainian minority in the territories claimed, for in all of those countries the Poles constitute from 30 to 50 per cent, and there are also minorities of Ruthenians, Huculs, and Jews.

Third, the Ukrainians have full citizenship rights, equally with the Poles, and about twenty congressmen in the Polish diet, including the vice marshal. They possess several thousands of elementary schools, high schools and colleges, and full cultural religious freedom.

Fourth, Ukrainian veterans who fought against Poland at the time of the reconstruction of the Polish state enjoy the same pensions and hospitalization as the Polish veterans.

Fifth, Ukrainian coöperatives, commercial and cultural societies, enjoy the same government protection as corresponding Polish institutions.

Those mixed Slavic populations on the eastern border of Poland had a common history for 600 years, under the protection of the tolerant Polish state [with the exception of 125 years of partition of Poland] and now the resurrected and reformed Polish state granted equal rights and protection to all its minorities, demanding only loyalty from all citizens of the realm. M. GLOD.

Past National Commander of Polish Legion of American Veterans.

A BRACER FOR SOMEBODY'S MAID.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—"Somebody's Maid" wrote the other day that she wished to become a laboratory technician, but was unable to do so, in spite of her excellent high school record, because she did not have sufficient money.

I am many years older than she, but young people tell me that I have an understanding of their problems and frequently come to me for counsel. It would seem that I had been completely thwarted in every ambition of my youth, but I can honestly say that my whole life has worked out to the greatest happiness and usefulness.

"Somebody's Maid" is indulging in an orgy of self-pity and envy. Nothing is more devastating to success in any line. At the present moment a really good maid is about the rarest thing in this country. My advice is to do that work well. When a little experience is gained, try to find employment in a faculty family, as they are usually very happy to coöperate with student help. The books required in the courses might be found in public libraries or second hand stores. There are also home courses costing very little and at some universities one can matriculate, study at home, and pay a small examination fee.

You cannot possibly keep a good man down. MRS. M. C. C.

SEEK LAW TO AID VOTERS WHO QUIT PARTY IN PRIMARY

State Legislature to Get Bill Next Tuesday.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Legislation permitting voters to enter either the Republican or the Democratic city primaries on Feb. 28 will be introduced in the house of representatives at Springfield next Tuesday.

Under a ruling made last spring by County Judge Jarecki, and which since has been disputed by other court decisions, party switches were made possible. Entrance of Republicans into the Democratic primary fight was generally credited with making Judge Jarecki's renomination possible.

The judge ruled that the two year prohibition against changing parties meant election rather than calendar years. Thus, although the period intervening between the 1936 and the 1938 primaries was two days short of two years, voters were allowed to shift their party label if they chose. If this ruling stands, those who shifted parties last April would be bound to remain in the party in which they voted then.

Bill Would Clarify Law.

Representative John A. Pelka [R., Chicago], said yesterday he would present a bill Tuesday to open the 1939 primaries and further provide that the two year provision means two full, calendar years of 365 days each.

The bill will carry an emergency clause and efforts to rush its passage will be made. If it receives 34 votes in the senate and 102 votes in the house—a two-thirds majority—it will become effective as soon as it is signed by Acting Gov. Stelle.

Edward F. Moore, chairman of the Republican county central committee, said the bill was approved by Charles B. Goodspeed, treasurer of the national committee, and also by Chicago ward committeemen.

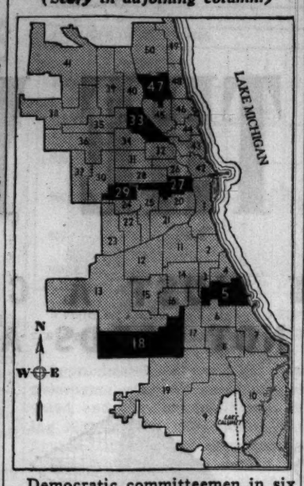
Pelka issued a statement saying he was introducing the measure because of a conflict of judicial opinions on the two year restriction.

Some estimates are that 100,000 Republicans would be returned to their own primaries if the measure becomes law. These persons would also be certain of participation in their own primaries in 1940.

Acting Governor Stelle and Speaker Hugh W. Cross of the house sent telegrams to senators and representatives yesterday calling them back to Springfield for Tuesday's session. When both houses adjourned Tuesday it was the intention to keep them in recess until Jan. 24.

Support Withheld

(Story in adjoining column.)



Democratic committeemen in six wards, shown in black, have not yet declared themselves for Mayor Kelly in the mayoral primary. The committeemen in all the other 44 wards have declared for Kelly. New leaders have been named to represent the regular Democratic organization in the wards.

CRAZED HUSBAND WOUNDS WIFE, TRIES SUICIDE

Obsessed with the idea, police said, that his wife was trying to poison him, Stanley Dobiecki shot her three times and critically wounded her yesterday in their apartment at 1237 31st street. She crawled through a window and went to a neighbor's home for help. Dobiecki then tried to end his own life with gas.

Police took the woman, Mrs. Celia Dobiecki, 43 years old, to St. Paul hospital. They broke down the bathroom door and found Dobiecki unconscious from gas. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital, where it was said he would recover. Dobiecki recently suffered a nervous breakdown. Soon afterward he took some food to the police and told them his wife had poisoned it. Analysis showed that there was no poison.

Woman Freed on Charge of Defrauding Relief Agency

Mrs. Rose Zims, 50 years old, 449 North Carpenter street, was freed yesterday by Judge Oscar S. Caplan of a charge of defrauding the Chicago Relief administration. Officials said the case had been settled out of court when Mrs. Zims refunded $450. When she was arrested last Dec. 3 on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, more than $900 was found in her stocking. An investigation was started when it was learned she and her husband, Rudolph, had been on relief prior to February, 1938.

C. S. DEWEY HEADS GREEN FOR MAYOR CITIZENS' GROUP

Plan to Contact 200,000 Voters Before Primary.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

The Committee of Ten Thousand, composed of independents who will work actively in Dwight H. Green's campaign for the Republican mayoral nomination, will open headquarters Monday at 332 South Michigan avenue. Charles S. Dewey has been chosen chairman of the committee, it was announced yesterday.

Dewey, recent G. O. P. nominee for congress in the 9th district, had been mentioned for the mayoral race. He withdrew in favor of Green. Dewey will be aided as committee chairman by David L. Shillinglaw, who will head the special groups division of the committee.

Committee of Volunteers.

The Committee of Ten Thousand was created as a result of the many letters which Green received after he announced his candidacy. Many of these letters said the writers had not been in politics but that they wanted to work for Green as independents.

Mail contacts with about 200,000 independent voters will be established by the committee. It will sponsor the Monday night broadcasts Green will make at 9:30 p. m. over WMAQ until the primary on Feb. 28.

"Mr. Green is far more than the candidate of one party," Shillinglaw said yesterday. "He is the candidate for all of the people. It is seldom that citizens of any city have had an opportunity to work for a man of such high character."

Green, world war aviator and former United States district attorney, who jailed many gangsters, was indorsed yesterday by the Illinois Servicemen's League of Chicago. It was the first time in its fifteen years history that the league had indorsed a candidate.

Want Legionnaire for Mayor.

Ferre C. Watkins, Green's campaign manager, said he and other members of the American Legion feel it would be appropriate for Chicago to have a Legionnaire as mayor when the national Legion convention is held here this year. Green is the first world war veteran to run for mayor in Chicago.

Last night the candidate discussed taxation and the school problem with workers in the 18th and 22d wards. The 18th ward meeting was held at 6414 South Halsted street, with Committeeman George M. Fisher presiding. The 22d ward gathering, sponsored by Ward Committeeman Anthony Golusinski, was held at 2258 South Albany avenue.

"Is it any wonder," Green said at these meetings, "that new industries have passed up Chicago and located elsewhere in many cases? They send in their experts and when they learn how taxes have climbed, and of the proposals to advance them even more, they go to some better governed city."

Green said that as mayor he would administer city affairs on a business basis. The first thing he would do would be to demand a public audit of all city accounts, he said.

Green will carry his campaign into the 41st ward tonight. He will address a meeting sponsored by James Moreland, ward committeeman, at 4900 Milwaukee avenue.

24 Seized in Handbook Raids Released by Judge

Twenty-four defendants seized in twelve handbook raids were dismissed by Judge Francis Borrelli in State street court yesterday. Judge Borrelli said the evidence against them was insufficient.

AFTER 17 YEARS OF PAIN, SON IS SLAIN BY FATHER

Lethal Fumes Applied by Distraught Parent.

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—For seventeen years, Louis Greenfield, a prosperous Bronx milliner, kept watch night and day over his son, Jerry, who was born mentally deficient, and was frequently seized with paralysis that racked his frail body.

Today, when the boy complained wearily that his head was aching, the father patted him, then put a sponge saturated with chloroform to the boy's nostrils and held it there until he died.

Sick from the fumes that rose from the sponge, Greenfield stood a while by the boy's bed, leaned over and caressed him, then left the apartment.

Asks Police Be Called.

He knocked at the door of the apartment occupied by John Muenther, superintendent of the apartment house, and said: "I just gave my boy chloroform. I think he's dead now. I couldn't stand his suffering any more. He's been sick since he was a kid. Please call the police."

Muenther telephoned for the police. While awaiting their arrival he asked the father: "Why did you do it? You'll get into a lot of trouble for it."

"I'd rather go through a lot of trouble than have my boy suffer all the time," Greenfield replied.

Later the father told his story to the police. As time passed he seemed to realize more completely that his child was dead and he threatened to kill himself, too. A close guard was kept on him.

Like Other Mercy Deaths.

Greenfield's story is like the other stories of so-called mercy killings.

There was no indication he had revealed his plans to his wife. Police said the distracted father put off the deed from day to day until this morning. He finally made up his mind after his son had spent a restless and painful night.

The case probably will go through the usual routine and it will be up to a Bronx county grand jury to decide whether Greenfield is to be indicted and on what charge. In some similar cases grand juries have refused to vote indictments.

The most recent mercy killing in New York occurred in Hewlett last October, when Harry C. Johnson killed his wife, who was suffering from incurable cancer. A board of alienists found Johnson was insane at the time of the killing, but regained his sanity afterward. The Nassau county grand jury refused to indict him and Johnson was freed.

ROBBER SHOWS HOW HE KILLED CHINESE WOMAN

A young Chinese who confessed the murder of Mrs. May Wong, a Chinese restaurant owner, in her home at 1443 West 63d street during a robbery last Monday accompanied the police to the scene yesterday and told how he committed the crime. He is Arthur Hue, 25 years old, of 1429 North Clark street.

Arthur Hue.

Hue told Capt. Walter Healy and Julius Sherwin, assistant state's attorney, in the Englewood station that he had been employed for two weeks in Mrs. Wong's restaurant at 1712 West 95th street. He said that he had done some work in the apartment New Year's day and returned Monday to rob her to get money to buy liquor. He beat her and choked her while she slept. He took $18 from a purse.

Miss Maria Sunji, 21 years old, a University of Chicago student, who roomed with Mrs. Wong, gave the police the clew which led to the confession. She told of Hue's visit to the home Jan. 1 and said he had been arrested before for stealing $28 from an employer.

FIGHT TO OUST HAMMONDSCHOOL BOARD STARTED

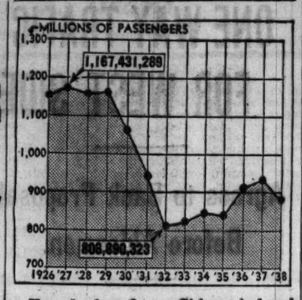
A court fight to remove the Republican controled school board of Hammond, Ind., was launched yesterday by Democratic leaders of the town. The new board was challenged in a quo waranto action to show by what right it holds office. The Democrats charge the present members, who were elected last Nov. 8, had filed their nominating petitions with a city canvassing board instead of the Lake county clerk.

Hammond Republicans charge that the action is an attempt to halt an audit of the accounts of the Democratic board, which retired on Jan. 1. They add that the nominating petitions were filed just as were those of all other candidates elected on Nov. 8. Members of the present board are Charles N. Scott, Dr. C. A. McVey, and Columbus Smith, Republicans, and Clarence A. Mason and Claude C. Sohl, Democrats. The case will be heard on Jan. 23 before Judge Harold L. Strickland of the Lake county Superior court.

Associate Justice Brandeis Reaches Convalescent Stage

Washington, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Associate Justice Brandeis, 82 years old, who has been confined to his bed with grip, reached the convalescent stage today. Associates said, however, there was no indication when the jurist would return to his duties on the Supreme court bench.

Transit Riders



Trend of trafic on Chicago's local transportation systems since 1926.

Approximately 51 million fewer passengers rode the street car, elevated, and bus lines in Chicago during 1938 than in 1937, annual trafic figures issued by the companies disclosed yesterday. The decline was 5½ per cent and reflected chiefly reduced industrial and business activity last year.

The three local transportation systems carried 880,430,661 revenue passengers. This included interline riders—those using two systems on intercompany transfers. In 1937 revenue riders totaled 931,932,342.

The street car system in 1938 carried 678,677,016 riders, or 77.1 per cent of the total. The elevated railways carried 144,559,431, or 16.4 per cent, and the Chicago Motor Coach company 57,194,214, or 6.5 per cent. Surface lines riding declined 6.2 per cent in 1938, elevated 3.8 per cent, and bus company less than 1 per cent.

Although total riding in December was still below the preceding year, the decrease was considerably smaller than that existing in the middle of 1938.

Phillippe Verbrugghen, Son of Famous Conductor, Shot

Park Rapids, Minn., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Phillippe Verbrugghen, son of the former Minneapolis Symphony orchestra conductor, Henri Verbrugghen, was critically wounded today, County Attorney Charles L. Clark said, by a paroled convict who shot him eight times from ambush. Clark said Antonio Iannazzo, 24 years old, of St. Paul, captured in the farm home of William Ohnsted near Laporte, confessed the shooting. He said the convicted burglar told him he hoped to steal money from Verbrugghen, a truck driver for a Park Rapids creamery.

MARTIN'S POWER CURBED BY UNION EXECUTIVE BOARD

Two Ousted Officers Are Ordered Reinstated.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—The second slap at Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, within two days was taken tonight by the international executive board of the C. I. O. union.

Disregarding the threatening presence of forty Martin supporters, the board stripped the president of his constitutional power to suspend officers of any local and ordered the reinstatement of all officers of the Detroit Plymouth local No. 51. These officers were suspended by Martin Saturday night on charges the unit was communist controled.

The board yesterday removed Martin as editor of the U. A. W. A. weekly newspaper, a strategic position in his interunion fight, and placed a five man publications committee of its own members in charge.

Seizes Books and Treasury.

A resolution reinstating the Plymouth local officers said Martin had seized control of the local by mob rule. Martin led a group of members to the local's office Saturday night, seized the books and treasury, and suspended President Leo Lamotte and Secretary Micahel Duletski.

The board, of which Lamotte is a member, removed the two administrators Martin had placed in charge of the local and ordered all records and funds returned to the officers he had suspended.

During the afternoon session, the board room was picketed by twenty former Ford Motor company employés in protest against what they termed the board's interference with Martin's plans for a collective bargaining agreement with the Ford company.

Rehearing Pleas Denied.

The men were among 29 workers whose reinstatement was ordered by the National Labor Relations board more than a year ago. The NLRB later withdrew its case from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The twenty men today demanded a hearing before the board, but their pleas were denied.

The board recessed without acting on Martin's request for a special convention of rank and file delegates of the union to settle the war that has split the organization for more than a year. Martin charged that the inner group within the union is controled by communists.

Tells Need for Industry to Be Ready if War Comes

Brig. Gen. Charles H. Harris, assistant chief of ordnance at Washington, D. C., urged industrial preparedness at a meeting of the Chicago chapter of the Army Ordnance association in the Chicago club last night. The importance of material and equipment in a modern war was stressed by Maj. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commanding the 6th corps area here. The meeting, attended by 200 members, was presided over by Edmund Russell.

WEYMER'S WIFE DENIES SHE HAD ANY MEN FRIENDS

Judge Philip J. Finnegan heard more yesterday about the marital life of Mrs. Ann Weymer, 27 years old, and her husband, Earl, 50, wealthy head of an ornamental iron construction company. She is suing for separate maintenance on charges of cruelty and nonsupport, while he seeks a divorce on charges of cruelty and adultery.

Mrs. Weymer defended herself calmly against her husband's charges. Calling the infidelity charge untrue, she said the most daring thing she did was to go to a movie one night with another man—and the man's sweetheart, her own girl friend, was along. Mrs. Weymer also denied striking her husband.

Whenever she went out, she said, it was not with men, as he claimed, but in the company of girl friends, and she didn't drink. Always, she said, her husband afterward wanted to know if she had had a good time. She couldn't remember the dates that she went out, she said. "I didn't keep a diary," she explained.

TELL OF WORKING WITH INFORMER IN FORGERY PLOT

Spy on Moran Gang Paid $170 a Week.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

Further testimony on the undercover activities which resulted in the smashing of a $500,000 forgery plot was given yesterday by state witnesses before a jury and Judge James F. Fardy in Criminal court.

Harold Keyes—helps investigate plot.

Attorney Emile Van Bever left the stand during the morning after two days of questioning in which he had implicated the three defendants on trial. They are George [Bugs] Moran, prohibition gang leader; Frank Parker, once known as the airplane bootlegger, and Frank Hicketts, alias Ross. The three are accused of conspiracy to counterfeit and cash travelers' checks of the American Express company.

Police Sergeant on Stand.

Van Bever was followed on the stand by Police Sergeant Walter Paradowski, Joseph T. Walsh, district financial manager for the express company, and Harold Keyes, an investigator for the company.

Van Bever had told of convincing the defendants that he would participate in their scheme, while actually he was informing the company and police of the development of the plot. The plot was exposed when Frank Quigley was arrested in Pittsburgh, Pa., last April 21, while trying to pass one of the spurious checks.

Paradowski, Walsh, and Keyes corroborated Van Bever's story, relating how they watched the gangsters' movements through his information.

Use $150 Marked Bills.

Paradowski said that on April 23 Van Bever showed him a bundle of the bogus paper which, according to Van Bever, had been hidden by Parker in a tavern washroom. Walsh said he had listened in on telephone conversations between Parker and Van Bever in which the plot was discussed.

Walsh also told of giving Van Bever $150 in marked bills, which the lawyer said he gave to Parker and received in return $1,050 in forged checks. Keyes testified to several conferences with Van Bever, Walsh, and other express company officials.

Van Bever, on cross examination by Defense Attorney James Burke, said he has been on the pay roll of the company at $170 a week since April 5. He denied he had been promised a $25,000 reward or a permanent job with the company in the event of a conviction in the case.

GOV. AIKEN HITS WAR SECRETARY ON DAM PROGRAM

Montpelier, Vt., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Asserting the secretary of war had spurned Vermont's offer of coöperation on flood control, and that the federal government's secret motive was domination rather than flood prevention, Gov. George D. Aiken, Republican, today urged the Vermont legislature to deal directly with congress in the matter.

In a special message to the joint Vermont assembly concerning a proposed flood control dam at Union Village, Vt., Aiken declared Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring was evidently "impatient with democracy."

"For more than a year," the governor continued, "I have warned that behind the flood control, behind the power developments was a deliberate attempt to prepare the way for a little group to run things their way—good sometimes, bad sometimes—but always their way, forgetting that a check with the home folks and their wishes is not only good, practical horse sense, but the very essence of democracy."

ADVISES HORNER NOT TO CONFER WITH HIS AIDS

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner was told by his physician today that he should not attempt to talk with four of his political advisers from Illinois.

"I asked the governor not to attempt the meeting," said Dr. E. Sterling Nichol, who is treating the governor at the home of Col. L. P. Bonfoey, chairman of the Illinois aeronautics commission. "I told him he would be better off not to have the excitement of such a meeting."

James M. Slattery, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, talked with Mr. Horner yesterday. This meeting, Dr. Nichol said, left the governor tired and nervous. On hand hoping to see him are also Charles K. Schwartz, Illinois tax commissioner; Samuel L. Nudelman, director of finance, and F. Lyndon Smith, director of public works and buildings. They constitute, with Acting Governor John Stelle, the so-called "regency" which is running Illinois in Mr. Horner's absence.

Captured Fugitive Slayer Ordered Back to Illinois

Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey yesterday signed extradition papers ordering the return to Illinois of Charlie Moy, a Chinese who escaped from the Joliet penitentiary in 1919. Moy was sent to prison in 1911 after he pleaded guilty to slaying Carl R. Johnson in Chicago. His term was fourteen years and he was about to be paroled when he fled. He was arrested in Newark on Jan. 4 for a liquor law violation and was identified by finger prints.

WORLD'S TINIEST BABY IS TINY NO LONGER; SHE'S 3

Jacqueline Jean Benson, who was considered the world's tiniest baby when she was born, celebrated her third birthday yesterday, and she can count ten and pronounce Czecho-Slovakia.

Jacqueline really won't be three until tomorrow. She had her birthday party yesterday because she's going to celebrate officially tomorrow with her grandmother, Mrs. Michael Vant, in Peru, Ind. Jacqueline's guest yesterday was Barbara Olson, 4217 North Marmora avenue, also 3, who was her guest at last year's celebration.

When Jacqueline was born she weighed only 12 ounces. On her second birthday she weighed 24 pounds and was about 28 inches tall. Now, according to her proud mother, Mrs. Lester Benson of 5914 Dakin street, Jacqueline weighs 28 pounds and is about 30 inches tall. She wears size two dresses.

BICYCLIST KILLED BY TRUCK.

West Frankfort, Ill., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Joseph Manning, 10 years old, died today of injuries when a truck hit his bicycle.

YOUTH RUN OVER BY HIS OWN CAR; DIES OF INJURIES

Ernest Kelleher, 17 years old, 4614 Gilbert avenue, Western Springs, died in the Hinsdale sanitarium yesterday of injuries suffered Wednesday night when he cranked his car while it was in gear. The youth was driving on Gilbert avenue between 45th street and Burlington avenue when he met his brother and a friend in another car. Both cars were stopped and Ernest's engine stalled. The other car was in front of his as he cranked it. He was caught between the two cars for an instant, then run over by his own car as the other auto was pulled up to free him.

Nels Vedin, 63 years old, 826 Barry avenue, a tailor, died in the Lutheran Deaconess hospital of injuries suffered earlier in the day when he was struck by an automobile at 3009 Fullerton avenue. Charles Merz, 3010 North Luna avenue, driver of the car, was not held.

James Moran, 51 years old, 1426 Newberry avenue, died in the County hospital last night of injuries suffered earlier in the day when he was run down by an automobile at May street and Roosevelt road. The driver was Wilson Fyke, 24, of Decatur, Ill.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday fifty persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these thirty-nine were killed in Chicago, where 721 were injured in the same period.

HIGH SCHOOLGIRL, RECKLESS DRIVER, WINS PROBATION

A suspended fine of $100 was imposed last night upon Miss Mary Louise Pierson, a Lake Forest High school girl, on charges of reckless driving without lights, by Magistrate Edwin Burgess. She pleaded guilty. Her father, D. Robert Pierson, a broker, paid costs of $5. Magistrate Burgess placed Miss Pierson on probation for a year, and ordered her not to drive again until May 1. Police testified that she doused the lights of her car and tried to get away when they chased her for speeding, and that she crashed into an unoccupied house. Three young friends were in the car with her. No one was hurt.

STARK WILL ASK CLEANUP FUND FOR KANSAS CITY

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark said today he would ask the legislature to appropriate $100,000 to the attorney general office for prosecutions—the amount asked by Attorney General Roy McKittrick to conduct a "clean up" of Kansas City.

The $100,000 fund specified by the governor, however, would make up the entire prosecution's appropriation for the next two years. McKittrick had asked for a special appropriation. The request must be acted upon by the legislature.

MAYOR TO URGE ONE WAY TRAFIC FOR WEST SIDE

Agrees to Back Proposal Before Aldermen.

BY HAL FOUST.

Mayor Kelly told a delegation of west siders yesterday that he would appear with them before a city council committee next week to advocate a one-way trafic system between the loop and Oak Park.

The proposal would extend the existing one way trafic system in Warren and Washington boulevards between Garfield and Union parks. East of Union park, Washington would be used for east bound trafic only, while west bound travel would use Randolph street. West of Garfield park, Washington would be for east bound trafic only while west bound would use first Maypole avenue and then West End avenue.

"West Side Needs Relief."

"This is not a substitute plan for the ultimate construction of a Congress street parkway or a west side elevated highway," the mayor said. "The west side needs relief from its congestion and accidents before any major construction job can be completed. And the one way system will be of value after one or more new major facilities are finished."

The delegation consisted of a special committee of the Chicago Motor club's west area council. Ray McCarthy, president of the Garfield Park Business Men's association, was chairman. George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club, briefly explained the plan.

"The operation of the Warren-Washington system has demonstrated the benefits of the one-way trafic control," said the engineer. "Travel is expedited. Accidents are fewer because pedestrians and drivers in cross streets have only one way to look.

Compares Cost with Benefits.

"The cost is trivial in comparison with benefits. The costs have been variously estimated at from $750,000 to $2,250,000, depending upon how extensive should be the modification of existing pavements. For example, the park district, in studying this plan, suggested that the car tracks in the broad Randolph street market might be separated for a thirty foot express driveway in the center. A cheaper method might be to use just the north side of the street for three lanes of west bound trafic, leaving the tracks where they are."

GETS 6 MONTHS FOR THEFT.

Frank Leo, 735 South Hermitage avenue, was sentenced by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan yesterday to six months in the county jail for petty larceny. Leo was arrested Tuesday after he strong-armed Robert E. Davenport of Evansville, Ind., and took $120.

SYNOPSIS.

In a railway station a young man, apparently dying, gives the hero his wallet and baggage check to claim his luggage and get his medicine. Before he can carry out the errand Detective Mike Clancy starts to arrest him as a fugitive bank teller. But the dying man creates a diversion and the hero escapes. He gets the sick man's bags, then, seeing the man being carried away on a stretcher, he uses the man's ticket, boards the train, and is on his way to Clovis, N. M., as John Bowman—an innocent fugitive, having taken the blame for missing funds to save his father. Before reaching Clovis he confesses his identity to Sheriff Tom Johnson, who boards the train to welcome John Bowman, whose father, Pete Bowman, is dying and longs to see the son separated from him since boyhood. The sheriff persuades him to take on the rôle. John's sister, Mary, and her fiance, Charles Ferdinand, manager of her father's ranch, meet him in Amarillo.

INSTALMENT V.

LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT.

As I let Charles Ferdinand grip my hand in a crushing clasp, which practically benumbed it for the next ten minutes, my eyes fell on Mary Bowman.

I can't tell you now exactly how Mary Bowman looked that first moment when she stepped into my heart. It's all too mixed up with what I remember about her later. I can't even say that she was beautiful—and she must have been—because I found out afterward that loveliness had nothing to do with her face nor her body but was a part of her spirit that circumstances could not change.

She was little, she was dark, she was brave. It was her hair that was dark—I mean almost black—and her skin was that clear ivory which does not tan. Underneath finely etched eyebrows and through long lashes her eyes were the index of that honest bravery I have mentioned. There was no guile in them in a day when it is considered the height of feminine unwisdom to be frank about emotions. We cloak our feelings nowadays with wisecracks. It is supposed to be gallant.

Yes, there was Mary Bowman, in something dark blue and tailored, with a little dust on it, as simple and unassuming as her companion was bluffly theatric.

She held out her arms to me.

"It's good to have you back again, John."

What could I do?

When we kissed I thought I heard the sound of a faint chuckle somewhere just outside the drawing room door. It might have been Sheriff Tom Johnson realizing, as I did myself, that now I was in for it, no matter what happened.

Ferdinand was shouting loudly for the porter, who came eventually.

"Take Mr. Bowman's grip to that taxi across the platform there."

"But," protested the porter, who had a one track mind, "this gentleman here, he don't git off 'til Clovis, New Mexico."

"Five dollars says you're wrong, George." Ferdinand gave him the money with one hand and slapped him on the back, just a little too hard, with the other. The porter was an old man, not very big, and the blow nearly knocked him down.

"I just came along for the ride, Mr. Bowman."

I was a little dazed by the rapidity with which things had happened and, too, I was still under the spell of Mary's voice and eyes. Here eyes were fixed on mine now with a wealth of welcome. But there was no gayety in them. Just behind the lashes there were tears somewhere.

"Let's get going," Charles urged impatiently.

I turned my attention to him at last. "I don't think I quite understand."

He laughed. "We're flying you down to the ranch—bringing the prodigal son home in style." As an afterthought he asked, "You don't mind flying, do you, John?"

"I'm not crazy about it. I crashed once."

And so I had only three months before, but my controls had been shot away. I hadn't been up since.

"Crashes don't happen when I'm piloting the ship." There was a little pitying scorn in Charles' voice. "With me you'll be safe as a church."

As we drove to the flying field Charles did most of the talking. I rather suspected that he was accustomed to it. My attention was elsewhere and I heard very little. I was preoccupied principally with the predicament I was in and how I was going to tell them that I was not John Bowman. This grew increasingly difficult as I realized how much this girl, Mary, trusted me. Her hand lay confidently in mine, passive, and yet telling me by its very quiescence that it had found a haven it had long sought and needed. To relinquish it and say brutally that I was an imposter would be like slapping a child in the face.

She sat between us. I was a little sidewise in the seat. To avoid meeting her eyes, which were melting my resolution rapidly, I perforce looked at Charles. He was older than I had thought at first, nearing 40, I surmised.

There was no question about it, though, Charles Ferdinand was easily the most handsome male I had ever seen. And he knew how to handle himself, too. In ordinary conversation he did not speak loudly and he used his hands well. They were large but not awkward. I suspected that all of his muscles were under as perfect control as a lion's. He had tawny brown eyes, which further increased his likeness to the king of the jungle.

Charles was, in short, the sort of a man that no woman with an ounce of elemental passion in her makeup could fail to be attracted to. By the same token men would be apt to regard him warily as a potential raider of their own compounds.

One thing that he said did sharply attract my attention. "We are all especially glad that you got here in plenty of time for our wedding tomorrow. As father Bowman will not be able to attend the ceremony, you will be the one to give the bride away."

My soul almost cried out in revolt at this casual statement of his imminent proprietorship of the girl who sat by my side. I thought I detected a slight tension of the muscles of her hand as he spoke but if there was anything like that she relaxed immediately.

"I didn't know the ceremony was so soon," I managed to contribute.

"Yep," he said. "One more day and she's all mine, body and soul, aren't you, sweet?" He reached over and pinched her cheek.

"We've waited a long time," he added, "but father Bowman was stubborn about wanting you to be here."

So that was the part that I was supposed to play—to hand over the woman who had already taken complete possession of my imagination to another man. I couldn't do it.

"I'm sorry," I half stammered. "I haven't a morning coat or——"

He laughed. "It isn't that kind of a wedding. Most of the guests will be in riding clothes and some of the local gentry will doubtless wear their best overalls."

Mary pressed my hand. "It's all right, John. We'll both do what father wants us to—won't we? I think this will be the last chance we'll ever have."

She said this soberly and I asked, "Is the end then so near?"

Mary nodded. "But it's not so sad really. He's willing to go. His part in the country that he has loved is played. He can't understand about women riding horseback just to reduce or believe that a cocktail lounge is really a saloon. You'll see."

On the runways at the landing field was a white cabin biplane that you could see a couple of miles away even on the ground. That had to be Charles Ferdinand's airship and as we came up to it I could read painted on its side in gold letters, "Bowman Ranch, Charles Ferdinand, manager."

A woman was waiting for us at the side-entrance door of the cabin. She was introduced to me as Mrs. Lodge, the wife of Pete Bowman's physician, who had been staying at the ranch ever since the veteran cattleman's last stroke.

"I just came along for the ride, Mr. Bowman," she explained to me with a very lovely smile. "I didn't go to the station to meet you because I thought that ought to be strictly a family affair."

She was beautiful but she didn't work at it. I liked her at once for that. About 30, I guessed, with a marvelous figure, middle height, taller than Mary, anyway, rather well developed—but curves are coming back, I understand—in an apple green knitted sports costume that didn't go badly with the natural blonde hair that she wore longer than most. She had deep haunting blue eyes and a full lovely mouth, just a little discontented looking.

An attendant handed Charles a seat-pack parachute which he strapped on before entering. "There is no cushion in the pilot's seat," he explained, half apologetically, "so I use this to save wear and tear. There are more chutes inside [redacted] you'd like to put them on but it won't be necessary."

I quite agreed with him. Even at a casual glance I could see that the ship was equipped with every known safety device, including Handley-Page nonstalling slots for landing.

'MIX' AND 'ADD' GET THE RECIPE WRITER 'DOWN'

BY MARY MEADE.

Two little three letter words sometimes almost get a recipe writer down. They are "add" and "mix." "Add the flour to the batter and mix thoroughly." These words are used so frequently in cooking formulas that sometimes we weary of them and wish there were other ways to say the same thing.

But take a look with me into a dictionary of synonyms. For "add" we have join, unite, adjoin, affix, annex, append. For "mix" there are, besides "blend," which we often do use, mingle, temper, interfuse, amalgamate, intertangle. "Append the flour to the batter and intertangle," No, I guess we'll have to get along after all with those two annoying little three letter words.

Trite Adjectives Annoying.

Just as annoying are the trite adjectives to which a cooking editor resorts . . . delicious, appetizing, tempting, delectable, delightful. There just aren't enough descriptive terms which apply to good food. Often, in despair, we label a delicious, appetizing, tempting, delectable, and delightful dish simply "good to eat."

Calling at our office last week was an engineer by profession, a candy maker by avocation. It all came about through an inordinate fondness for peanut brittle. He suddenly determined one day to make some peanut brittle, and had such good luck that he procured our booklet "Simple Home Made Candies" and reveled among the kettles and saucepans. A favorite with him is the "easy fudge" recipe in the booklet. He interested a golf playing friend in his hobby sufficiently to inspire the other man to make a five pound batch of the fudge for "company."

I might as well finish this little sales talk by mentioning that a 5 cent stamp will bring you the booklet.

The trouble with a cooking editor's job is that she's always working herself into a hungry froth, and consequently eats too much.

Two Kinds of Pie.

Ever hear of "matrimony pie" or "foolish pie"? The first is a currant pie made with a single crust. The pastry is rolled larger than the pie pan and, when the filling is placed in it, the edges are folded in to cover a part of the currants.

"Foolish pie" is made like this: Beat six egg whites until stiff, and gradually beat in two cups of sugar. Add one tablespoon vanilla and one tablespoon vinegar, and beat a few minutes longer. Pour the mixture into two greased pie plates and bake the meringue forty-five minutes in a very slow oven. Cool and put the two meringues together with whipped cream and fruit, and nuts if you like. Then top with the same mixture. This is an extravagant, rich, and elegant pie.

RECTOR TO GIVE SCRAMBLED EGG RECIPE SUNDAY

Visit Normandy when you go to France, on the advice of George Rector, the famous chef. In Normandy see the remarkable fortified rock of Mont St. Michel. At Mont St. Michel go to the famous William the Conqueror restaurant. At the William the Conqueror get acquainted with the owner and manager, Mme. Poulard. And ask Mme. Poulard to prepare scrambled eggs after her inimitable fashion.

If that is more than you can manage within the near future, you still may enjoy scrambled eggs a la Mme. Poulard. Starting with a wooden bowl and wooden spoon, you follow a ritual which will be described by Mr. Rector in his column in the woman's section of SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE.

In Mr. Rector's column also will be found a recipe for delicious chicken Tettrazini, along with suggestions for several tempting shrimp dishes.

It's fun to make candy with the tried and true recipes in Mary Meade's "Simple Homemade Candies." The booklet is on sale for 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower, or will be mailed to you for 5 cents in stamps.

EGGS AND BUTTER PRICES CUT; FEW OTHER CHANGES

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Housewives who look for bargains will find few changes in prices at neighborhood retail food centers today and tomorrow.

One downward change is a big slash in the price of eggs. In making their weekly survey, TRIBUNE reporters found that city and suburban merchants have reduced the price of strictly fresh eggs 6 cents to 10 cents a dozen.

Butter prices also dropped. Retailers are asking 1 to 3 cents a pound less for both roll and package butter.

Prices of Flour Vary.

Flour prices vary on the higher grades. Some merchants cut their prices 2 cents for a 24½ pound sack, while others raised their prices 4 cents a sack on the higher grades.

Lard jumped up 2 cents a pound in several places.

Green grocers clipped their prices a little on head lettuce and small oranges.

Green peas are beginning to come down on the wholesale market and in a few retail stores, but they still are too high for general distribution. Many retailers are not carrying them in their stocks of fresh vegetables.

Some grades of fresh tomatoes are considered reasonable for this time of the year. Several merchants lowered their tomato prices this week.

New Potatoes Plentiful.

Potato prices are shifting; some are asking 1 to 3 cents a peck more while others have cut their prices an equal amount. New potatoes from Florida and California are plentiful, but as usual for this season of the year potatoes of the new crop are much higher than old ones.

Lemon prices vary in different stores. Some merchants are asking 2 cents a dozen less than a week ago while others added 4 cents a dozen to their prices.

Spinach, cucumbers, radishes, and bananas are a little higher in many places.

In most centers shoppers will find that some butchers have cut their prices on a variety of meats. Several shops are offering beef pot roasts at 2 cents a pound under last week. The same shops are selling shoulder of lamb chops at 2 cents a pound under last week's prices and rib lamb chops at reductions as much as 4 cents a pound. In other places rib and loin lamb chops are mostly 2 to 3 cents a pound higher.

Several butchers cut their prices on pork spare ribs as much as 4 cents a pound. Stewing chickens are 2 cents lower in several shops. Most retail meat markets raised their prices on leg of lamb 2 to 6 cents a pound.

Down in Packingtown wholesalers are offering dressed lamb and pork loins at about the same prices that prevailed a week ago, while beef is off 50 cents a hundred pounds.

Farmers are being paid less for most of their live stock at Union stockyards. Choice and prime yearling steers are about the same and the medium to good grades are off 25 cents a hundredweight, according to official reports. Heavy cattle sold up to $13.60 a hundred and light cattle up to $13.40 a hundred. Hogs of different weights varied from 15 to 50 cents a hundred under last week. The week's top was $7.90 a hundred pounds. Fat lambs are 35 to 50 cents a hundred lower, with the top for the week selling at $9.25 a hundred.

There were few changes in wholesale prices of fresh fruits and vegetables on the central market this week. Cauliflower, celery, fresh peas, rhubarb, and oranges are lower, according to federal reports. Bunch carrots, head lettuce, grapes, and potatoes are higher.

Minotte M. Chatfield, field secretary for Yale in China, in Chicago from Changsha, has many harrowing war stories. One tale concerns an air raid, after which orders were given by the captain of the British gunboat Sandpiper, stationed in the Siang river, for men to put out the lifeboats and look for survivors. The men were not to pick up the dead, but to concentrate on the living, he ordered. A Chinese baby floated past the bow of the boat and a sailor rescued it, then, believing it dead, threw it back into the water. Another sailor at the stern picked up the floating infant, worked over it for a half hour, and was able to resuscitate it. The child, suffering from a gash in the head, was sent to the Yale in China field hospital. Now, completely recovered, it is back on the Sandpiper, has been adopted by the crew, and named Flotilla.

Bats and Buzzers.

Actually a jocky who threw away his whip would be disqualified.—F. V. and P., Wednesday.

A jocky who threw away his bat, as a whip is called on a race course, would probably not be disqualified, but the judges would have him up with the bat to ascertain if everything were on the up and up. (The bat might hold a buzzer.)

Also, a bat is not part of the weight when the lads weigh in and out. On returning from a race the lads signal the judges for permission to dismount, throw their bats to the handlers, then weigh off the track, carrying only the tiny saddle and minute blanket. Even the cloth number is taken away from them before they step on the Fairbanks.

Avoid Rounded Effects When You Use Rouge

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Promise yourself one thing this year, women, and you'll contribute your bit toward better makeup artistry. Promise that you will NOT put on or wear your rouge in round spots. The worst facial work seen today appears so because of this failing. We advisers call attention to the error of the round discs time and again, but our words are not heeded. Is it because it is the easiest way to apply it? Is it because inexpert women use simply the dry rouge on the little round disc?

Our opinion is that to use dry rouge you must employ more time and artistry to get it on skillfully than with cream rouge. You can't use even the latter "on the run," so to speak. You have to sit down to the job, or, at least, stand before a mirror a minute or so. And time is the dominant element in getting cheek rouge on rightly.

The same goes for lipstick, too, but, even so, the lipstick applications do not look so badly somehow. Or, maybe it is that so much lipstick work is shiftless and more or less unadroitly done, that it doesn't seem to matter.

Our observation on the round disc rouge spots is that invariably the woman who most errs in this respect is the round faced one, who simply should not be guilty. Her cheeks are round enough already. Her face needs tapering, which can be helped by applying the rouge in a quarter-moon effect, getting in fairly close to the nose and continuing up around the curve of the cheekbone. And applied lightly, of all things. Better none at all than the heavy handed application in any shape or form.

Our conviction is that women generally beyond the flush of youth should be most chary of rouge. Those who are clever in applying it have no problem. But so many older women are not clever about this cosmetic item, and in such event our judgment is that it is far better to be pale cheeked than to be unskillfully rouged. The coloring does not help. It gives no illusion of youth whatever, unless it is blended with infinite skill, with never a sign showing where the rouge begins or ends.

Should you dye your hair? Read what Antoinette Donnelly has to say about hair dyeing in her booklet, "Bring Out the Beauty in Your Hair." You will find her advice helpful. George Brakeley Named Princeton Finance Chief Princeton, N. J., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Dr. Harold W. Dodds, president of Princeton university, announced tonight the appointment of George Archibald Brakeley, administrative vice president of the University of Pennsylvania, as financial vice president of Princeton university. A graduate of Princeton in 1907 and a former newspaper man, Brakeley has been an administrative officer of the University of Pennsylvania since 1927.

The Stage

An eleventh hour change in casting, substitutes John Cromwell for Derek Fairman as Marchbanks in Cornelia Otis Skinner's forthcoming production of George Bernard Shaw's "Candida." Mr. Cromwell has just closed a brief engagement in New York as Lord Byron in "Bright Rebel." The Shaw comedy comes to the Grand Opera house Jan. 24.

All Year Round Suit

WOMAN'S AND MISS' SUIT.

There was a time when suits were traditional attire for spring and autumn only. But modern styling has reduced the costume to bare essentials, so that a jacket ensemble now fits comfortably and smartly under winter coats. Women are wearing suits at all seasons of the year. Even in summer, when a rather raw day interrupts the succession of balmy ones, smart women appear in woolen two-piece ensembles.

The jacket and skirt costume sketched today is slim and impeccably tailored. The skirt is a simple affair with slight flare and plaits set in at the side seams, below the knee. The jacket may be made in either of two versions, one a regular dress jacket requiring no accessory blouse, and the other the standard suit coat with notched lapels cut low to allow for the blouse or sweater worn underneath to be seen. Both versions of the jacket have puffed sleeves, but there the resemblance ceases. The dress jacket has a high, round collarless neckline. The sleeves are short. Buttons are used all the way down the front and twin pockets grace the bustline.

Woolens are the best mediums for this suit. You may make the costume all in one fabric and color, or combine two.

Style No. 2821 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 2⅞ yards of 54 inch material for skirt and jacket and 1⅝ yards of 39 inch lining for the jacket.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing ten cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Through the Looking Glass

Among the most anguished of all the queries that come across the desk of the beauty writer are those concerning superfluous hair on the face. The consciousness of an abnormal growth is a feminine heartache more fortunate women simply can't appreciate.

We do feel that many women are overly sensitive about it. To their own eyes it often seems far more conspicuous than it does to the onlooker. But we've noticed that we don't get very far when we try to tell them this.

So, what to do about it? Plucking is dangerous. And if the offending hair springs from a mole, as it so often does, plucking is doubly dangerous. Moles aren't to be tampered with. If you have one and it's any place where you might irritate it by stroking or picking at it you'd best have it removed by your doctor. It's an extremely simple business.

The majority of experts advise against using depilatories on the face. They're a perfectly swell cosmetic development, actually, but their use is best confined to legs and arms where the epidermis is less delicate and sensitive. Shaving is absolutely silly; the hair growth will coarsen and might even get heavier. If you're wise you'll never start it.

There is always bleaching, which makes the dark growth far less conspicuous. If this is done consistently you can keep the growth light colored all the time. Antoinette Donnelly, by the way, has a grand formula for such a bleach.

And then there is electrolysis—so far the only known method that affords permanent relief, because if properly done it actually kills the growth. It's rather expensive, it's a bit hard on the nerves, and progress is slow, but it's the best remedy science has to offer at the moment. It's extremely important to have the work done by an expert. Our own idea, if it were our own problem, would be to ask a dermatologist to recommend the operator.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Book players" came to grief in question 38 of the recent examination, which was:

Both sides vulnerable, the bidding proceeds:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Double	?

You are South and hold:

♠ 9 7 6 5 4 2 ♥ None ♦ 5 4 2 ♣ J 8 4 3

What call do you make?

The answer was that South should take out to one spade; that this is the only situation in bridge that permits a "free bid" which is, in reality, a rescue. Many disgruntled readers wrote that they could find no authority for this in the Gold Book. In a sense it is gratifying to learn that this book is followed so literally, but I call attention once more to my oft-repeated assertion that "any one who plays 100 per cent according to any book is bound to become a wooden player." In this case, however, the correct answer could easily be found by the process of elimination on page 191 of the Gold Book. In discussing "Bids Over Opponents' Take-out Double" I set forth [a] "with strong hands, redouble with distributed strength, or make a jump forcing take-out with a freak; [b] with moderate hands, one to one and one-half honor tricks, take out in no trump or in a five card suit; [c] with hands weak in honors, but strong distributionally, make a shut-out raise or shut-out bid in a strong rebiddable suit. Finally, [d] with weak hands, pass unless a raise can be given."

Obviously, the hand in question 38 does not fit exactly into any of the four mentioned categories. It contains no honor strength, and neither does it contain a strong rebiddable suit. Obviously, South cannot raise hearts when void of the suit, nor can he even "stand for" a one heart bid. By pure logic, then, he should arrive at the correct solution of bidding one spade as an easily recognizable rescue bid. His six card spade suit is fully the equal, for bidding purposes in this situation, of a hand such as: ♠ A Q J 3 2 ♥ 2 ♦ 6 5 4 2 ♣ 6 5 4 2 In this case, also, one spade would be the correct bid.

It is patently impossible to cover in one book, however complete, the millions of bidding situations that arise, and I strongly commend my readers to use their heads when they encounter one that has not been specifically covered.

TODAY'S HAND.

The situation described below often is a trap for the average declarer:

Neither side vulnerable.

♣ K Q 7 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	2 diamonds	3 clubs	Pass
4 clubs	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

West opened the diamond king and East started an echo with the jack. The diamond ace then was cashed and, at the third trick, West led a low diamond, hoping that by forcing East to ruff with as high a trump as possible, declarer would be induced to overruff with an honor. The best East could do was the six spot, and declarer easily could have overruffed with the seven, but he did not fall into this serious error. He recognized the grave danger that the trump suit might not split 3-3. If there was a 4-2 split, and West had the four card length, it probably would be fatal for declarer to reduce his own trumps below West's level. Declarer could afford to give up another trick at this point if, by so doing, he retained full control. Instead of overruffing East's heart six, he merely discarded a low spade. East returned a spade. Declarer won with the ace and drew all the trumps, then ran the club suit, discarding his remaining spade loser on the fifth club.

Charles Swifts Give Party in N. Y. Fair Club

BY JUDITH CASS.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES H. SWIFT will return on Sunday from a short trip to New York. They went east especially to entertain a party of friends at the inaugural ceremonies of Swift & Co.'s World Fair exhibit building, a model of which Mr. Swift unveiled at the Terrace club on Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis L. Clarke, and William B. Traynor were the other Chicagoans at the ceremonies.

The Swifts will start preparing for another trip soon after they return. Early next month they will sail on the Columbus for a two months' cruise to South Africa. This will bring them back in time to attend the actual opening of the New York Fair on April 30, if they desire to be there for the occasion.

The Terrace club at the fair is going to be a favorite rendezvous with Chicagoans who belong to it, or who are fortunate enough to have guest cards. It is one of the most attractive places imaginable. The low white building on the shore of a man-made lake in the meadows upon which the mammoth fair is built promises to be just the sort of oasis that the Century club was at Chicago's Century of Progress. The club was the first of the fair buildings to be completed and as early as last summer members were enjoying it.

Front of Club Severely Modern.

The front of the clubhouse is severely modern; the back is a series of terraces going down to the water. Some of the terraces are open, others are inclosed, and the bottom one juts out into the water. It's for dancing.

The interior is modern, too, with a delightful freshness and yet an atmosphere of subdued elegance. Only the glass walled circular bar has a brilliant color scheme; it is Empire green and white. The lounge is in soft grays, chartreuse green, and coral. One wall is entirely of glass; the others are a warm gray. The carpet is a deeper gray and the chairs are gray and chartreuse. Coral sofas are in front of the fireplace, and the draperies are of heavy pale gray silk with darker gray sunflowers pictured on them. Pictured is the word, too, for the designs are neither woven nor printed; they are photographs, enlarged and reproduced on the material.

Dining Room Done in Gray and Yellow.

The dining room is in cool gray and a rich yellow, which is a cross between lemon and gold. The china and linens are in different shades of gray, and the whole is as stunning a room as I've ever seen. The ladies' powder rooms are triumphs in ivory, cocoa brown, gray, and Empire green. Green and ivory chairs, looking as though they had come straight out of "Alice in Wonderland," are spaced around the rooms, but close inspection reveals that only half of them are "sittable." The others are painted on the walls, but so cleverly are they done that one doesn't realize they aren't real except at close quarters. The draperies in these definitly feminine rooms are of ivory chenille.

Mrs. Fairbank is chairman of the Illinois committee of women who are serving on Mrs. Vincent Astor's national advisory committee, and Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher is the only woman member of the Illinois commission to the fair.

Teas to Follow Symphony Concert.

Mrs. Swift will be an absent hostess for the Cliff Dwellers' tea this afternoon following the Symphony concert. Before she and Mr. Swift left for New York she asked Mrs. Frederick A. Stock, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. John C. Murphy, Mrs. Errett Van Nice, Mrs. Barrett Wendell III., Mrs. Charles H. Morse, Mrs.

Style and Luxury in Gloves

[Selchow Photo.]

Handsewn pastel colored doeskin gloves in the new feminine manner. Fine fagoting and visible finger seams accent the luxury of the lether and the untrimmed backline. Pale gold, Bermuda blue, off white, honey beige, and a few bright colors comprise the present showing.

Fagoting Trims New Gloves of Lovely Doeskin

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Fagoting on a glove sounds rather unbelievable. Until you've seen these exquisitely fashioned new beauties flaunting luscious midseason colors and this particularly feminine adornment you will not have realized what effective contrast fagoting provides.

Bands at the extreme wrist edge are attached with fagoting in a thread that matches the fine stitches in the hand sewn seams.

Pinking, another old-fashioned trim, has been revived to charm anew. Shallow scallops pinked in a delightful sugar cookie outline are featured in some new delights in pale gold, English violet, a lovely new blue called Bermuda blue, and in other delectable shades. Though primarily designed for the resort wardrobes, these are smart finds for the shopper who is seeking unusual color accents to dramatize a dark winter outfit.

Most of the new arrivals are extremely short, the suit type or little girl style slipons, but there are plenty of the slightly longer numbers cut with a sharp flare to the cuff. It's the fine stitching, the clever decorative effects of tucks and seams, that make them the perfect feminine gloves of the year. Next in fashion importance are the many delightful colors. Pale old gold is destined for great popularity; it contrasts copper, brown, black, navy, and dark green with great distinction. It's a flattering way to gain unusual costume high lights, for it can be matched with belts and bags.

A café au lait tint, suitable for dowager or debutante, is an especially beautiful dress parade shade. Other lovely shades are leaf green and dull copper. These gloves are made by hand of the finest, most supple doeskin and wash with excellent results if you use care. They're the prize finds of the season.

Fashion photograph . . . the last word in feminine elegance and beauty, the new slipon glove trimmed with fine fagoting at the edge of the flared cuffline. Seams are sewed with the same seam thread and the unusual backlines are thrillingly simple. All pastels and a few high colors as well as white are available. The gloves can be washed.

Van Vactor Will Conduct His Symphony in New York

David Van Vactor, a member of Northwestern university's music faculty and a flutist in the Chicago Symphony orchestra, will conduct the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra in New York on Jan. 19 and 20 in the première of his prize winning Symphony in D major. Mr. Van Vactor has had representation on the programs of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, the Illinois Symphony orchestra, and the Saidenberg symphonietta. The St. Louis Symphony orchestra is playing his "Overture to a Comedy" this week.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Lubliner of 5103 Ellis avenue announce the marriage on Dec. 20 of their daughter, Gladys, to Louis Rubin of Miami Beach, Fla.

Recent Photos by Weston Put on Exhibition

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The exhibition of recent photographs by Edward Weston in the Katharine Kuh gallery, 540 North Michigan avenue, is one of the highlights among Chicago's January shows.

There are a hundred prints in the exhibit, all of which were made within the last eighteen months while Mr. Weston was working as a fellow of the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation. During that time he traveled more than 2,000 miles in California and made about 1,200 negatives.

Mr. Weston found material for pictures under all sorts and kinds of conditions, with the exception, apparently, of rain. His snow pictures from the Yosemite valley are among the most beautiful snow pictures we have ever seen. One or two are magnificent. The desert pictures are interesting for their expressive qualities. The burden of loneliness lies heavy upon them.

One intriguing photograph shows farming country, rather bare but with two farmhouses distinctly seen in the background and three lazily cropping cows in the foreground. Mr. Weston says of this that though it may look very simple to you and me, for him it meant four hours of waiting while those three cows slowly maneuvered themselves into the positions he wanted them for the picture.

The clubwoman's bureau, Mandel Brothers, offers an exhibition by three men this month. There are excellent photographs by John Gaither Roberts, wood cuts and water colors by Charles Turzak, and aqua-tints by William Sharp.

The aqua-tints by Sharp do remind one of Daumier, but the simile has been put to such hard use during the few days since the exhibition opened that Mr. Sharp must feel restless at having it brought up again. Granted the Daumier atmosphere, these rather sardonic impressions of persons and places are well done, clever, and amusing.

The Turzak water colors, particularly those early ones done in Czecho-Slovakia, are debonair and charming, full of color and an attractive humor. In the later work there are signs of a modern approach. The wood cuts are strong and forceful; one of the best is "Hamilton Riding During a Hurricane."

Declares Churches Must Be Pioneers in Welfare Work

In the future organized religion must leave more and more to secular agencies the management of established welfare matters, the Rev. Almon R. Pepper, New York, told members of the Church Mission of Help yesterday.

The Episcopal organization which helps unadjusted girls and young women was celebrating its fifteenth anniversary. The meeting was held in St. James Community house.

"That does not mean that the church will not always be interested in such welfare work," said the Rev. Mr. Pepper, who is executive secretary of the church's national department of social service. "The church must always be the pioneer in such matters, as it has been in the past.

"Modern education and medicine developed from church sponsorship. So in the social field the church must continue to be an explorer in new categories of welfare. The clergy in the future must be social experts and thus influence largely social development."

Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson, president, reviewed the mission's work.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

The Movie Patrons' Day in Court.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 12.—A few days back, in examining the great pictures that have been made in England recently, I asked the movie patrons to write in and tell me what they thought of the Hollywood product, and whether the movie makers out here were doing a full time job.

My idea was that the people who pay the freight would know more about the subject than anybody else, and that it was high time they were given a chance to speak out. . . . Judging from the avalanche of mail from every part of the country, the fans have been champing at the bit for the opportunity.

What's wrong with the movies? The fans utter a whole chorus of things that they resent; things that keep them away from their neighborhood houses.

1—Double features. 2—Hollywood's tendency to picture-cycles. 3—The same old faces in starring rôles. 4—The same old plots rehashed. 5—The distribution policy of the movies that covers neighborhoods with the same pictures at every theater. 6—The trailers that advertise coming attractions with old fashioned ballyhoo. 7—The practice of the movies in changing history so that a story will fit a star. 8—The overselling of performers before a picture is released. 9—Regimented product that fails to realize that movie discrimination has been developed.

It is not so much that the fans voice these specific protests . . . it is the vigor of their protests that carries conviction. . . . "We are tired to death of seeing stars that have basked in the limelight for years," writes a Brooklyn teacher. "There is nothing that these veteran stars can do to hold the interest of an audience. We anticipate every action, every vocal mannerism, every screen reflex. Get some new faces."

A girl from Youngstown, O., writes, bitterly: "In a city of this size, with seven theaters in the downtown district, only one is not a double feature. I don't see one-fourth of the shows I'd like to see—I haven't time to sit through a bad film to see a good one."

A fan from West Chicago says: "Censorship, American and foreign, has robbed the movies of power and bite. That's why the foreign pictures are gaining in appeal."

"One major trouble with Hollywood," ventures C. F. A., "is that very successful men [the movie moguls] will, even against their wills, be surrounded by courts of sycophants. Under such circumstances it is only too easy for them to conclude that their judgment is a degree above human judgment. So they impose that judgment on every one connected with them. Thus their errors are multiplied by their prestige. Let us have some of the work of those who do not agree with the masterminds. There will be mistakes and blunders, but at least the mistakes will be new and the errors fresh." . . . C. F. A.'s analysis of the Hollywood oligarchy is shrewd and penetrating.

"The man in aile 10," writes: "Have you ever seen Conrad Veidt in 'The Student of Prague,' directed by Galeen; 'The Fall of the House of Usher,' by Jean Epstein; 'Siegfrid,' by Fritz Lang; Lang's fabulous 'Metropolis' and 'The Amazing Woman in the Moon'; the fascinating abstract play of Moholy-Nagy's 'Study in Black, Light and Gray'? These films point the way to a richly creative cinema. Hollywood, instead, offers screens full of false eyelashes, fake scenery, sham emotions that are turned on and off like hot and cold water from a faucet."

Mrs. C. J. Hughes of Three Rivers, Mich., admits that this is the first time she ever has written a letter to a newspaper: "A studio produces a musical, and immediately and for months upon months, the market is drugged with musicals. Then the gangster cycle starts, and we have gangsters dying all over the screen, machine guns and sawed off shotguns cannonading. It was the same cycle with war pictures. Then we had the crazy comedies—and before we can catch our breath, a deluge of zanie comedies is upon us. The movie producers never give the great American public credit for having a few brains—nor realize that even too much ice cream and cake can get tiresome as a diet."

"People today, I believe," says Edward Saunig, "are in a different frame of mind; they want to see something that approximates their own lives. The 'Boy Meets Girl' formula does not answer today's demands. Witness the appeal of the Judge Hardy series."

A man signing himself "Molyneux" says: "Hollywood attempts to be too topical. On a moment's notice they get hack writers to dish up a dramatization of a page 1 headline. Hollywood stresses 'star system' instead of the story."

C. H. Thompson writes: "Too much confusion; let us consider a typical neighborhood program. The blasting of promotional music from the loudspeakers; the exaggerated frenzy of the trailers advertising next week's pictures; the current hectic double feature policy—one picture creating a beautiful impression, the next a negative or violent reaction. All this crowded into a period of three hours indicates that what the movies need is balance."

Too many fans complain of something that has annoyed all of us—the practice of the major companies in releasing the same pictures simultaneously to theaters of the same area. . . . As a result if you have seen the two pictures that are playing on one theater's double bill you stay home because the same pictures are at every other theater. . . . The distribution of pictures stifles trade.

More of this another day.

Here Are Ways of Creating a Good Appetite

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

The doctor listened.

"One more case of anorexia," he announced.

Sally's mother trembled. One more terrible disease for children to contract? The doctor laughed reassuringly. "O no," he said. "That only means that Sally has no appetite, or rather, has a poor appetite."

When you read yesterday's article did you stop, put down the paper and say, "O that's all very well, but Margie hasn't any appetite! Those tactics may work with some children, but Margie wouldn't eat a thing if I didn't poke it in spoonful by spoonful, or get her to do it herself by tricks of all kinds. Why, she eats scarcely a thing even this way. She's absolutely indifferent about food."

It is true, in spite of what some doctors may say, that there are children who have little appetite, though pediatricians recognize anorexia. Nevertheless, even if Margie is one of those children who has little appetite this coaxing-cajoling method we talked against yesterday is not the way to get nourishment into her. And while every child is, of course, an individual problem, here are some suggestions that are meant to apply especially to the child who has no appetite:

First, be quite sure this is true of your child. By that I mean be sure it isn't your own mistakes in management such as constant scolding, coaxing, or obvious anxiety about food that are responsible for your child's reluctance to eat.

Next, be sure there is no physical cause discernible by the doctor for this lack of appetite. But if there is, set about correcting it.

Three, withdraw all the fuss, anxiety, and coaxing about food.

Four, plan a day for your child that brings about a more zestful living, such as lots of vigorous outdoor play and interesting play indoors. And be sure plenty of sleep and a quiet or rest period figure in the day's plan.

Five, since your child's meals can't have the interest which appetite gives, create other sorts of interest in connection with the food, itself. Let your small son or daughter go to market with you, talk about how the food is grown or gets to us. Let him or her help put vegetables and fruit away, shell peas, scrub the carrots, and so forth.

And six, be sure meals are a pleasant occasion, letting Teddy or Dolly sit at the table, once in a while, providing individual china, and being cheerful and friendly during the meal.

You can make your child eat without forcibly making her eat.

"Your Child's Eating Habits" is a leaflet of interest to parents and nurses. Send a large, stamped, addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Hal Kemp Will Marry Martha Stephenson Today

New York, Jan. 12.—Special.]—Martha Stephenson, the blonde debutante, will be married to Hal Kemp, the band leader, in Pittsburgh tomorrow. Miss Stephenson, a popular member of café circles said that the wedding, originally announced for January 21, has been advanced because of changes in Kemp's engagements. She said he would be unable to be in New York on the twenty-first long enough to abide by the seventy-two-hour law.

Frederic Woodward, and Miss Katherine Witwer to assist at the tea.

Jacques Gordon and his string quartet will be the special guests at the Cordon's tea this afternoon. The quartet is giving a concert tomorrow night in Orchestra hall under the auspices of the Adult Education council. Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, Mrs. Robert Bachrach, and Miss Stella Roberts will pour, and Mrs. William Scott Bond and Mrs. George Zendt will receive.

Several to Lead Rag Cotillion at Casino.

Instead of having one man lead the rag cotillion at the party the governors of the Casino are giving tonight the committee in charge has persuaded several members to call one or more figures, which should add to the gayety. Just who those members are, however, Mrs. Huntington B. Henry, chairman of entertainment, is not revealing until the moment they rise to shine.

The dinner and cotillion promises to be one of the outstandingly successful evenings of the winter. The Casino has been sold out to its capacity of 250.

With the exception of Mrs. C. Morse Ely, who retired as a governor, all officers and governors of the Casino were reëlected yesterday. Mrs. Clive Runnels was chosen to succeed Mrs. Ely. Mrs. Frank Hibbard is president and Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman is honorary president.

The Daniel Leonards are giving a peasant supper at home in Winnetka tonight for the Brownell Bradstreets, who are leaving soon to live in Philadelphia.

Dearborn Alumnae to Meet Tuesday.

Reminiscences will be in order when the alumnæ of the old Dearborn seminary hold their annual business meeting and luncheon next Tuesday. Since it really is to preserve the memory and tradition of the old school that the women who studied there meet once each year, the committee in charge decided to let the old alumnæ give the program next week. Each year there are fewer of them, of course, for the school closed thirty years ago after having been open since 1850.

The annual meeting is held each winter on the birthday of the founder and former principal, Zuinglius Grover. This year's meeting, like last year's, will be at the Fortnightly club. Mrs. Charles A. Ford [Jennie Bacon], the president, will preside. Some of those active in the alumnæ association are Mrs. John G. McDonald [Camille Henry], Mrs. Frederic C. Woodward [Harriet Walton], Mrs. Leonora Hoyne, Miss Helen Gunsaulus, Mrs. Asa J. Caldwell [Bertha Ryan], Mrs. Walter E. Faithorn [Elsie Dixon], Mrs. Henry Bartholomay [Clara Seipp], Mrs. Ferdinand W. Peck [Tilla Spalding], and Mrs. Grover Winston, granddaughter of Zuinglius Grover. Mrs. Peck is the oldest living alumna; she was finished at the old seminary in 1866.

Passavant Aid Society Discusses Concert Plans.

Only a hostess with the sure touch of Mrs. James Ward Thorne could casually place a handful of daffodils in a copper container and make it a perfect centerpiece for a formal tea table. So, at least, is the opinion of the members of the Ladies' Aid society of the Passavant hospital who met at Mrs. Thorne's yesterday for tea and to discuss the appearance of Toscanini with his N. B. C. orchestra at the Auditorium on Jan. 31.

The concert is to be a benefit for Passavant. The best news heard at yesterday's meeting is that plenty of good seats for the concert still are available. A number of people who purchased tickets but then decided to go south near the end of the month have turned back their tickets to be resold.

Fourth of Chicago's Birds Stay for Winter Season

There may be those who believe the only birds seen in Chicago during the winter are the ever present sparrows. According to Dr. H. K. Gloyd, director of the Chicago Academy of Science in Lincoln park, nearly one-fourth of the 400 species recorded in the Chicago region may be found during the winter. To familiarize Chicagoans with these birds the academy has arranged a display of winter bird exhibits.

Maugham in America to Have Back Rubbed, Not to See His Movie

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—W. Somerset Maugham, the English author, disclosed on his arrival aboard the Rex today that he had crossed the ocean to have his back rubbed. He denied press agent stories that he had come to see the movie version of his book, "The Beachcombers."

Maugham said he believed New York osteopaths might succeed where French and English osteopaths had failed. His back, he said, had been pretty stiff ever since his automobile accident in France last September.

As for the movie: "I don't go to see my own dramatizations on the screen if I can help it," he said flatly, with an emphatic tug on his pipe. "I saw one on the boat. I'd never have recognized it."

Select Girls to Suit Your Budget, Boys

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"What do you think of a girl who will let a fellow spend more money on her than he can afford and never give him a sign that she appreciates a thing?

"Are all girls getting that way nowadays? I hear other fellows say they are. You show them a good time and all you hear is about the better time they had out with some guy with more money. You bring them flowers to wear. They take them and never seem pleased. Am I just old-fashioned in wishing girls would be a little more enthusiastic? JINKS."

First, Jinks, we think you are silly to spend more money on a girl than you can rightfully afford. You do not need to these days, because from all we've heard the girls are willing to compromise on what you can afford. Indeed, some of them will suggest the less expensive place of amusement if you give them a chance.

Of course, if you choose an expensive girl you've got to make up your mind to pay for her company. But you know the signs and could avoid them and her, couldn't you? If she's a spoiled beauty who demands the best the town has to offer, and you still prefer to parade her, then it's your mathematical problem how to do it.

Better be prepared, with these thankless creatures, to be cast off once a more extravagant rival hoves in sight. The same argument goes for your friends who decry the gold digging clan but love to be seen out with them.

We hear tell about the game played by wise young couples who count the cost beforehand and temper their pleasures accordingly. The game is to see how much fun can be gotten out of the money that easily can be afforded. That's a healthy atmosphere to move in, Jinks. It's good training for later on when you and the one girl have to get down to brass tacks and plan the budget.

We think Mr. Barnum had the word for the youth who splurges beyond his means on a girl who shows him not the least bit of appreciation.

"Sugar and spice and everything nice"—that's what a good cake is made of. And if you think all spices are alike we urge you to become acquainted with a de luxe line.

These spices hail from the four corners of the globe and unlike the ones you and I have probably been using, they've had all travel stains removed! They've been scientifically prepared to retain full flavor, but they've also been sterilized! They are pure, are of the highest quality. Yet they're not expensive.

Bottled in pretty white milk glass jars, each labeled, a set of them is fitted into birch cabinets in blond finish. EDITH WEIGLE.

WEEK-BY-WEEK RADIO CO. DEAR SIRS: ONE TUBE IN THE RADIO I BOUGHT FROM YOU WAS NO GOOD. I THINK YOU SHOULD REPLACE IT BECAUSE I THINK A RADIO SHOULD WORK FOR AT LEAST THE TIME IT'S BEING PAID FOR.
AND MINE WON'T BE PAID FOR FOR THREE MONTHS OR MORE. IT IS HARD ENOUGH TO SCRAPE UP 70 CENTS EACH AND EVERY WEEK WITHOUT BUYING ANY TUBES. PLEASE ATTEND TO THIS MATTER AT ONCE AND OBLIGE, SKEEZIX WALLET.
EVEN IF THEY DON'T COME ACROSS, I'VE GOT 'EM. I'LL THREATEN TO QUIT PAYIN' FOR THE RADIO.

WARNS CITY: TAX BOOST TO FOLLOW HEAVY SPENDING

Farr Attacks 221 Million Budget for 1939.

Increased taxes are inevitable if the city government continues to spend at the present rate, the city council finance committee was told yesterday by Newton C. Farr, vice president of the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency. He spoke at the public hearing on the proposed $221,200,000 budget for 1939.

Newton C. Farr.

Less than 150 persons attended the hearing, which was quiet and orderly in contrast to some held in the past. Farr said $47,200,00 is for liabilities of former years, $6,150,000 is for cost on 1939 taxes and that the balance of $167,850,000 is for 1939 expenditures, including $57,000,000 for the city's general operating [corporate] fund. It was on the last item that he centered his attention.

Against Higher Realty Tax.

"The only possible way we know to continue on the present expenditure scale would be to increase the local property tax," said Farr. "In our opinion, such a procedure would in the long run only add to our financial difficulties."

He said that expenditures from the operating fund dropped steadily from $55,896,000 in 1927 to $44,070,000 in 1934, but they now have risen to $57,300,000 for 1939. If continued, he said, this will lead back to payless paydays and unpaid bills.

"Mayor Kelly is to be commended for urging the finance committee to keep within the aggregate of estimated expenditures set by Controller Upham," Farr continued. "The mayor and the aldermen should handle the appropriations and expenditures with strength. The people want assurance that additional corporate taxes will not be sought during the coming legislative session."

No Specific Suggestions.

Farr said he had no specific suggestions. He said he considered necessary the $197,000 for removing railroad tracks from Chicago airport; the $270,000 item for improving Navy pier; $400,000 for the fight against syphilis, and $100,000 for moving the board of health to its new quarters at Hubbard and Dearborn streets.

"However," he added, "$100,000 is a pretty big moving bill."

The committee took the recommendations of Farr and others who appeared under advisement and will act on them at its meeting next Wednesday. It is possible that the budget may be submitted to the city council for passage at its meeting on the same day.

PAIR FACING TRIAL FOR CONTEMPT IN PARENTAGE ROW

Separate contempt charges, growing out of an alleged parentage fraud, will be heard by separate judges today. The principals are Mrs. Irene Leach Bitner of 1427 East 63d place, and her ex-husband, Rex Leach, 1433 West 63d street. She will appear before Judge Robert C. O'Connell and he before Judge John J. Lupe.

Mrs. Irene Bitner.

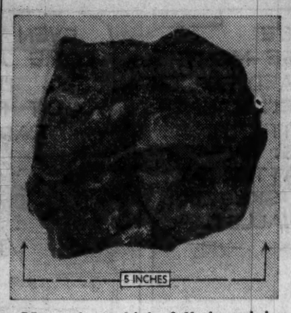
In 1937 Mrs. Bitner — then Mrs. Leach—obtained a divorce from Leach and support money for Barrett Leach, now 5 years old, whom she and Leach described as their child. Later she married Fred Bitner. Last summer she filed a petition to compel Leach to keep up the payments for the boy.

Leach countered by saying the boy was not his or his former wife's, but her sister's. At a subsequent hearing before Judge O'Connell and at a special hearing before a commissioner, it was testified the child was her sister's, although Mrs. Bitner added Leach was really the father. She was held in contempt. Leach's case came up yesterday before Judge Lupe. He denied the boy was his, but because he had admitted the boy was his at the divorce hearing in 1937 he was held in contempt.

STUDENTS DIRECT SCHOOL FOR DAY.

Rochelle, Ill., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—All activities of Rochelle township high school will be directed by students of the civics department on Jan. 19. Faculty positions will be filled by students as well as the office of C. A. Hills, superintendent. The student body today named a school board of seven members at an election.

An Illinois Meteor



Meteorite which fell in mining town of Benld, Ill. It was placed on display at Field museum yesterday.

The potential dangers to residents is illustrated by this diagram, which traces the path of the Benld meteorite through roof of garage (dotted line). The meteorite went through the seat cushion and floor board of the auto. It struck the muffler and bounced back into the cushion.

Where meteorite fell at Benld on Sept. 29, 1938. Among all recorded meteorites, numbering 1,300, only ten are known to have penetrated buildings.

A meteorite which fell in Benld, Macoupin county, Sept. 29, 1938, becoming trapped in an auto seat cushion, is being shown at the Field Museum of Natural History.

The Benld meteorite, one of a large number placed on view yesterday, has the distinction of being one of only ten such heavenly missiles known to have struck buildings. It went through the roof of a garage before hitting the auto.

There are about 1,300 recorded meteorite falls, according to Henry W. Nichols, chief curator of geology, none of which is known to have hit either man or animal. The Field museum, with the world's largest collection, has parts of eight of the other nine which struck buildings, and all or part of many of the total known to have fallen. The Benld one is the second known to have dropped in Illinois, the first landing near Tilden on July 13, 1927. The Benld meteorite weighs about four pounds.

DUPES SALESMEN TO GET SAMPLES AT HOME SHOW

Robert A. McDonald, 18 years old, 4840 North Troy street, had what he considered a harmless racket. Posing as a department store buyer, he visited the furniture convention exhibits in the Palmer House and the Stevens hotel. He left good orders, and the grateful salesmen gave him household furnishing samples.

Sergts. Jerome Looney and James Condon of the confidence detail caught him yesterday afternoon. McDonald had about $100 worth of salt shakers, kitchenware, and household novelties in his possession. Police said he represented himself as A. J. Hill Jr. of Sheboygan, Wis., son of a department store owner, and buyer for the store. He told police he was a pupil in the Roosevelt High school.

ILLINOIS RIVER BELOW PEORIA AT RECORD LOW

Lake Diversion Cut May Cause Trouble.

Beardstown, Ill., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Record low stages of the Illinois river below Peoria have been established in the last few weeks at Beardstown, Havana, and other towns.

While the stream's level now has started climbing slowly due to recent rains, residents of the area fear the river will be even more severely affected by the reduction of Lake Michigan water diversion. On Jan. 1 the diversion of water was reduced to the minimum of 1,500 cubic feet a second ordered by the Supreme court.

Hits Record Low.

The Illinois river here dropped to a record low of 6.8 feet and now stands only slightly above seven feet. At Havana a stage of 5.25 was recorded last Thursday, the lowest level reached there in the twenty-five years that records have been kept.

The low water level was responsible today for the yacht Albatross being halted at Peru, en route to South America from Chicago. The boat was turned back to Marseilles on the advice of waterway engineers. Owned by J. E. Ryan of Chicago, the boat draws 6½ feet of water and is equipped with both motor and sails. The boat was a part of the Borden expedition to the arctic in 1927 and a year ago Ryan made a trip across the Atlantic in it. It is 43 feet in length.

Sandbars Are Visible.

Numerous sandbars are visible in the river at a stage of seven feet. One of the largest of such bars lies just below the Beardstown river bridge, at the right of the river channel. This bar, which has been in view for many months and grows flowers in summer time, is constantly growing larger due to Diesel powered crafts stirring the muddy river bottom.

Ferries usually in operation below here are not running now because of the low river stage. Ferries have been closed since Dec. 29 at Montezuma, in Scott county, and at Pearl and Kampsville, in Greene county.

PAROLEE GUNMAN FINED; NOW MUST RETURN TO PRISON

John Goryl, 23 years old, a paroled convict, was fined $200 on a charge of disorderly conduct yesterday by Judge Francis Borrelli. He will be returned to Joliet penitentiary for violating parole. Goryl, who lives at 5214 South Troy street, was arrested on Dec. 5. Policemen found him sitting in an automobile at Ashland avenue and 93d street wearing a woman's blonde wig and holding a shotgun. The police said he told them he was waiting to shoot a young woman who had refused to go out with him. Goryl was sentenced to the penitentiary in 1935 for automobile theft and was paroled in 1937.

IRENE CASTLE M'LAUGHLIN ILL IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin of Chicago, the former dancer, was confined to her home here today suffering from a nervous breakdown.

At the RKO studio, where she is supervising a motion picture, it was said that worry over an alimony battle with her husband, Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, was believed to have led to her illness.

Mrs. McLaughlin's secretary reported she left the studio Monday night in a state of nervous collapse and is now under a doctor's care. RKO officials said that a picture based on the life of Mrs. McLaughlin's first husband, Dancer Vernon Castle, probably will be completed without her assistance.

Retired Real Estate Man Is Found Shot to Death

Joseph H. Roth, 60 years old, a retired real estate operator, was found shot to death last night in his room at 2226 Dayton street. A revolver was clutched in his right hand. His landlady, Mrs. Minnie Sharpe, told police she knew of no reason why Roth should kill himself.

SILVER SKATES DERBIES ARE POSTPONED ONE WEEK

MILD WEATHER FORCES CHANGE; 3,835 ENTERED

Senior Men Top List with 829 Names.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The twenty-second Silver Skates Derbies, which were scheduled for tomorrow and Sunday in Garfield park, have been postponed until Jan. 21 and 22 because of weather conditions. The list of 3,835 boys and girls who had entered the eight derbies will be eligible for the races when they are held.

When the dates were granted by the Illinois Skating association an option for the following week-end also was given. If Chicago has freezing weather, but not enough to hold the events on the Garfield park lagoon, they still may be shifted to another site, as were the C. Y. O. races last month. This course was considered as a possibility yesterday, but weather forecasts, while indicating that Chicago might have freezing weather, did not promise that it would be cold enough to make possible the construction of a skating course at one of the larger parks in the Chicago park district.

First Since 1934.

The postponement is the first since 1934 when the meet was held at night in La Follette park after mild winter weather had precluded use of the Garfield park site. It is necessary to hold the Derbies where there are adequate facilities for the contestants.

The eligible list of contestants for the 1939 races remains the same. No post entries will be accepted. For the first time in several years the list of those seeking the Silver Skates in the men's Derby [18 years old and over] leads. Eight hundred and twenty-nine are registered for this derby. These contestants will compete in the one mile preliminaries. The championship will be decided over a two mile course.

The age classes and number of contestants in each follow:

DERBY.	NUMBER.
Boys' midget, under 12 years	450
Boys' juvenile, 12 and 13 years	678
Boys' junior, 14 and 15 years	699
Boys' intermediate, 16 and 17 years	655
Men's senior, 18 years and over	829
Girls' junior, under 16 years	378
Girls' intermediate, 16 and 17 years	87
Girls' senior, 18 years and over	59

Names Go to Printers.

The names of all contestants have been submitted to the printers to complete the program, and all preparations have been made for holding the races. If they cannot be held next week-end announcement will be made after that time concerning date and location. At the first opportunity, even if it becomes necessary to hold the Derbies in the evening, the trials and championships will be run off so that the succession of champions will be intact. In 1933 the races were not held because of an unusually mild winter, but with this exception the continuity of Silver Skates goes back to the first race in 1917.

The list of awards remains the same. The eight champions will receive Silver Skates. Those finishing second and third in each age class will receive chromium and bronze skates, respectively. Fourth and fifth place awards in the championship events are silver and bronze medals. More important, all skaters who win their preliminary races will be awarded gold medals and all contestants will be given a bronze souvenir button.

RIDDLE REJECTS $1,000,000 OFFER FOR MAN O' WAR

No Movie Lots for Hero of American Turf.

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—An offer of $1,000,000 for Man o' War, greatest thoroughbred ever developed in this country, has been turned down. This was disclosed today by Samuel D. Riddle, owner of the great horse. The offer was made by Louis B. Mayer, Hollywood motion picture producer and owner of a large stable of race horses. The offer and its refusal brought to light the love of an owner for a great horse and the plans he had made for the star of the American turf.

Samuel Riddle.

Mayer dropped into the offices of the Faraway farm in Kentucky, where Man o' War has spent many years since he retired from racing, and told the man in charge that he wanted to get in touch with Mr. Riddle.

"I am offering $1,000,000 for Man o' War," Mayer said. He was told that the horse probably could not be bought at any price.

Another Guess Coming.

"I think he can be bought for my price," Mayer said. "Please get in touch with Mr. Riddle." When the offer was finally conveyed to Mr. Riddle, he turned it down instantly.

"Man o' War is not for sale at any price," Mr. Riddle said.

Riddle considers Man o' War, now 22 years old, as he would a member of his family.

"I have made a trust fund for Man o' War," he said. "In the event Mrs. Riddle and myself go before him, he will continue to have the same care he has been accustomed to as long as he lives. We all love him. He never will leave our care."

Riddle plans to bury the great horse beneath the statue of his daddy, Fair Play, in Elmendorf farm, owned by Joseph E. Widener, just outside Lexington, Ky. There lie both his sire and dam, Mahuba.

A Record Offer.

The price of $1,000,000 far exceeds anything that ever has been offered for a race horse or a sire in the history of the American or English turf. The greatest price ever paid for a horse was $300,000 for Call Boy, winner of the Epsom Derby. This topped the $265,000 paid by a South American syndicate for Tracery, owned by August Belmont.

"I don't know what Mr. Mayer wanted with Man o' War, but I thought he might want to use him in pictures. And I would not want that. They would not know how to treat this old fellow. He is happy and contented where he is," Riddle said, "and that is the way I want it."

The only other instance generally known to the turf where a trust fund was put up for a horse was that established a number of years ago by Frank Kerns, trainer for the Calumet farm stable. He had a cheap plater named Spugs who had been the bread winner. Spugs always could go out and win a purse when the bank roll was low and groceries were needed at home. So in a period of prosperity Kerns set up a trust fund for the old plater.

A New Angle: Dog Bites Fish.

Leslie Hein, Fox Lake [Ill.] sportsman, is planning to buy a fishing license for his small dog, Mugs. Your readers won't believe the story, of course, but here it is: Les was fishing through the ice in Mineola Bay on Fox lake when a twelve pound pickerel snapped the smelt he was using for bait. The line broke, but the pickerel, instead of breaking for deep water, became enraged at the mutt, which had been barking furiously all the while, and leaped from the water to attack him. Mugs accepted the challenge, caught the 40 inch beauty in his jaws and held him until Les could apply the coup de grace. —Pop.

CUBS DEFY JINX; 13 PITCHERS WILL REPORT AT CAMP

Five Rookies to Try for Places on Staf.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The 1939 training trip hasn't even started, but Charles Leo Hartnett, whose Cubs have a National league title to defend, already is defying the voodoo man. Charles Leo has his pet superstitions, but among them, apparently, isn't any fear of the well known jinx number—thirteen.

There are exactly that many pitchers on the Cubs' roster at the moment and, says the Cub manager, every last one of them will be taken, or at least invited, to the Catalina Island training camp which opens on Feb. 23.

The Sox roster also shows thirteen pitchers, but actually there will be only a dozen in action at Pasadena, Cal. The thirteenth on the list is Monty Stratton, whose pitching days ended six weeks ago when he lost his right leg as the result of a hunting accident.

Harrell a Newcomer.

Most all of the thirteen athletes who will try to hang on to Hartnett's mound staf throughout the summer are well known hereabouts, some for the good they have done in a baseball way and some for their failures. Five are rookies who have made fleeting appearances in Cub uniforms. One is Ray Harrell, purchased last month from the St. Louis Cardinals, who regarded him as too wild to be worthy of hire. Hartnett thinks there's a chance to correct the defect.

One of the boys returning for another fling is Gene Lillard who, as an infielder, went away in the deal which brought Joe Marty from San Francisco. Lillard is coming back as a pitcher, a department he willingly turned to after becoming convinced he had a riflelike arm. He was with Los Angeles last season, winning sixteen while losing ten, even though absent the last six weeks because of a fractured ankle.

Carnett Only Stranger.

The lone 100 per cent big league freshman among the thirteen is one Ed Carnett, who will be in on the training trip party merely because he is figured to have future possibilities. He's a youthful left hander, also purchased from Los Angeles. Scout Jack Doyle was on the coast last summer to scout Fred Hutchinson, the Seattle pitcher recently sold to Detroit, and during his travels had several glimpses at Carnett. Doyle liked the fellow's mound actions, and his pitching stuff. So a deal was consummated.

Walter Kirby Higbe is back. He's the lad who made three starts for camp last spring, but never got there. He always turned back to his Carolina home and the club finally turned him over to Birmingham, which is closer to home. Others recalled are Albert Paul Epperly from Indianapolis and Newel Kimball from Birmingham.

But when the weather and the flag race grow hot most of the pitching probably will be handled by Clay Bryant, Bill Lee, Diz Dean, Larry French, Charley Root, Jack Russell, Harrell, and possibly Vance Page.

Reveal Plans for Stratton Benefit Game

BY EDWARD BURNS.

More than 100 fun lovers last night attended the first annual "Diamond Dinner" of the Chicago chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America in the Palmer House.

While the mood was mainly frolicsome there was a serious interlude in which Warren Brown, master of ceremonies, reviewed the plans for the Monty Stratton benefit game between the White Sox and Cubs which will be played in Comiskey park on April 17.

According to the announcement, tickets will be placed on sale today at both the White Sox and Cub offices. It was made known that usual prices, ranging from 55 cents to $1.65, will prevail. Gross receipts will go to the Sox pitcher, whose right leg was amputated six weeks ago. There will be no dipping into the fund for any expenses whatsoever.

Manager Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs gave interest in the game new impetus by announcing at the dinner that Dizzy Dean will be his starting pitcher.

Jim and Gabby Star.

In addition to an elaborate and moist dinner there was an extensive program of entertainment. The program included blasting skits, with baseball officials, radio announcers and the writers themselves as principal targets. Manager Hartnett and Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox, who also attended, were among those who submitted to character analyses.

Among the most riotous features was a movie, purporting to be historical. Many of the scenes were taken from the old files of major movie companies, some of them even showing views of the open saloon, though it was not quite clear why these should be shown in connection with the labors of the writing ilk.

It's Really Amazing.

Another wow was the acrobatic act put on by Wilfrid Smith and Howard Martin of the Tribune staf. The two athletes put on some amazing Japanese tumbling and finished off with humorous patter.

On the legitimate drama side there was a performance by Howard Roberts & Co. of the Chicago Daily News staf, featuring players impersonating the Dead End Kids.

Charley Grimm, ex-manager of the Cubs, who has earned almost professional rating with his banjo strumming and monologs, was a show-stopper, although he came without his $400 instrument. The committee on arrangements had succeeded in borrowing a guitar so the musical phase was not neglected.

RUPPERT PASSES QUIET DAY; STILL DANGEROUSLY ILL

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Col. Jacob Ruppert, 71 year-old brewer and owner of the New York Yankees baseball team, spent a comfortable day in his home today, but still was in a critical condition with phlebitis, an inflammation of the veins, which first attacked him last April.

After spending most of the day with Col. Ruppert, Dr. Otto Schwerdtfeger, his physician, left the home at 5 p. m., remarking that there was no perceptible change from the grave condition of his patient in the last few days.

During the day Col. Ruppert chatted with his secretary, Al Brennan, and relatives at his bedside, and was able to take a little nourishment.

Leafs Defeat Canadiens, 9-4; Season Record

Montreal, Que., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Toronto set a new team scoring record for the season tonight and Syl Apps a new individual high as the Maple Leafs trounced the Montreal Canadiens, 9 to 4, in a National Hocky league game.

Paced by Apps, who scored four goals and assisted in another, the Leafs moved into fourth place ahead of the Chicago Blackhawks, who lost to the Rangers.

Drillon and Apps got Toronto's first two points and Metz and Apps made the score 4 to 1 at the end of the first period after George Brown had scored his first goal of the season. The Leafs scored four times and the Canadiens twice in the second period. The teams slowed down in the final period and only two goals were scored, one by teach team.

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Scoring practically as they pleased, the New York Rangers had little difficulty smothering the world champion Chicago Blackhawks in Madison Square Garden tonight. While tallying easily, the Rangers kept their goal inviolate, handing the Hawks a 6 to 0 shutout.

By their defeat the Hawks, who won the Stanley cup last April, sank to fifth place in the National Hocky league standing. The Rangers bolstered their hold on second place, four points ahead of their city rivals, the Americans, who were idle tonight.

The game was the fourth of the season between the teams and the fourth shutout. Chicago won by scores of 1 to 0 and 5 to 0, and the Rangers by 1 to 0 and 6 to 0.

A crowd of nine thousand saw the dull and listless game. Aside from the frequent scoring of the winners there were very few bright moments.

Hawks Try Hard, But——

The Hawks tried desperately to make a fight of it, but were unable to organize any effective attack. It was their third defeat in the four games since Bill Stewart, who managed them last year, was discharged as their pilot.

Although definitly superior from the start, the Rangers scored only once in the first period on a goal by Phil Watson. They found the range in the second period, Neil Colville, Mac Colville, and Bryan Hextall each blasting a shot into the net. Hextall made himself the game's top scorer by beating Goalie Mike Karakas again in the third period. Cecil Dillon also scored in this period.

Seibert's Rushes Fail.

Chicago made a slight show of aggressive power early, with big Earl Seibert turning in a couple of thrilling solo rushes. When these advances proved ineffective the Hawks were forced to withdraw into their own zone, there to await the Rangers' onslaughts. The fast skating blue shirts were in on Karakas often, but it was not until 7:23 of the opening period that they were able to beat the Chicago goalie.

Their one goal advantage did not cause the Rangers to loaf in the second period. Instead they attacked at every opportunity until they had their runaway lead.

Robinson Misses Net.

The Hawks pressed near the end of the game trying to get at least one score and they came within an ace of destroying Kerr's shutout. Earl Robinson had the puck directly in front of the New York cage, with Kerr on the ice, but the Hawk forward, in his haste, shot wide of the net.

Ruth plans to take it easy for a few days and then resume his golf, fishing, and other recreations.

COVELLI MEETS JAPANESE BOXER IN WHITE CITY

Umio Gen Is Colossal; Evans Says So.

Frankie [Kid] Covelli, Brooklyn 128 pound boxer, who upset the nationally known Al Mancini on Dec. 29, will try to use Umio Gen, stranger from Japan, as a stepping stone to further honors in a ten round bout tonight in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. Covelli's triumph over Mancini has not caused Gen or his handlers any undue worry.

"Gen is the best featherweight to invade this country from the orient," Bobby Evans, representative of Umio, said last night. "He'll give Covelli all the trouble he cares to handle. Umio is colossal, he's stupendous, he's—"

Verle Davis, Golden Gloves lightweight graduate of Kankakee, will meet Willie Ross in a five round secondary feature. Jake Carter, Savoy Athletic club middleweight, tackles Art Lind, highly regarded newcomer from Alborn, Minn., in one of four contests at four rounds. Others bring together Kenny Bell, Quincy, Ill., 124 pounder, and Jimmy Santora; Bill Palmer, Catholic Youth organization 172 pounder, and Star Harvey, and Marion Mosley, south side heavyweight, and Mike Adler.

There will be three other shows this evening, between amateur boxers. These are scheduled in Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street; Lake Shore Athletic club, 850 North Lake Shore drive, and South Shore Country club, 7059 South Shore drive. George Dion, Kankakee welterweight, is paired with Leon Harris of Chicago in one of a series of intercity contests to be held in the Madison club. . . . Dick Kist, successful 150 pounder of Danville, Ill., will meet Bobby La Monte in a five round semi-final to the Ken Overlin-Billy Celebron ten rounder in Marigold Gardens Monday. Tony Motisi, C. Y. O. 145 pounder, will try for his seventh consecutive pro victory in a four rounder against Alex Pug of Brighton Park. . . . Milt Aron, Chicago welterweight, has been offered a ten round headliner with Sammy Luftspring in Toronto, Ont., Jan. 23. . . .

Wladyslaw Talun, giant Polish wrestler, who is managed by Stanislaus Zbyzsko, returns for a mat clash with Fritz von Schacht in White City Monday.

Verne Patterson, who suffered a brain concussion in his losing battle with Indian Billy Lee last Monday, yesterday was pronounced recovered by Dr. Frank A. Lagorio and discharged from Columbus Memorial hospital.

A check of entries yesterday for the annual amateur boxing tournament in the Illinois Athletic club Jan. 17, 18, and 25 revealed that the Savoy A. C. has entered thirty-four boys in the meet. Thus, the south side club now has the edge in numerical strength over eleven other clubs which have entered teams.

The next largest entry is from the Catholic Youth organization, which has twenty-four candidates. In view of the Savoy's increased entry the C. Y. O. is expected to enroll additional boys. The organization has won the team trophy in each of the last five years, a fact which has made Savoy delegates determined to break the monopoly.

Eighteen inches high, the trophy is a coveted prize. There are forty-eight other prizes. F. M.

Tilden had a 10 to 9 lead at the half but the score was tied, 18 to 18, after three quarters. Near the end of the fourth quarter Viscant sank two free throws to tie the score again at 28 to 28. In the extra period Dowell opened the scoring with a field goal which soon was matched by Petchul. Dowell again sank a short shot but with fifteen seconds to play, Viscant made two free throws.

McKinley beat Medill, 29 to 27, and Crane beat Foreman, 40 to 18, in other games.

HALL DIVIDES WITH BOZEMAN; RETAINS LEAD

Allen Hall and Jay Bozeman divided the fifth and sixth blocks of their 600 point three cushion billiards match in Bensinger's Wabash recreation yesterday, but Hall, with a sixteen point margin in the afternoon block, led at the end of the sixth block, 275 to 264.

Allen won the afternoon session, 50 to 34, in fifty-two innings, with a high run of four. Bozeman took the night block, 50 to 46, in forty-two innings, going ahead of Hall in the last few frames. Jay had a high run of five last night, marking up that total three times.

They will meet again today and tomorrow in afternoon and evening games, preliminary to the opening of the world title three cushion meet, which opens Monday afternoon. The first game will send Tiff Denton of Kansas City against Bozeman at Bensinger's Monday afternoon. They will play again Monday night and Denton will move to the Pioneer Arcade, 1535 N. Pulaski road, Tuesday to meet Hall.

HEIKKINEN, STAR MICHIGAN GUARD, SPURNS PRO GAME

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Ralph Heikkinen, Michigan's star football guard, announced today upon return from the East-West New Year's game in San Francisco that he would not accept professional offers for next year. He will coach and attend law school next year, he said. Heikkinen had been awarded to the Brooklyn Dodgers in the National Professional league draft last month.

BEN HOGAN'S 66 TAKES LEAD IN OAKLAND GOLF

Oakland, Cal., —Jan. 12.—(AP)—Ben Hogan, one of the mighty mites of the professional golfing clan, came charging home today to post a par-shattering 66 for the first round lead of the 72 hole $5,000 Oakland open tournament.

The 26 year old, 138 pound former Texan, now playing out of White Plains, N. Y., started late and finished fast to lop four strokes off par for the short and not overly exacting Sequoyah course. He was out in 32 and home in 34. Par is 35—35.

Snead Ties at 67.

Two other dark horses and a seasoned campaigner were close enough to grab the leader's coat tails.

Stationed in the 67 column were Ed Oliver, Wilmington, Del., Clayton Heafner, Greensboro, N. C., and Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Oliver and Heafner each shot cards of 33—34. Snead reversed the figures.

Another tournament veteran, Horton Smith of Chicago, was close to the pace with a 37--31—68. His four under par second nine was the lowest of the day.

Demaret Gets a 69.

Grouped at 69 were Jim Demaret, Houston, Tex., with 35--34; Dick Metz, Chicago, 35—34; Zell Eaton, Oklahoma City, 37—32; Charles Sheppard, Pleasanton, Cal., 35—34; John Perelli, Tahoe, Cal., 34—35; Mark Fry, Oakland, 35—34, and Amateur Bill Higgins of Oakland, with 34—35.

Even par was equaled by Willard Hutchinson, Philadelphia, Pa., 36—34; Leonard Dodson, Springfield, Mo., 35—35; Charles Congdon, Tacoma, Wash., 35—35, and Marvin [Bud] Ward of Olympia, Wash., member of last year's Walker cup team.

Farr, Burman Meet Tonight; Tom's Hopeful

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—The fact that tomorrow is Friday the 13th holds no terrors for Tommy Farr, the Welshman who has fought four heavyweight battles on American soil without scoring a victory. He will seek his first triumph in Mike Jacobs' all-heavyweight program in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night, with Red Burman, Jack Dempsey's protegé, as his opponent. They are scheduled to go ten rounds.

Farr, who never has been accused of reticence during his sojourn in this country, insists he still wants another shot at Champion Joe Louis, who gave him a licking in their only other meeting. The Welshman also has lost to Max Baer, Jim Braddock, and young Lou Nova, but feels that a victory over Burman may send him well along the road to another championship bout.

Two other ten round bouts and three at four rounds, all involving heavyweights, complete the supporting cast for the Farr-Burman feature. In one of the ten rounders Roscoe Toles of Detroit will meet Gus Dorazio of Philadelphia, while the other will bring together Buddy Knox of Dayton, O., and Chuck Crowell of Los Angeles. The feature boxer of the four round schedule will be 18 year old Pat Comisky, the Jersey boxer who will be making his second New York appearance, with a reputation as a knockout puncher.

A.A.U. League Teams to Meet in Coliseum

Missouri Valley A. A. U. league basketball will be resumed tonight in the Coliseum, where a double header is scheduled starting at 8 o'clock.

The Missouri Valley league game will pair the La Salle Hotel Cavaliers and the Fruehauf Trailers of Tulsa, Okla., formerly the D-X Oilers. The Cavaliers have played twice in the Coliseum, losing a one point battle with the Parks Clothiers of Oklahoma City and avenging that defeat by six points in a later contest. Followers of the A. A. U. games say they are smoother and faster than the collegiate variety.

The opening game is between Macomb Teachers and St. Mary's college of Winona, Minn., coached by Ed Krause, former Notre Dame football and basketball star. Krause is a former De La Salle star from Chicago's south side.

Chicago Boy in Lineup.

Skeezix Vaickus, formerly of De La Salle, will be in the St. Mary's lineup. Vaickus is a junior at St. Mary's this year. At De La Salle he was on the basketball team for four years and was quarter back on the football team for two years. Last year he was high scoring all state guard in Minnesota.

The Fruehauf Trailers have added two former college stars to their lineup for the game with the Cavaliers. They are Ray Dice, six foot two inch guard from Northwestern Oklahoma State Teachers college and Don Dean, six foot three inch forward who played for Central Oklahoma Teachers college.

Meyer Leads Cavaliers.

Ray Meyer, star forward and captain for two years at Notre Dame, is coach of the Hotel La Salle. He also is one of the team's leading scorers. Other members of the Cavaliers include Cy Singer from Indiana, Leo Meison from New York university, and Paul Amundsen from the University of Chicago.

A specially built floor and glare proof glass backboards are installed in the Coliseum for basketball.

PITTSBURGH TO WITHDRAW FROM EASTERN GROUP

Pittsubrgh, Pa., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—The University of Pittsburgh will withdraw from the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball conference, according to a member of the athletic staf, who said that Athletic Director Jimmy Hagan had left for New York with the intention of presenting the school's resignation. The conference officials met in New York today to draft the 1940 schedule.

Pittsburgh's action, which will not affect the present season's schedule, is said to be due to the fact that it does not consider most conference members natural or otherwise keen rivals. It was said that non-conference games with West Virginia, Penn State, and Carnegie Tech will be continued.

Schueneman-Flynn Team ScoresUpset in CueTourney

The Schueneman-Flynn's Portage Park team scored an upset in the northwest section of the Chicago Amateur Billiard association three-cushion tournament by defeating the Bensingers, 35 to 26, in forty-six innings last night. Results of other matches:

Garden Recreation, 35; Samuelson's Arcades, 33.
Leland Recreation, 35; Pioneer Billiards, 32.

Lenc, Augustana End, Signs a Dodger Contract

Rock Island, Ill., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—George Lenc of Silvis, Augustana end for three years, has been assured a tryout with the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Football league. Lenc, when signing the contract, indicated he will study law at an eastern school. Lenc is the first Augustana player to receive a professional football contract.

Will Make Pins Fly and Aid Blind Children

Rivals in tomorrow night's bowling match to raise funds for the purchase of Master's Eye dogs for blind children gather at the Catholic Youth organization center to talk it over. Left to right: Charles Murphy, John Rigney, Jack Elder, and Billy Webb, four of the six who will represent the Sports Stars, and Paul Krumske of the Pabst Blue Ribbons. The C. Y. O. is sponsoring the match in C. Y. O. center.

Webb vs. Hartnett

The feud between the White Sox and the Cubs will be resumed tomorrow night when the Pabst Blue Ribbons and the Sports Stars meet in a benefit bowling match in the C. Y. O. center, 31 East Congress street.

The baseball rivals are Gabby Hartnett, Cub catcher, and Billy Webb, White Sox coach. Although they both will be on the Sports Stars team, they will be trying to beat each other's scores.

Rolling on the same squad with Hartnett and Webb will be John Rigney, White Sox pitcher; Charley Murphy, former star basketball center of Loyola university; Chick Evans, former national amateur golf champion, and Jack Elder, former Notre Dame track and football star. These six will roll against five Pabst stars. A year ago the Sports Stars defeated the Pabst five by twenty-nine pins.

Proceeds will go to the Catholic Youth organization blind children's fund. The funds will be used to provide several blind children with master's eye dogs.

Beilfus Water Polo Team Beats La Follette Park

The Beilfus Natatorium water polo team defeated La Follette park, 13 to 3, last night in the Beilfus pool. It was a Chicago association game.

BRADDOCK WILL CARE FOR DAD; K. O.'S RELIEF BID

North Bergen, N. J., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—James J. Braddock, former heavyweight boxing champion, today informed local relief authorities that he was going to take care of his father and that the elder Braddock's relief application, filed yesterday, could be disregarded.

Joseph Braddock, 76, applied for help to overseer of the poor, Louis Raimann. He said he had asked neither Jim nor any of his six other children to help him.

Jim, informed of this, said: "He shouldn't have done that. He knows I'll take care of him, but he's never asked for anything."

As soon as the news came out, friends of Braddock began insisting that he could'nt have known of his father's difficulties, or he would have helped him.

They recall that Jim himself was on relief when he started on his comeback trail four years ago by defeating Corn Griffin in a fight which netted him $250. He had been trying to support his wife and three small children on the meager funds which relief afforded him.

So proud was the champion that when his fortune began building up he repaid with interest everything he had received from relief funds.

Minor Hocky League to Cut Receipts Three Ways

Grant Boosts Wayne Sabin for Cup Team

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Bryan M. Grant concluded today the United States has a better than even chance to retain the Davis cup—provided Wayne Sabin isn't overlooked.

A veteran of big time tennis at 28, but prepared to carry on as long as his legs last, Grant agreed the loss of Don Budge was a blow, yet insisted the United States has a "wonderful" opportunity.

"We have two fine players on our side right now, who, I believe, could team together and retain the cup unaided," Grant said. "One is Bobby Riggs and—this will be a surprise to a lot of people—the other is Wayne Sabin."

Calls Him Key Man.

"You can say for me that Sabin is the 'key man,'" he continued. "He is a fine singles player, probably second only to Riggs, and in my opinion is the best doubles player in the game today. I think he could pair with either Riggs or Gene Mako and win easily."

Grant has paired with Sabin, unranked in the national list for 1938 performance, in two tournaments this year. Each time they lost in the finals to Mako and Jack Tidball, Los Angeles veterans.

About His Own Chances.

"If they don't put Sabin in there with either Mako or Riggs, I think the committee will be making a very foolish mistake," Grant said emphatically. "The Mako-Tidball team is good, but that lineup couldn't stack up against one with Sabin in there."

Grant had little to say of his own chances, but admitted he was "gonna try to slip into the lineup." He thinks the squad will be made up of Mako, Riggs, Sabin, Joe Hunt and either himself or Frankie Parker.

RECORD FIELD IS READY FOR NORGE SKI CLUB'S MEET

More Than 100 Compete Sunday Near Cary.

More than 100 ski jumpers, the largest number of contestants ever to compete, will be listed in the final field of the Norge Ski club's thirty-third annual tournament Sunday afternoon near Cary, Ill. Included in this group is the largest title class entry list ever received by the Norge club.

Assurance of cooler weather over the week-end and this assembly of top flight jumpers make a new distance record for Cary hill almost certain. The present record, 201 feet, is held by Paul Bietela, who will defend his claim.

Norwegians Arrive Today.

Olaf Ulland and Reider Andersen of Norway, outstanding in the championship flight, will arrive in Chicago today. Ulland, holder of the world distance record of 336 feet and the only skier ever to be given a perfect score in a European ski tournament, and Andersen, who has jumped 331 feet in competition and who has won the international event in Holmenkollen, Norway, three times, will enable the Norge club again to send ranking foreign skiers against the best in this country.

Neither Ulland nor Andersen ever has jumped from the Norge slide, largest in the central states. Both are daring performers.

Resume Personal Feud.

In addition to matching their skill against the American skiers, who include in their number four members of the last Olympic team and a former national champion, Ulland and Andersen will resume a personal feud that has left many European hill records in its wake. Although Ulland has turned in the most impressive individual performances, Andersen is consistently skilful and was classed by Sigmund Ruud, another noted Norwegian skier, as the world's greatest jumper in his recently published book, "Crossing the Ski Trails."

The east will send five representatives to the Cary hill meet. At the head of this group is Harold Sorenson of Norfolk, Conn., holder of the eastern title. It will be the eighth time Sorenson has bid for the Norge club title. Sorenson has finished second twice in previous appearances on the Cary slide. Nick Nyland, New York state champion, is another highly regarded performer.

Eugene Wilson Entered.

Eugene Wilson will come from Coleraine, Minn., with a fine record in competition. Last year he surprised ski fans by twice defeating Ruud, who was in the United States on an exhibition tour. In 1935 Wilson won the class B championship in the Norge meet.

Recovery of Le Moyne Batson, Berwyn schoolmaster, from a slight injury sustained last Sunday in the Oconomowoc, Wis., tournament, will strengthen Chicago's bid. Batson will team with Olaf Thonevold, who came to the United States recently from Norway and who is a graceful ski stylist; Gunnar Oman, captain; Martin Wingsness, competing in class A for the second season, and George Gundersen, who established four hill records last year, to represent the Norge club.

Kruse Service Station Bowlers Take Lead

The Kruse Service Station team went into first place in the city bowling tournament by shooting an aggregate score of 3,086 last night on Stack-Ryan alleys, 1133 Milwaukee avenue. Jack Much was high scorer with 654. Next in line was Henry Wester's 651. Other scores: Lee Zender, 595; Roy Coles, 597, and Matt Faetz Sr., 589.

MRS. SCHWAB, 79, WIFE OF STEEL MAGNATE, DIES

Constant Helper in Mate's Rise from Obscurity.

New York, Jan. 12. — [Special.] — Mrs. Charles M. Schwab, wife of the steel magnate, died today in her Manhattan home. She was 79 years old. For several years she had been a virtual invalid and on Christmas day she suffered a heart attack.

Mrs. Charles Schwab. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

At the bedside were her husband, with whom she would have celebrated their 56th wedding anniversary on May 1; her sister, Mrs. Marshall Ward, and a niece, Mrs. Paul Walters. The Schwabs had no children.

The death of Mrs. Schwab ended a union which began in 1883 in a small Pennsylvania town where Schwab, then an obscure workman, was employed in one of Andrew Carnegie's steel mills.

Aids with Experiments.

Schwab, a country boy reared at Williamsburg and Loretto, Pa., met his future wife when he began boarding in her mother's home at Braddock, Pa., where he was an engineer in a steel mill.

After their marriage young Schwab and his wife set up a chemistry laboratory in their home and Mrs. Schwab helped him with experiments.

When he was once offered $50,000,000 for a half interest in the Bethlehem Steel corporation, Schwab discussed the gigantic deal with his wife and declined the offer on her recommendation. He had pointed out that half of what he had belonged to her and that were they to sell her share and invest the proceeds at 5 per cent it would bring her an income of more than $100,000 a month for the rest of her life.

Turns Down Offer.

"What would I do with the money and what would you do without your work?" Mrs. Schwab replied. "We wouldn't sell for five times that offer."

Most of Schwab's philanthropies were partnership projects with his wife.

Funeral services will be held at the Schwab home on 73d street, just off Riverside drive at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Burial will be in Woodlawn cemetery.

They were delivered yesterday by a mid-wife at the couple's three room farm home on Cuckles creek. The mother is the third wife of John Benjamin Burroughs. They were married 18 years ago when she was 15. They have five other children and Burroughs has nine children by his previous wives.

THE BATH'S WILL BARES AN ESTATE OF ONLY $22,500

Ald. Coughlin's Sister, Niece Get Income.

The will of John J. [Bathhouse John] Coughlin, for forty-six years alderman of the 1st ward, was filed yesterday with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. A petition accompanying the will, which was dated March 14, 1938, estimated the estate's value at $22,500. It listed $7,500 in real estate and $15,000 in personal property.

The will provides for a life income of $100 a month for Mrs. Katherine Coughlin, of 312 North Menard avenue, the alderman's sister. [She is the widow of Police Sergeant William Coughlin.] Upon her death, the income is to go to her daughter, Ann, for the rest of her life.

Brother Ignored in Will.

The late alderman's brother, George, of Glendale, Cal., the only other kinsman, was not mentioned in the will.

Upon Ann Coughlin's death, the balance of the estate is to be divided equally between Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], a friend of many years, and Fletcher Robertson, who was Ald. Coughlin's chauffeur. Ald. Bowler was named executor, but he has withdrawn in favor of Robertson.

The low estimate of the estate's value was a surprise to the late alderman's friends, who had believed he had substantial holdings in city real estate.

Lower Estimate Hinted.

Ald. Bowler intimated the estate may be worth even less than the estimate, although this tentative figure may be raised when an inventory is completed. "It probably will be eighteen months before everything is straightened out," he added.

A hearing to establish proof of the will was set for Feb. 13 in the Probate court.

Ald. Coughlin died of pneumonia on Nov. 11 at the age of 78 years.

BULK OF SILVER SUBSIDY PAID TO FOREIGN GROUPS

Benefits Gamblers, Hoarders Abroad.

[This is the second of a series of articles on the administration's silver policies. The third will appear in an early issue.]

The silver buying program of the Roosevelt administration, over which a new congressional struggle is promised, in one respect is unlike any of the other New Deal subsidy measures.

Senator Townsend seeks quiz of silver scheme.

The program has put millions of dollars into the treasuries of a few big mining companies and was the means by which many "insiders" and speculators were able to realize substantial profits in the silver market. It has, however, unlike most subsidies, meant more in dollars and cents to foreigners than to American citizens. In this respect, it is unique.

Billion Spent in Five Years.

The United States treasury has spent a little more than a billion dollars in the last five years in striving to accomplish the purposes of the silver purchase act. Eighty-two per cent of this amount, or more than 800 million dollars, has been paid out to foreign producers and hoarders.

Although the sums paid out to domestic producers have run into millions of dollars, they constitute only a small fraction of the program's total expense to the taxpayers.

The principal beneficiaries of the effective log rolling tactics of the silverites in congress have been foreign silver producers and speculators. It has been pointed out by critics of the silver policy that the subsidy to domestic silver producers could be doubled in size at a saving to the taxpayers if the silver bloc in congress would relieve the treasury of its obligation to buy foreign silver.

Millions to English Monopoly.

During the period when the treasury was making direct purchases of silver in the London market it poured millions into the hands of English dealers that had a virtual monopoly on that market.

It was estimated that four London firms collected close to a million dollars on commissions alone on the business done for the treasury. What additional profit the firms and their associates may have made by market operations in anticipation of the changes in the treasury's buying price is not known. The opportunity for such profitable speculation was conceded to be almost unlimited.

The treasury changed its buying methods after it failed in its attempt to raise the world price for silver to the $1.29 an ounce goal established by the purchase act.

Price Rises and Falls.

The price of silver rose from 49 cents an ounce in August, 1934 [the month the metal was nationalized] to 81 cents in April of 1935. After the treasury withdrew from the London market in December of 1935 the price fell to 45 cents an ounce. The metal is now quoted at 43 cents.

Throughout the period that the treasury has been operating in the market there has been the opportunity for those familiar with the treasury's plans to make profitable market commitments. The purchase act imposed a 50 per cent tax on profits made by Americans in foreign silver markets, but foreigners who knew the ropes could still profit on their information.

Investigation Is Demanded.

Two days after congress convened at the beginning of this month a demand was made in the senate for a complete investigation of the administration's silver program. Senator John G. Townsend [R., Del.] introduced a resolution calling for a joint congressional committee to go into the matter.

Townsend moved for the investigation within a week after President Roosevelt exercised his discretionary power to continue premiums being paid to domestic producers. The treasury had urged the President to cut the price. He ignored this advice under pressure from the silver bloc and continued for six months the price of 64.64 cents an ounce.

N. Y. Exchange Trims Fees to Draw Listings

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—A new schedule of listing fees was announced today by the New York Stock exchange. The change reduces the listing fee and provides for a continuing fee extending over a fifteen year period.

The two principal aims in making the changes were:

1. To make listings more attractive to companies not now listed.

2. To provide a more stable annual income for the exchange.

Officials of the exchange said it is desirable to encourage listings on the part of companies of substantial size and national interest which may have been deterred by the large initial listing fee that has been in effect. The initial fee for registering stocks has been reduced from $120 for 10,000 shares to $50.

Chicago Action Recalled.

In some quarters it is said that the exchange may have been inspired to reduce the initial listing fees by the successful campaign by the Chicago Stock exchange to attract listings of well known companies to that board.

Explaining the move to get a more stable income, officials said that in past years revenues from fees have been large in good years, when shares were being listed actively, and have dropped sharply in other periods.

The fifteen year continuing fee provides a charge at the rate of $75 per 100,000 shares for the first 2,000,000 shares and $50 per 100,000 in excess of 2,000,000 shares.

Future Effects Cited.

It was said that under the new system "present stockholders are not required to pay for the advantages of the market place to be enjoyed indefinitly by future stockholders.

Companies wishing to do so may pay one fee for all time, as in the past.

The exchange also announced a basic initial fee for bonds and securities of a similar type of 1.2 cents per $100 principal amount and a basic initial fee of 0.6 of a cent per $100 principal amount on bonds of a maturity of five years or less. There will be no continuing fee for bonds. The old listing fee for bonds was $120 per $1,000,000 face value.

Companies which have listed stock since Dec. 1 will be able to pay on the basis of the new schedule.

PUBLIC BUILDING AWARDS CLIMB; OTHERS DECLINE

Public engineering construction awards in the five days ended Jan. 12 were the highest on record and 309 per cent above the like 1938 period, the Engineering News-Record announced yesterday. Private engineering construction awards were lower than in 1938.

Totals for the current week, the preceding short week, and the corresponding 1938 week were:

	This week.	Last week.	Last year.
Private	$ 9,981,000	$11,077,000	$15,791,000
Public	109,745,000	75,918,000	26,799,000
Total	$119,726,000	$86,995,000	$42,590,000

New construction begun in the nation in December set a ten year record, F. W. Dodge corporation reported. Awards totaled $389,439,000, of which $279,403,000 represented public construction and $110,036,000 privately owned projects. The figure is 86 per cent higher than in December, 1937, and 29 per cent above that of November, 1938.

NATIONAL TEA WORKERS FAVOR A. F. OF L. UNION

Wholesale department workers of the National Tea company yesterday voted two and one-half to one in favor of representation by an American Federation of Labor union. The Wholesale Grocery Clerks' union, an A. F. of L. unit, polled 369 votes to 143 for the United Grocery Clerks' union, which is affiliated with the C. I. O.

The election was conducted by the national labor relations board at the company's main office and warehouse at 1000 Crosby street. Leonard C. Bajork, head of the Chicago NLRB office, said the vote entitles the A. F. of L. union to represent all warehouse workers.

The election grew out of a dispute between the two unions. The A. F. of L. union refused to join a strike in 1937 called by the C. I. O. union. The strike lasted four months.

From another source it was learned the machines are single engine planes with a range of 800 miles, capable of carrying 800 pounds of bombs. Their top speed is 290 miles an hour.

SEC Uses Ax on Lawyers' Fee Requests

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—Lawyers coming to the Securities and Exchange commission with a list of fees for approval are now aware that the SEC is keeping an eagle eye on fat totals that will stand slicing.

Recent cases have indicated that the commission is taking advantage of its powers under the public utility holding company act of 1935 to slash fees asked in connection with utility reorganizations.

Denies Any Special Drive.

An official of the SEC maintained today that the commission is making no special drive on lawyers' fees. He contended that fee applications are given no closer inspection than other matters that come before the SEC.

In this connection it is expected that the certified public accountants of the nation will find their practices subjected to close scrutiny in the SEC's current probe into accounting and auditing methods.

The SEC has evinced marked displeasure with the handling of audits in the now notorious McKesson and Robbins case. It has undertaken an investigation of the procedure followed by Price, Waterhouse & Co. in its audits of the drug company.

May Request Legislation.

This inquiry will be expanded into an investigation of general accounting and auditing practice in corporate affairs. A high official of the SEC, in discussing the McKesson case, hinted today that legislative recommendations for the accountants may be a result of this investigation. Virtually all of the SEC's investigations have resulted in recommendations of one kind or another.

The most recent example is the investment trust probe, which will result in an SEC program for closer regulation in this session of congress.

BANK CLEARINGS FALL, BUT STILL EXCEED YEAR AGO

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Bank clearings for the twenty-two leading cities of the country totaled $5,697,066,000 in the week ended yesterday, a decline of more than $674,000,000 from the high total of the five day week ended Jan. 4. However, clearings were still 15.9 per cent above the corresponding period a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

The loss from the preceding week is seasonal in that the second week in any month customarily shows a decline. In the second week of January last year, a decline of more than $896,000,000 was registered.

Turnover of checks in New York City during the week amounted to $3,618,586,000, which was a sharp gain of 20.1 per cent from the $3,014,069,000 recorded in the corresponding week of last year.

Chicago volume of $294,300,000 was .2 of 1 per cent below $294,800,000 a year ago.

CARGILL SEEKS TO CANCEL GRAIN ELEVATOR LEASE

Cargill, Inc., has taken steps to cancel its lease on the Chicago and North Western railroad's large grain elevator in South Chicago, effective June 30, it was learned yesterday. However, officials of the road said last night that negotiations for a new lease are in progress.

Cargill, large Minneapolis grain company, renewed the lease on the 10,000,000 bushel elevator last June, with the privilege of canceling it on six months' notice. Intention to vacate was made known to the road a few days ago in a letter from J. H. MacMillan Jr., Cargill president, to Fred W. Sargent, North Western president, and Charles P. Megan, trustee for the road.

MacMillan's letter contended the $178,542 yearly rental is too high. It added that Cargill's structure adjoining the railroad's could be expanded to provide a similar handling capacity at "a fraction of the operating cost" of the rented elevator. In addition to the $178,542 rent, the lease calls for certain payments per bushel if more than 25,000,000 bushels of grain is handled in a year.

Cont. Illinois Bank May Hike Its Dividend

Stockholders of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company will hold their annual meeting today. Afterward the directors will meet. It is expected the board will increase the dividend on the bank's common stock.

Continental Illinois, whose 1938 earnings totaled $15,565,518, has been paying in recent years at the rate of $1 semi-annually on its common stock. The 1938 earnings, after allowing for dividends on the preferred stock, were equivalent to $9.63 a share on the 1,500,015 shares of common stock outstanding at the end of the year.

Directors of the Metropolitan Trust company elected Daniel J. Healy a vice president and Edward A. Glaeser an assistant trust officer.

Walter M. Heymann, chairman of the board of the Liberty National Bank of Chicago, withdrew as a director at the bank's annual election because of a section of the Clayton act, which will become effective Feb. 1. This prohibits interlocking directorates of banks. Heymann is vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago.

2 CLOSED BANKS MAKE REFUNDS TO DEPOSITORS

Repayment of $46,537 to 7,000 depositors of two closed state banks has been made, State Auditor Edward J. Barrett announced yesterday. The banks were the Lincoln State bank and the Twelfth Street State bank, Berwyn. Checks for the return were distributed Monday.

A 4 per cent repayment, amounting to $36,120, was paid to about 5,000 depositors of the Lincoln State bank. This is the first refund since the bank closed.

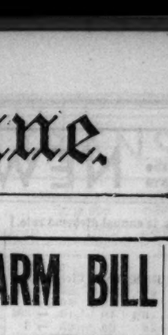
Approximately 2,000 depositors of the Twelfth Street State bank of Berwyn were paid 5 per cent, amounting to $10,417. This brings total repayments of this bank to 32½ per cent.

NEW FARM BILL SIGNALS REVOLT ON OLD SCHEME

'Cost of Production' Basis of Measure.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—The farflung revolt against the New Deal's farm dictatorship law was illustrated today by the introduction of a substitute bill signed by eighteen senators from fifteen states. The bill would repeal the existing compulsory production control act, with its subsidies from the federal treasury.



Senator Capper supports new farm plan.

The new nonpartisan farm bill is similar to the McAdoo-Eichen "cost of production" measure, which failed by only six votes to pass the senate last year. It is expected to have much more support in congress this year because of the collapse of the New Deal farm program and the disaffection registered at the polls in November.

Provisions of New Bill.

The new bill combines the old domestic allotment principle with minimum price fixing, to give the farmer an average cost of production, plus a salary and a capital return on his investment equal to the average interest rate on farm indebtedness.

The secretary of agriculture would estimate the percentage of each crop that would be required for domestic consumption and the percentage that would be left for warehouse reserves or export. He would determine also the farmer's average cost of production for each crop, plus salary and capital return.

Processors or dealers would be required by law to pay the cost of production price as determined by the secretary on the producer's proportionate share of the domestic allotment.

What Farmers Would Get.

For example, if the secretary found that 80 per cent of the wheat crop would be required for domestic consumption, the farmer would receive the prescribed cost of production price on 80 per cent of his wheat.

For the remainder of his crop, the farmer would receive a warehouse receipt. The dealers would be required to deliver the surplus to the secretary of agriculture, who would dispose of it "to the best advantage in the world market," and pay the farmers whatever it brought.

Whenever the world price of any commodity fell below the domestic cost of production price, the secretary of the treasury would be required to levy a duty on imports equal to the difference between the world price and the cost of production price, plus 10 per cent of the cost of production price. This is intended to protect the American market for the American farmer.

View Consumers Penalized.

Although the new bill contemplates no production control and no subsidies from the federal treasury, critics of the scheme say it would result in penalizing the consumer. The farmer would still be getting a subsidy, with the consumers rather than the general taxpayers footing the bill, they argue.

Supporters of the plan assert that such has not been the history of commodity price fluctuations.

Senator Ellison D. Smith [D., S. C.], chairman of the agriculture committee, did not sign the new bill but he has been working on a similar plan and is expected to accept the one introduced today.

Signed by Eighteen.

The eighteen signers were:

Senator Lynn J. Frazier [R., N. D.], Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], Senator Elmer Thomas [D., Okla.], Senator William J. Bulow [D., S. D.], Senator Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.], Senator Henrik Shipstead [F.-L., Minn.], Senator Ernest Lundeen [F.-L., Minn.], Senator Rufus C. Holman [R., Ore.], Senator Homer T. Bone [D., Wash.], Senator H. H. Schwartz [D., Wyo.], Senator Robert M. La Follette [Radical, Wis.], Senator Arthur Capper [R., Kas.], Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.], Senator Chan Gurney [R., S. Stocks Slump on Roosevelt's Arms Message

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 12.—The stock market steadied in the last hour of trading today. The rally reduced losses ranging to around three points registered earlier when traders dumped stocks heavily in response to President Roosevelt's armament message.

The list opened higher and remained better throughout the forenoon. Shortly before midday an easier trend developed as the defense message was printed on the board tape. An orderly decline gave way to a rout during the third hour, with offerings pouring in sufficiently to tax the ticker tape.

Aviation Group Swings Widely.

That the President's defense message was found wanting was indicated by the action of the aircraft division, which got the biggest play of the session. Some observers were of the opinion that the appropriations had been largely discounted, while others suggested — sardonically — that Wall street regarded them as too meager.

The President's message was considered to have obscured other domestic and foreign news, including estimates of better car loadings and developments in Rome, where British-Italian conversations are in progress.

Price swings were wide in the aircraft group. Early advances of fractions to as much as 2 points were lost and replaced by equal setbacks at the height of the selling, and the close found most of them fractionally lower.

Pivotal Issues Gyrate.

Pivotal industrial shares also swung widely. United States Steel, Youngstown, Bethlehem, Republic, and General Motors, after showing losses reaching 2 points, came back to close fractionally lower.

Chrysler, selling at 73¼ in the early afternoon, climbed back to close at 76¼ for a fractional gain. Continental Motors, in the best volume of the day, gained ¼ point. Yellow Truck also closed higher.

Coppers followed the general list, with the leaders posting losses of less than 1 point. Rail stocks moved narowly. Changes in the public utilities were mostly fractional, with interest relatively small.

Mail order issues pared midday losses to close fractionally lower. Oils did likewise.

FREIGHT TRAFIC SHOWS DECLINE FROM YEAR AGO

Freight loadings in the week ended Jan. 7 registered the first decline from the corresponding year ago volume after seven consecutive weeks of advance. The relatively smaller freight shipments last week was attributed to the holiday on Jan. 2, which did not occur in 1938 and 1937.

The Association of American Railroads reported yesterday that loadings in the first week of this year totaled 530,849 cars, an increase of 30,954 cars, or 6.2 per cent, over those in the preceding week, but a decline of 21,719 cars, or 3.9 per cent, from those in the corresponding week a year ago. Compared with loadings in the like week in 1937, the total dropped 169,197 cars or 24.2 per cent.

The association's classified report of commodity loadings follows:

YEAR'S INTERNAL REVENUES SLUMP IN CHICAGO AREA

Internal revenue collections for the Chicago area in 1938 fell $40,000,000 as compared with 1937, Carter H. Harrison, collector, reported yesterday. The total for 1938 was $379,475,154, against $419,260,348 in 1937.

A loss was shown in all classifications. The greatest decline in any one division was $16,600,000 in the miscellaneous tax groups, which includes tobacco, narcotic, playing card and oleo taxes. In 1938 payments on this classification were $74,247,632, compared with $90,988,705 in 1937. Last year's income tax collections, for both individuals and corporations, declined nearly $8,000,000. The payments were $219,297,942, in 1938 and $227,196,806 in 1937.

Social security tax payments fell $14,000,000 with 1938 collections listed at $63,216,565, against $77,501,652 in 1937. On distilled spirits revenues was $18,316,786 in 1938 and $20,940,380 in 1937.

CHICAGO CORP.'S ASSET VALUE IS BOOSTED IN 1938

Rail Holdings Sold by Investing Firm.

Chicago corporation, largest investing company in the middle west, yesterday reported a substantial increase in its net asset value in 1938. After allowing for preference stock at stated value and accrued dividends, net asset value totaled $1.57 per common share on Dec. 31, 1938. This compared with 84 cents a common share on June 30, 1938, and 51 cents a share on Dec. 31, 1937. The company reported that during the last quarter of 1938 it liquidated nearly all of its holdings of railroad shares. It also sold a large block of Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company stock. Aircraft manufacturing, retail trade, food, and metal shares were added to the portfolio.

Richard Wagner, president of Chicago corporation.

Net assets at Dec. 31, 1938, had an indicated market value of $34,045,254. This was equal to $60.19 a share of the 565,650 outstanding shares of preferred stock. During 1938 the corporation purchased and retired 20,950 shares of its preference stock at an aggregate cost of $682,613.

Net Income $795,862.

Net income from interest and dividends was $795,862, equal to $1.41 a share on the preference stock. This compares with net income of $1,815,449, equal to $3.09 a preference share, in 1937.

Selling of Continental Illinois bank common was the only important change made in the insurance and finance section of the portfolio. A total of 8,740 shares was disposed of, leaving 25,000 shares on Dec. 31.

Substantial purchases were made in the aircraft manufacturing group.

New commitments in the "intermediate banking" field during the year included an advance of $500,000 to Corpus Christi corporation and an agreement to invest $502,000 in Industrial Sugars corporation. Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Most bonds, excepting the low yield division, declined with the stock market today. Rails led the descent.

There was a difference of opinion in trading circles as to how deeply the market was affected by the President's message recommending large spending for armament. With the selloff in stocks, however, after the message was released, there was a considerable increase in offerings in loans of speculative character, resulting in a wide list of losses ranging up to 2 or more points.

The general run of top grade corporate liens held to an even line and United States government issues finished 1-32 to 3-32 higher.

STORAGE BUTTER SETS RECORD FOR START OF YEAR

Large Amount Is Held by Federal Agencies.

Storage butter stocks in the United States on Jan. 1 stood at an all-time high mark for that date, the federal bureau of agricultural economics announced yesterday. Although substantially smaller than on Dec. 1, stocks were almost three times larger than on Jan. 1, 1938, the bureau said.

Holdings totaled 127,805,000 pounds on Jan. 1, 1939, compared with 42,953,000 pounds on Jan. 1, 1938. Stocks were 73,752,000 pounds above average holdings on Jan. 1 for the ten years 1928 to 1937, inclusive. Traders on the Chicago Mercantile exchange said total holdings were about 3,000,000 pounds heavier than they anticipated.

Federal Agencies' Holdings.

Included in the carry-over were 87,074,000 pounds of butter held by the government-subsidized Dairy Products Marketing association, 1,531,000 pounds sold by the DPMA to the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation and still in storage, and 6,232,000 pounds turned over by the FSCC to the states for relief distribution.

Jan. 1 butter reserves, however, were 31,449,000 pounds lower than stocks on Dec. 1, 1938, the bureau said.

The report showed that the subsidized DPMA purchasec a total of 113,740,000 pounds of butter in 1938. This amount was bought in attempts to prop falling butter prices.

Pork in Storage Increases.

A large increase in cold storage stocks of pork occurred during December, the department of agriculture disclosed yesterday. On Jan. 1 storage plants held 426,058,000 pounds, an increase of 126,916,000 pounds over the Dec. 1 total.

Other meats also showed increases during December. Jan. 1 holdings of beef at 58,350,000 pounds were up from the 52,637,000 pounds on Dec. 1. This compared with 60,970,000 pounds a year ago and a five year average of 112,602,000 pounds.

HALF OF C. & O. 30 MILLION BOND ISSUE IS UNSOLD

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Half of the $30,000,000 Chesapeake and Ohio 3½ per cent refunding bonds, publicly offered a month ago, still are unsold, it was learned today.

Prevailing investment apathy toward railroad issues was blamed for the resistance to the new issue, which received a triple A rating by two investment organization and a double A by two others.

Underwriters report two of the five leading insurance companies have bought the bonds, but that the others have indicated they are reducing their rail holdings.

Offered at 101½ by Halsey, Stuart & Co. and Otis & Co., the bonds are quoted in the outside market at 100½ to 101, although a syndicate bid of 101⅛ is being maintained.

IS IT GAIN OR LOSS?

Investors' Guide: This business of figuring gains and losses on stocks sold, to include in my income tax report, has mixed me up pretty badly. Perhaps you can help me. I bought ten shares of Chrysler in 1934 at $30 a share. Then I bought ten more in 1935 at $60. Last year I was forced to sell ten shares at $50. As I left the stock with a broker, I have no way of telling definitly whether I sold the shares bought in 1934 or the second ten bought in 1935. May I assume that the shares were those bought in 1935 at $60, so that I can deduct a loss from income?—H. E. V.

Answer: Unfortunately for you, you cannot make such an assumption. The tax ruling is that, when you cannot identify the stock you sell, you must use the "first in, first out" rule. That is, it is assumed that the stock you bought first, at $30, was the same stock you sold at $50. You must include 50 per cent of the gain [percentage used for stocks held more than two years] or $100 in your income. You have a gain instead of a loss.

If you can identify the stock sold as that which was bought on a certain date, then the price you paid on that date is used in figuring the gain or loss.

MILWAUKEE STOCK ASSESSABLE?

Investors' Guide: I have a few shares of both the preferred and common stocks of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad. Is there some chance that in a reorganization, I, as a stockholder, might be forced to pay an assessment? I would rather get rid of it than take a chance on being assessed. When are stockholders assessable? —D. P.

Answer: No, you will not be liable for an assessment from the Milwaukee road. The stock was fully paid —buyers paid the full par value— when it was issued. If a stock has not been fully paid for, then shareholders are liable for an assessment as large as the difference between the par value and the issue price.

WHY NO DIVIDENDS?

Investors' Guide: What I am wondering is why I didn't get a dividend on my class A and B stocks of the Middle States Petroleum corporation. I saw in the paper a couple of weeks ago that these dividends had been declared. What should I do to get mine?—H. R.

Answer: We find no record of a dividend declaration by Middle States Petroleum. An item in the paper recently said that the company's certificate of incorporation had been amended to permit dividends.

TRADERS LIMIT SPECULATION IN WHEAT MARKET

Speculative operations in the wheat market were on a relatively small scale yesterday. Prices fluctuated in an erratic manner within a range of ⅝ cent. May wheat developed independent strength and closed ¼ cent higher. The new crop months were ⅛ to ¼ cent a bushel lower.

Lack of export demand had a depressing effect on corn. Futures closed ⅛ to ¼ cent a bushel lower. Improvement in the outlook for the new Argentine corn crop has slowed the European demand, brokers said.

Buying of May wheat was led by brokers who frequently act for cash interests. The pit operations were regarded as reflecting sales of cash grain to the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation. There was buying of a like character at Kansas City.

Plan for one-way trafic system between loop and Oak Park which Mayor Kelly yesterday promised to support. The proposal would extend eastward and westward the existing one-way system in Warren and Washington boulevards between Garfield and Union parks. East of Union park Washington would be used for eastbound trafic only, while westward boulevard trafic would use Randolph street. West of Garfield park Washington would be for eastbound trafic only while westbound trafic would use first Maypole avenue and then West End avenue. The plan, it is believed, would relieve congested west side trafic. (Story on page 14.)
